In Words of the Oil Decision, Government Charges Unreasonable Restraint of Trade.

EASTERN MEN ACCUSED

Suits Against Other Associations to Follow — Proof Offered in Their Own Documents—Charges Denied.

As the first of a series of important prosecutions of trade associations which are said to have established a firm grip upon the lumber business of the country, the Government began suit in the United States Circuit Court here yesterday under the Sherman law against the Eastern States Retail Lumber Trade Association and nine other lumbermen's associations in its membership. The defendant organizations are charged with a conspiracy to maintain undue and unreasonable restraint of the lumber trade of the United States.

The bill is filed by United States District Attorney Henry A. Wise and bears the personal indorsement of Attorney General George W. Wickersham. James A. Fowler and Clark McKercher, assistants to the Attorney General, and Assistant United States District Attorney Felix Frankfurter have been engaged in the preparation of the action.

Word came from Chicago last night that agents of the Government had been engaged in an investigation in the West of similar combinations operating in the lumber trade. While no official statement was made there, suits are anticipated in that jurisdiction in the near future, as a Washington dispatch indicated that the undertaking of the Attorney General has a much wider scope than the Eastern District of New York.

Unreasonable Restraint Alleged.

The bill filed here sets forth largely by means of copies of original documents, letters, by-laws, and resolutions of the various lumbermen's associations, an arrangement between the parties defendant in the suit, to divide up and classify the lumber trade in four distinct categories, and within this classification, in so far as it relates to consumers and retail dealers, to create territorial divisions for the purpose of exercising and making effective the unreasonable restraint of trade upon which the charges are based. Boycotting and blacklisting are alleged as among the means whereby the partition of the trade is enforced, and these allegations are backed up by references to various of the documents enumerated above. "Poaching" and "scalping" are the terms picturesquely applied by the lumbermen to violation of their rules.

Specific reference is made to the new interpretation of the Sherman law by the United States Supreme Court in the Standard Oil decision. Mention of restraint of trade is uniformly qualified by the words "undue" and "unreasonable," and the Government seeks to establish under the bill that the effects of the conspiracy charged are such as come within the meaning of these qualifying phrases.

The following are named as defendants:

Eastern States Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, a New York corporation, Richard S. White, its President, and other officers and Directors in the States of Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Maryland, and in the District of Columbia.

New York Lumber Trade Association, Russell J. Perrine, its President; John F. Steeves, First Vice President; Frederick W. Starr, Second Vice President, and over thirty individual members.

New Jersey Lumbermen's Protective Association, through its President, George A. Smock; its Vice President, A. K. Bennett, and some twenty individual members.

Building Material Men's Association of Westchester County, and E. D. Yerkes, its President; John F. Dinkle, its Vice President, and seven members.

Retail Lumbermen's Association of Philadelphia, through William C. McBride, its President; Fischer Dalrymple, its Vice President, and thirteen Directors and officers.

Lumber Dealers' Association of Connecticut, and A. Schumaker, its President; F. A. Lines, its Vice President, and thirteen officers and Directors.

Massachusetts Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, and H. W. Sears, its President; L. S. Williston, its Vice President, and thirteen Directors and officers.

Lumber Dealers' Association of Rhode Island, and Arthur S. Vaughn, its President; Willard D. Lanning, its Vice President, and ten of its officers and Directors.

Lumber Exchange of the District of Columbia, through William T. Galliher, its President; W. A. H. Church, its Vice President, and five other officers and Directors.

Retail Lumbermen's Association of Baltimore, and Henry P. Duker, its President; Harry J. Matthews, its Vice President, and nine other officers and Directors.

All of the individuals named in connection with the various associations are also made defendants severally as retail dealers in lumber.

The complaint charges that the defendants "for some time past have been and are now engaged in an unlawful conspiracy, unduly, unreasonably, and directly to restrain the hereinafter described trade and commerce among and between the several States and territories of the United States in lumber and lumber products" in violation of the Sherman act, and that "such unlawful conspiracy is evidenced by and is the result of outgrowth of a series of wrongful acts extending over a period of many years past and continuing to the present time."

The prayer with which the bill of complaint concludes asks the court to decree that the defendants have entered into and are now engaged in such a conspiracy as the Sherman act "denounces as illegal," and enjoin them from doing anything in pursuance or in furtherance of the alleged conspiracy within the United States. Further the prayer seeks to have the Eastern States Retail Lumber Dealers' Association and all of the other associations as well as each individual defendant "perpetually enjoined from doing any act in pursuance of or for the purpose of carrying out such conspiracy or any combination or contract in pursuance of the same and from entering into or continuing any similar conspiracy and from agreeing, combining, and conspiring and acting together to prevent any one of them from carrying on inter-State trade and commerce in lumber and lumber products in free and open competition with all others in the same trade.

How the Trade is Divided.

After stating in general the conspiracy charged, the complaint sets forth the classifications of the lumber trade as they have been determined by the various defendant associations. First comes the manufacturer, who is a saw mill or planing mill owner, who converts timber into lumber; and next to him the wholesale merchant known either as a wholesaler or a jobber in lumber and lumber products. Then come the retail trade, made up of dealers in the various towns and cities covered by the combination, who buy from the wholesaler, manufacturer and jobber and store lumber for the demand of the builder or contractor in their individual localities.

Another branch of the retail trade, according to the complaint, is composed of the so-called mail order houses, large commercial establishments in Chicago, Davenport, Iowa, St. Louis and other places who seek to sell lumber and its products direct to the consumer and to buy direct from the manufacturer without the intervention of the wholesaler on the one hand and the retailer on the

MORGAN IN LONDON.

Wants to See Titanic Launched—Health Never Better, He Says.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 19.—By accident THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent met J. Pierpont Morgan this afternoon at the West End office of the White Star Line, where the financier was making inquiries as to the launching of the Titanic, which takes place at Belfast on May 31.

Mr. Morgan looked very well, and moved about with the nimbleness of a young man.

Telling him that I was a representative of THE NEW YORK TIMES, he replied:

"Very fine paper, very fine. I wish you would have it sent me to 13 Princes Gate until further notice."

"Will you say anything about the United States Supreme Court decision?" Mr. Morgan was asked.

"It's a little late to talk about that," he replied. "Besides, I haven't seen the full decision yet. But it is very satisfactory."

He refused to discuss the matter further.

Questioned about the St. Martin reliquary, and about his reported intention to restore it to France, Mr. Morgan said:

"I don't know whether I have got the real thing yet. There are three or four of them floating about."

"Are you going to see the coronation?"

"I will do as I like about that," he replied. "At present I'm arranging to see the launching of the Titanic. I wasn't here when the Olympic was launched."

Answering a remark referring to his apparent good health, he said:

"I have never felt better in my life."

Then, as the financier disappeared through the door, he called out:

KAISER DANCES WITH QUEEN.

King George's First Ball a Brilliant Affair—Americans Not Invited.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 19.—It is to be noted that the list of those invited to the first state ball of King George's reign, which took place at Buckingham Palace to-night in honor of the Kaiser, does not contain the name of a single American beyond those of members of the Diplomatic Corps and of American women married to Englishmen.

The ball was an unusually brilliant function.

King George and the Emperor William previously dined together at the palace with the royal family, and afterward were joined by some thirty additional members of the royal household, who formed into a magnificent procession. The King and Emperor, wearing German and British uniforms respectively, preceded the state officials, who were attired in gorgeous robes and carried their wands of office, through the whole length of the state apartments to the ballroom, where thousands of guests had gathered, including Whitelaw Reid, the American Ambassador, and Mrs. Reid, and the entire Diplomatic Corps.

Queen Mary and the Empress Augusta Victoria and all the ladies wore lavish displays of jewelry. Emperor William took Queen Mary as his partner and King George the German Empress. The Duchess of Connaught and Princess Victoria Louise opened the ball with the "royal quadrille."

Midnight saw a repetition of the gorgeous procession, this time from the ballroom to the supper room.

The display of gems could not be surpassed at any European Court. Numerous crowns made especially for the coronation were seen for the first time. Queen Mary's corsage was like a breastplate of diamonds, and included two immense stones, cut from the famous Cullinan diamond, which were worn as pendants. She also wore a high collar of diamonds. The German Empress wore a diamond crown, a plendid pearl necklace, and other diamonds and pearl ornaments.

The leading peeresses all wore costly jewelry, especially the Duchesses of Westminster, Manchester, and Roxburghe.

Every man present, with the sole exception of Ambassador Reid, was in uniform. Miss Mabel Choate, daughter of former Ambassador Joseph H. Choate, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Reid to the ball.

HELD UP NEAR BROADWAY.

Real Estate Man Robbed in Park Place—Three Fugitives Caught.

In Park Place, within a few steps of Broadway, William E. Lacey, a real estate operator, of 128 St. Felix Street, Brooklyn, was robbed of $40 about 9 o'clock last night by three men who pounced on him. After a chase across City Hall Park three men believed to be the robbers were arrested at Park Row and Frankfort Street.

One of the men, the police say, had $7 in his hand when arrested and $10 in his pocket. The rest of the money was not found, and the police say the men threw it away while running across the park.

Lacey was on his way to the Brooklyn Bridge through Park Place when the men grabbed him. Two of the men held him, one of them putting his hand over Lacey's mouth, while the third man went through his pockets and took the $40.

Lacey struggled and kicked and managed to wrest his head from the man who was holding his hand over his mouth. He gave a yell, which frightened the robbers, who ran. Lacey shouted again and gave chase. The men ran across City Hall Park, and Lacey was joined by Patrolmen Conner and Ferighty.

After crossing the park the fugitives darted across Park Row and tried to dodge around some newspaper wagons in Frankfort Street. Some of the newspaper carriers impeded them, and they were grabbed by the policemen, who took them to the Greenwich Street Station, followed by a large crowd. The men said they were Frank Robertson, 36 years old, a baker, no home; William Duckett, 47, laborer, 184 Park Row, and Frank McGuire, 50, laborer, 72 Bowery. They were charged with robbery upon Lacey's positive identification. He said that Robertson was the man who went through his pockets while the other men held him. It was Robertson, the police say, who had the $17.

POLICE RAID BOXERS AT THE GARDEN SHOW

Which Would Show Violation of Club Boxing Law—Managers and Others Arrested—Boxers Aggrieved.

The police entered Madison Square Garden last night and stopped the International Amateur Boxing Tournament which had just opened and was to have been continued to-night. Timothy C. Hurst, manager of the show, declared as he left the Garden a prisoner that the tournament would go on to-night despite the interference of the police.

There were 800 persons in the Garden, exclusive of the boxers, their attendants, and the officials, when Inspector Daly, Capt. Hayes of the West Thirtieth Street Police Station, a score of uniformed men, and Detectives Banoyle, Martin, Griffen, Brown, and Dana entered the arena. Before the arrival of the police the crowd and the boxers had been dissatisfied with the announcement by the management of the tournament that the Englishmen would not contest last night. The crowd had voiced its disapproval in hoots and shouts.

These cries, which had ceased while one round of the first elimination bout between Americans was in progress, were resumed as soon as the police entered the ring. The throng cheered and then hooted and whistled and yelled incessantly. It was half an hour before the last of the audience filed from the building, holding to the seat checks which, it had been announced, would be honored to-night.

The police took seven prisoners, among them Hurst, S. D. See, the timekeeper; William Schandler and Sam Loring, the boxers, and George Russell, Joe Gordon, and W. Jones, their seconds. They were taken from the Garden to the police station and later to the Night Court.

Schandler and Loring had fought one round when the police appeared. Schandler, a member of the Boys' Club of which "Knockout" Brown is a graduate, had all the best of the go. A strong left with which he seemed able to reach Loring's face and body at will had the Newark boy in evident distress and almost out. The crowd yelled to have the bout stopped.

Then the police appeared. How they got in no one seemed to know. Uniformed men appeared at all sides of the ring. There was a policeman at every corner. Inspector Daly and Capt. Hayes stepped into the ring and around them gathered the detectives in citizens' clothes. Inspector Daly touched the boxers on the shoulders and told them they were under arrest. Then he approached Hurst and See. Others of the raiders were gathering in the seconds.

There were loud protests, but the police were obdurate, insisting that the boxers don their street clothes, and that Hurst and See prepare to accompany them. The crowd, at first angered by the interference, ended by seeming to enjoy the discomfiture of the management. One question was asked by many in the crowd, however, and it went unanswered. It was:

"How can the police raid an amateur boxing tournament under the sanction of the Amateur Athletic Union, and the auspices of the Pastime Athletic Club when boxing clubs throughout the city are allowed to hold meets almost nightly?"

The police themselves did not answer the question completely. They declared that they had purchased tickets without previously becoming members of the Pastime Athletic Club, and that such sale of tickets constituted a violation of the law.

Although unable to explain how the police had obtained admission to the Garden, the management declared positively that no ticket had been sold except to a member of the Pastime Athletic Club, and that those not members of the club who desired to witness the bouts had been compelled in every instance to become members of the club.

The tournament was conceived and arranged by Tim Hurst, the Pastime Athletic Club lending its name to the affair. Boxers were gathered from England and Canada as well as from various parts of the United States, and it was intended that the winners in the various classes should be world champions to all intent and purport, although no titles were actually to be fought for.

The opening of the tournament last night found the American and Canadian boxers ready at the ringside, but the Englishmen were not in fighting togs, and for the first time, say the other boxers, they learned that the Englishmen had accepted Hurst's invitation to attend a sort of boxing carnival here at which they were to engage in exhibition bouts, and that they had no intention of participating in any actual boxing in which they might be knocked out.

Instantly there was an uproar in the camps of the Americans and Canadians. The Americans declared that they had no intention of fighting through elimination trials for the honor of meeting men whom they were ready to face at once. They declined to submit to the strain of a fight last night with the prospect of meeting a fresh opponent on the morrow. Hurst rushed around among his fighters offering inducements in the shape of extra prizes and doing his best to persuade some of the angry boxers to enter the ring. Meantime the crowd hooted.

At last the manager persuaded five couples to consent to go on that night, and the announcement was made that, in view of the shortened programme of the night, last night's tickets would be accepted again to-night. It was this announcement which was repeated after the police had stopped the bouts.

In the disgruntled crowd which left the building there were many who declared that the intervention of the police was no disappointment after they had heard the announcement of the programme.

In the Night Court Magistrate Steinert held Hurst and the two boxers in $500 bail each for Special Sessions on charges of violating the Penal Code in conducting a prizefight. The others were discharged.

BAD BREAK IN ERIE CANAL.

Railroad Embankment and Buildings Near Rochester Swept Away.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 19.—A break in the Erie Canal that it is said to-night will take a month to repair, occurred about 5 o'clock this afternoon at Bushnell's Basin, about eight miles east of this city.

The canal wall on the towpath side where the break occurred is exceptionally high, and the rush of water following the breaks swept away an embankment forty feet in height and about 125 feet wide. A wing of a house in the path of the water was carried off and a man in the house narrowly escaped injury. A barn was also carried along by the flow and has disappeared, probably having been reduced to kindling wood.

In the path of the water was the Rochester & Eastern Rapid Railroad, an electric line, and the roadbed of this was swept away for a distance of about 500 feet, leaving the tracks in the air. One section of a train west bound had just passed the point where the water hit the tracks, and the second section was stalled on the east side. About 700 men are working to-night to remedy the damage.

HEAT KILLS EIGHT IN PHILADELPHIA

Quaker City Swelters in a Temperature of 91 Degrees and Much Humidity.

HOT WAVE IN THE WEST

Thermometer Reaches 95 Degrees in Cincinnati, Where the Schools Were Dismissed—Deluge in New England.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—Under the rays of a torrid sun, and with the city enveloped in a blanket of humidity, eight persons died from heat to-day and scores were prostrated. Such a mortality list for the month of May is unprecedented. This afternoon the temperature reached a maximum of 91 degrees. The humidity shows an increase, which, if continued, will seriously add to the infant mortality.

It is likely that a new May heat record will be established for Philadelphia before the force of the present wave is spent. The highest temperature previously recorded was 96 degrees on May 28, 1880. Since then the mercury has reached as high as 94 degrees.

Suffering is reported from every section of the city to-day, particularly in the tenement sections, and hundreds are flocking toward the seashore. General discomfort is occasioned by the smoky mists which hang over the city. It is said that the mists are due to the city's smoke and to forest fires in the central section of the State.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 19.—Some 45,000 school children were dismissed to-day by order of the School Superintendent owing to the excessive heat. It was feared that their attention to studies would cause heat prostrations.

The temperature stood at 95 degrees in the afternoon in several of the hilltop districts, and was 94 downtown.

Fourteen cases of prostrations were reported.

CHICAGO, May 19.—To-day, which was the fifth one of extreme heat, with the mercury hovering at 91 degrees, is predicted by the United States Weather Bureau to be the end of the hot spell. A shower this afternoon sent the thermometer down a few degrees, but failed to give much relief owing to increased humidity.

Numerous cases of prostration, but no deaths, were reported. A man was bitten several times by a dog said to have become mad because of the heat.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 19.—Cleveland experienced another sweltering day to-day, the official maximum temperature being 83 degrees, while in the streets unofficial thermometers registered 98 degrees.

A thunder and wind storm in the afternoon broke over East Cleveland, tearing up trees and damaging telephone and street car wires. Street car traffic was tied up for an hour.

Five persons were prostrated by the heat.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Snow was reported falling to-day in Yellowstone Park, and frost in Wyoming and Nevada, while the Middle West and Eastern States were sweltering in the hottest weather of the season.

A general break in the hot wave was predicted by the weather experts within the next thirty-six or forty-eight hours, bringing relief to the populous sections of the country, where, in the large cities, the heat has caused many prostrations. Warm weather will continue to-night and Saturday in the Eastern States.

Considerably cooler weather prevails generally over the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains and plateau region, due to a disturbance moving eastward from the North Pacific Coast.

WINSTED, Conn., May 19.—Two severe electrical storms met here this afternoon causing a downpour. Hail accompanied the deluge, and lightning struck several places, but no lives were lost.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 19.—A severe thunder storm passed over Worcester today, the lightning striking several buildings and causing an estimated loss of about $10,000. During the two hours that the storm lasted a rainfall of 1.2 inches was registered, the heaviest for a long time. At times the street car tracks were hidden beneath the torrents of water, and traffic on some of the trolley lines had to be suspended.

ADAMS, Mass., May 19.—A thunderstorm swept this town for three-quarters of an hour to-day, causing a loss of thousands of dollars. During the storm the Hoosac River rose five feet.

Side hill streets and sidewalks were washed out, gutters were torn up, and street car tracks were covered with sand.

HOT AS THEY TALK OF SNOW.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—With the weather too warm for comfort to-day, the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia voted to report favorably a bill providing penalties against citizens who fail to remove snow or sleet from sidewalks.

"To permit ice and snow to remain on the sidewalks of the city," said Senator Dillingham, author of the bill, as he vigorously plied a palm leaf fan, "is indefensible, and the practice should be punished."

"Exactly," agreed Chairman Gallinger, mopping his brow; "it should be stopped."

Senators Works, Paynter, and Smith of Maryland, sitting in the purring draft of an electric fan, nodded languid assent.

LIGHTNING HITS A SCHOOL.

Special to The New York Times.

GLEN RIDGE, N. J., May 19.—In a thunderstorm here to-day several children who were returning from the noon recess to the Glen Ridge Public School, saw a flash of lightning, accompanied by a loud peal of thunder, strike the trolley wire at Ridgewood and Bloomfield Avenues. The wire became instantly ablaze with a purple ball of flame that ran swiftly along it for 200 yards, just opposite the school. Then it made a leap of 150 feet to the chimney of the schoolhouse, which it shattered. The bolt also tore a hole 3 by 6 feet in the school roof.

The school was empty because of the noon recess. The roof did not burn, and the session of school was resumed in the afternoon.

IMITATED YOUNGER SISTER

No Objection to the Marriage Except That the Couple Were Advised to Wait—News Telephoned to the Mayor.

William Seward Webb, Jr., eldest son of Dr. William Seward Webb, and a clerk in the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., and Miss Gertrude Emily Gaynor, the eldest daughter of Mayor Gaynor, unexpectedly took a train to Wilmington, Del., yesterday morning and were married there. They returned to town last night, driving from the station directly to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pulitzer, at 7 East Seventy-third Street. Mrs. Ralph Pulitzer was Miss Frederica Vanderbilt Webb, a sister of the bridegroom.

The attentions of Mr. Webb to Miss Gaynor have been known for nearly a year, and there was no objection to the marriage from the parents on either side, so it was learned last night. Mayor Gaynor, however, has always contended that a girl should not marry before she is 25 years old, and the parents of Mr. Webb have been trying to persuade him to wait two more years, when he will be 25. Hence the train journey to Wilmington.

Mrs. Webb is the second of Mayor Gaynor's daughters to marry in her own way, and the third of his children. The first to marry without parental consent was the Mayor's eldest son, Rufus William Gaynor. Two years ago, while at college, he married a young music student, who had been introduced to him as Miss May Queen. Under that name he married her. This marriage was annulled a year later. The young woman has since re-married.

The second of the Mayor's children to marry was Miss Edith A. Gaynor. She went down to Wilmington on June 22 of last year, and was married to Harry Kermit Vingut, a broker of this city.

In this manner Mayor Gaynor has never seen any of his children married, and usually the first news of their wedding has been conveyed to him by persons not members of his family.

The Webb family, it was said by one of its members last night, has never in the least objected to this marriage, and had expected it to take place sooner or later, but preferred that both of the young people should wait longer to be sure that they knew their own minds.

As Miss Gaynor, Mrs. Webb accepted an invitation from Dr. and Mrs. Webb to visit them at their Summer home at Shelburne, Vt., where she spent some weeks not long ago. It was known then to the intimates of the young couple that they were engaged, and that the marriage was being deferred solely out of respect for the wishes of the parents of both.

Mayor Gaynor knew nothing of the wedding last night unless, as was assumed, a telegram was sent to him at his country home at St. James, L. I., by his new son-in-law. The Mayor went down to St. James yesterday afternoon for his usual week end, and is not expected at his Brooklyn home until Sunday evening or Monday morning. When a TIMES reporter called at the house last night, only some of the younger members of the family were at home, and it was said that these had retired for the night.

Mrs. Webb is in her twenty-first year. Her engagement to Mr. Webb was her second. Her first engagement, to Alexander Stewart Wetherel, a broker, was announced in November, 1909. The fact that the engagement had been broken off became public on March 25, 1910.

Mrs. Webb is an accomplished horsewoman and a devotee of tennis, golf, walking, and swimming, in all of which sports she has earned an enviable record. Her prize horse is Lemon, with which she has won a number of blue ribbons in the Long Island horse shows. Though taking a polite interest in the indoor amusements of society, she is said by friends to have much preferred sports in the open air. She has, indeed, been known among her friends as an out-of-doors girl.

Mr. Webb, who is in his twenty-fourth year, began life in Wall Street in June of last year. He is a graduate of Yale, where he took a keen interest in athletics. After his graduation he went up to Nova Scotia for some months to rough it in the lumber business, his father having interests up there. He came back to New York in the heat of Summer and started in as a junior clerk in the coupon department in the Morgan office. Not long after he had been there he said a reporter who found him at his desk with his sleeves rolled up and apparently steeped in his work:

"I like it a lot. I have been here since June 1, and I intend to stay five or six years. Though I liked the rough work in Nova Scotia I like this a lot better than anything I have struck yet.

"I work from 9 o'clock until 5:30 or 6 o'clock in the evening, and I have become greatly interested and am going to stick at it, though at this time of the year we frequently have to work evenings to keep our department up with the rest.

Mr. Webb is the elder son of Dr. William Seward Webb of this city and Shelburne, Vt. His father was President of the Wagner Palace Car Company at the time of its merger with the Pullman Palace Car Company, and is now a Director in many railway and industrial companies. He married in 1880 Miss Lila Osgood Vanderbilt, a daughter of William H. Vanderbilt.

Announcement of the wedding was not made last night until Mr. and Mrs. Webb had reached the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pulitzer. The Webb family was at once apprised, and communicated the news to a few of their friends, with the explanation that the young people had decided not to wait any longer, but to marry at once.

WILMINGTON, Del., May 19. — Miss Gertrude Gaynor and her fiancé, William Seward Webb, Jr., arrived in Wilmington early this afternoon from New York and were married in the First Presbyterian Church by the pastor, the Rev. J. R. Stonecifer. They were accompanied by Harry K. Vingut and his wife, Edith Gaynor Vingut, who were married here on June 22 by the Rev. Dr. George L. Wolfe. Miss Gertrude Gaynor is a year older than Mrs. Vingut. The Vinguts were witnesses at the marriage.

The utmost secrecy was observed regarding the marriage. The Rev. Mr. Stonecifer refused to give out any details to-night, saying he was compelled "to keep quiet for certain considerations." The Magistrate who issued the marriage license even denied having issued that document. A cabman who met the quar-

$117,075 FOR A RAEBURN.

Artist's Portrait of Mrs. Williamson Realizes This Sum at London Auction.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 19.—The sum of £23,415 ($117,075) was paid to-day for a Raeburn portrait, after bidding which created a record in an English auction room for a single picture.

The canvas was Raeburn's full-length portrait of Mrs. Robertson Williamson. The bidders were the Duveens and the Colnaghis, the former being the purchasers.

Other prices ruled high. Gainsborough's Mrs. Provis realized 4,700 guineas, ($24,675,) and Romney's Lady Glasgow 4,000 guineas, ($21,000.)

SULTAN FAINTS WITH FEAR.

Boisterous Kurds Rush Turkish Ruler's Carriage to Present a Petition.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 19.—During the Selamlik procession to-day a party of boisterous Kurds rushed to the Sultan's carriage to present a petition to the ruler. The Sultan was so badly frightened that he fainted.

The Kurds were arrested, but liberated later after they had explained their intentions.

CHICAGO, May 19.—The Chicagoan, for whom the Helyas "Knight of the Swanne" at the Hoe book auction in New York was purchased recently at the extraordinary price of $21,000, was Mrs. Harold F. McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller.

In addition to the "Swanne Booke" Mrs. McCormick bought the "Amsterdam Cookbook," and another equally rare book, both of which were bid up to high figures.

WILSON ON LEGISLATORS' PAY

Thinks $3 a Day Too Little to Keep Them from Temptation.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 19.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey put in one of the busiest days he has experienced since his "swing around the country" began. He was the guest at a luncheon given under the direction of the Oregon Advocates of Better Government, and this evening he was a guest of the University Club. Later he spoke to a large audience on its conception of Oregon's direct primary system.

At the luncheon Gov. Wilson told his hearers that the people of Oregon were foolish in paying legislators only $3 a day, and that the people of New Jersey were no more wise in paying their legislators only $500 for each session. He said that such systems of remuneration were inadequate, and that it could not be expected that legislators under such a condition would be free from temptation.

SUMMONS DOCTOR TO ROME.

Los Angeles Physician Expects to Make Trip in About Ten Days.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 19.—Summoned by cablegram to the bedside of a patient in Rome, Dr. J. B. Choate of this city left yesterday on a journey which if carried out according to schedule will cut twelve hours from Pacific Coast to Europe speed records.

The message to Dr. Choate came from Mrs. L. Browning, a wealthy widow of Los Angeles, who instructed him to spare no expense to reach the bedside of her daughter, who was suddenly taken ill, in the shortest possible time.

Dr. Choate expects to connect with the Mauretania at New York, and will endeavor to make London in nine and a half days. The best previous record is ten days. Fifty hours will suffice for the journey from London to Rome.

NEW ROCHELLE, May 19.—To win a wager of a kiss against a box of candy from a High School girl, who bet that he would not leave his happy home for her, Carlo Knight, 16 years of age, son of W. H. Knight of 315 Pelham Road, which is near the residence of Supreme Court Judge Martin J. Keogh, disappeared on Monday.

On Tuesday a hundred boys and girls from the High School scoured the woods around New Rochelle in search of him. His father, finding the boy's "bank," which had contained $3.50, open and his bicycle gone, concluded that he had gone to their country place at Hog Island, near Providence, R. I. He followed him there and found him fishing near the shore. Father and son returned last night. Carlo had ridden to Hog Island on his bicycle, the trip taking two days. He spent his $3.50 for food and for a bed in a hotel on the way.

NEW YORKER DEAD ON TRACK.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 19.—A man who appeared about 25 years old, and supposed to be C. J. Meher of New York, last night mysteriously met his death on the Northwestern Railroad at Lake Forest. It is believed that he fell from one of the night trains.

The body found is that of a man about 5 feet 6 inches in height, well dressed, of light complexion, and slight build. The hair is cut pompadour.

On a cloth tab on the inside pocket of a coat was found the name "C. J. Meher" and the name of the maker, Clemens of Sixth Avenue. On a shirt was found the name "Hays" and a laundry number.

No such name as C. J. Meher could be found in the New York City Directory.

BERGER WANTS CLARK'S AUTO

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—If Speaker Clark thinks the automobile supplied him by Congress undemocratic the Socialist in Congress is willing to use it for him.

Speaker Champ Clark rode to the Capitol in a street car this morning, and Mr. Clark also took the trolley route going home last evening, which has brought forcibly to the mind of Representative Victor Berger, Socialist, the fact that the $6,000 automobile used by the last Speaker of the House is now idle in the Capitol garage.

Mr. Berger suggests a use for this automobile. Why not turn it over to the House District Committee in order that that body may a-slumming go? asks the Wisconsin Socialist. Mr. Berger is a member of the committee.

He holds that the District Committee is really the City Council of Washington, and that to transact properly its business it is necessary for its members to make frequent trips along secluded highways and byways. He avers that he already has spent considerable cash in carriage and motor car hire in order to become acquainted with Washington streets and alleys.

LIMANTOUR SOON TO LEAVE

Explains That He Had Planned to Retire When the Revolution Took Him Back to Mexico.

BY STEPHEN BONSAL,
Special Correspondent of The New York Times.

Copyright, 1911, by The New York Times Co.

MEXICO CITY, May 19.—It is not surprising, it indeed follows all precedents, that after a settlement there should be unsettling rumors afloat, but it is nevertheless disquieting that the Mexican Government is taking mildly a line indicated in views expressed to me by Minister Limantour that the Government should do nothing unconstitutional even to save the country. More and more the Cabinet is trying to have the articles of the formal treaty, which should be signed on May 22, omitted from the document and slipped into a gentlemen's agreement between Francisco I. Madero and Minister de la Barra, who is to be the temporary President.

Few are inclined to doubt the good faith of the Government at this late day, and no one that of Señor de la Barra, but it is recognized that these tactics serve no useful purpose and are making Madero's relations with his military lieutenants throughout the country more difficult. These men want everything put in the bond.

Limantour, Soon to Go, Talks.

I have had what is perhaps my last talk with Jose Yves Limantor, Minister of Finance, who is to leave the capital very shortly. He looks worn and is greatly changed from the man who, landed in New York so full of hope a few weeks ago.

"As you know," he said, "when the serious troubles began I was in Europe. I was on an official mission, it is true, but with the plan of little by little, one after another, dropping my official duties. Then the dispatches came and I hurried home. It seemed to me then and it does now that I could do nothing else. Ever since I got here I have been doing my best, under the circumstances, the very best for my country.

"I believe we have come to an agreement, but I am not positively certain. No one who has not been in the midst of it can even imagine how difficult the negotiations have been. The usual guides and precedents in such matters in this instance were at fault and led us astray.

Rebel Demands Unconstitutional.

"Apparently up there (at Juarez) negotiations were discussed in the presence of ladies, tourists, and the press. Everything was public, nothing was private. At times everything was in incredible confusion. But at last the way to peace seems clear.

"I knew it would be hard for the constitutional Government to negotiate with the revolutionaries, and I was right here at least. They were always asking unconstitutional things; for instance, the nomination of at least fourteen provisional Governors. Were the retiring Government to commit this illegality it would justify all that has been said against us. However, doubtless, the matter can be arranged to the satisfaction of all concerned by the provisional Government soon to be installed. These gentlemen will do a great deal better than we have done, and I wish them well. Knowing what they will have to contend with, I shall be their most lenient critic."

Whatever may be said about Señor Limantour's policies, past and present, it is certain, and all educated men here are in agreement on this, that he, more than any other one man, has helped to save this country from anarchy during the last six weeks.

Madero to Wait for a Time.

The story of the discovery of a plot here to kill Madero is a fiction, but not along unrealistic lines. The coming of the chief of the revolution to the capital, where de la Barra admits he is now greatly needed, has been postponed, perhaps for only a few days, because it is held to be wiser to have President Diaz's problem definitely settled before the new chief arrives; also because it is recognized generally that the people of the city are still under the impressions of the recent exciting days, and that it would not be wise to stir them up for a week or ten days, even with such popular ovations as would welcome Madero.

Diaz's family make no secret of statements that the Chief of their Household and the Chief of State will leave Mexico for abroad on the evening of the day he transfers his powers to the Provisional President. On the other hand, Diaz's intimate friends assert that while the General admits he has made grievous political mistakes, he asserts that he has done nothing to forfeit the right of every law-abiding citizen to die in the Fatherland, and that he intends to remain in his house in Cadena Street until death comes, perfectly indifferent to the form it may take.

Reyes May Be Dropped.

Opposition to Gen. Reyes as War Minister in the Provisional Government seems to have developed more strength than can be summoned to his support. De la Barra's idea in supporting him was in this way to attract the Revista support to the Provisional Government, in which the Diaz and Madero factions are represented, and he is still reluctant to abandon the arrangement, which he considers ideal, though many tell him it is not practical. Gen. Eugenio Rascon, the military commander of the capital, is now mentioned for this important post.

Great satisfaction is expressed in all camps at the announcement that the Provisional Government will appoint Garcia Cuellar, the hero of Casas Grandes, as Governor of the Federal district.

News of Fighting Still Comes.

News of the advance of the armies of the revolution keeps pace with the peace negotiations and, indeed, rather outfoots them. While all the indications point to a general peace proclamation before the armistice expires on May 22, the forces of the de facto Government continue to collapse and those of the revolution grow enthusiastically stronger.

Torreon has been taken after two days of desperate fighting. The American Embassy, however, has received official information that not one of the many Americans in the city during the exciting hours was injured.

In Hidalgo the auxiliary State troops have gone over in a body to the revolution, and with 600 men, 500 horses, and a large amount of ammunition have arrived at Pachuca to place themselves under the command of the revolutionary leader there. Federal troops who had been sent to retake Pachuca have now been recalled, and a company of Federal sappers have been blowing up the railroad bridges between Pachuca and the capital, so that a conflict in this quarter is no longer imminent.

Think Figueroa Will Obey Madero.

There is alarming news concerning Gen. Prudencio Figueroa's intentions. He is the General commanding the army of the south, recruited in the States of Guerrero and Morelos. The local newspapers report him as not being satisfied with the conditions which he understands Francisco I. Madero, Jr., has accepted. These statements, however, were evidently written ten days ago, while the commander of the southern army was under the influence of Gen. Diaz's disappointing manifesto of that date. All the revolutionary leaders here say that Figueroa will probably fall into line with Madero.

From Tulancingo, a beautiful cathedral town in Hidalgo, comes pleasanter news. There the advancing revolutionists were greeted by 300 flower maidens, who marched out to meet them and strewed nosegays in their path. The commercial houses also made up a purse of $3,000 to distribute among the revolutionary soldiers. It can be said that all is quiet in Tulancingo.

Expect Peace Proclamation Monday.

Here the belief prevails almost unanimously that peace will be proclaimed on May 22, that the transfer of the powers of Government will take place on May 25 or 27, and that Madero will probably not reach here until the 30th. It is further generally understood, and indeed the provisional President promises as much, that the elections for President and Vice President will be held within three months, and under the present election laws. As the voting will probably be all one way, it is thought that these will suffice. However, it is planned to have a more liberal franchise law become effective before the elections of Governors and members of the new Congress. This election is planned to take place ten months hence.

Friends of Madero here all agree in thinking that he will not permit his name to go before the people for the presidency in the coming election. A host of possible candidates are mentioned. Dr. Vasquez Gomez at this early day is apparently in the lead.

Diaz Joked at Critical Time.

Those who assisted at the last Cabinet council Wednesday, at which the conditions of the revolutionists for the retirement of Señors Diaz and Corral were acceded to and after which the provisional Government began at least its informal existence, tell stories that are at once affecting and amusing concerning Gen. Diaz, whose last official acts for those yet to come will be under the compulsion of an agreement which is now apparently signed and sealed.

In his last days of unimpaired power the aged General was suffering excruciated pain from a raging tooth. He opened the Cabinet meeting, then retired, and lay on a camp bed adjoining the room, whence every minute or two Limantour went to ask his assent to resolutions or his signature to documents. These he readily gave, apparently no longer taking interest in the subjects under discussion. Before the council concluded a dentist was called in and the tooth extracted, without gas or any of the alleviating paraphernalia in reach of the poorest on the other side of the Rio Grande.

Diaz, however, only complained to the operator humorously: "While oppressed with so many internal disorders," he said, "it seems unfair that I should have my façade damaged."

While in this mood Diaz was approached by friends of an official, whom we will call Don Ignacio, because that is not his name. Don Ignacio has distinguished himself by his persistent absence from his post of duty.

"But, General, you must give Ignacio something," his friends repeated insistently.

"Yes, I think I ought to," replied the General. "I think I'll give him a harem skirt."

However, despite his humorous sallies for the greater part of the time, the deposed President is terribly depressed. While there is no definitely ascertained malady, many of his intimate friends say he will not survive the official transfer of his powers to de la Barra.

Ambassador Wilson wrote to-day a charming letter of thanks and appreciation to Felomena Mata Veleran, editor of The Diario del Hogar, whose amende honorable to Uncle Sam I cabled on Wednesday.

REBELS KEEP ON FIGHTING.

Little Evidence That Armistice Arranged by Madero Is Heeded.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
From Another Correspondent.

MEXICO CITY, May 19.—Between the efforts of the agents of Francisco I. Madero and of the Government the official notice of the five days' armistice arranged at Juarez has reached most portions of the country, but there is no evidence that it has resulted in the general cessation of fighting which it was designed to accomplish. With the passing of another day the chances of peace have grown noticeably less.

Gen. Prudencio Figueroa and his advance are reported to-day to be at Puente de Ixtlo, only a few hours by train below Cuernavaca. If he is not opposed at Cuernavaca, he could be in the Valley of Mexico within three days.

Thus Madero has no time to lose in beginning his pacification of the country. If he can control Prudencio Figueroa, he will have gained a strong point, but those who know that commander say he has an idea that he is a second Diaz. It seems improbable that he will now stop a march that has brought only victory to him.

Diaz's Nephew in a Plot.

Even if Figueroa is won over, however, there are other leaders of influence to be reckoned with, not only among the revolutionists, but among powerful factions hitherto with the Government. Gen. Bernardo Reyes and Felix Diaz, the President's nephew, are already rumored to have planned a revolution of their own. They would make a formidable pair.

Another bad feature is that most of the insurrecto leaders who have acknowledged the authority of Madero up to the present time have been drawn from the lower classes. Gen. Tapia, for instance, who commands the rebels at Atlixco, the stronghold of Puebla, six months ago was working at a bench as a shoemaker, earning a peso a day. Gen. Aragon, the Jalisco leader, is a barber. Many other leaders whose capabilities are limited have by success attained to high aspirations which cannot be fulfilled, and consequently they are likely to keep on fighting.

The announcement published here that Madero was coming to the capital started preparations for a reception, and it seemed as though his entry would be welcomed with all the impetuous effervescence of the race and would rival Caesar's triumph. That would not mean, however, that the same elements might not be directed against him within a month.

Hidalgo Rebels Near Capital.

Simultaneously with the advance on the capital from the south comes news that the Hidalgo rebels, who are operating with Figueroa, have captured Tula and Tigayuca, which brings them within thirty miles of Mexico City on the north.

Rurales had to be sent out of this city last night to protect a suburb from a menacing band of a hundred rebels.

The acting Governor of the State of Puebla has resigned, acknowledging that the task of restoring order is beyond his abilities. There is no lull in the fighting in the State, and the merchants are taking more active steps to convince the commander of the military sope that the capital should be surrendered on the one condition that the rebels shall release only the political prisoners, and not the criminals in the jail.

Cuautla, Morelos, continues to be the scene of bloody fighting. Zapata, the rebel leader, says that he will think about an armistice when he gets comfortably settled in his headquarters in the town.

Rebels Fire on a Mob.

Tehuacan, in Puebla, yesterday was the scene of a riotous demonstration. A store was sacked, and the rebels in control were forced to shoot into a mob to restore order. A state of anarchy is said to exist in Acambaro, an important railroad town held by the rebels.

From Tuxpam, Jalisco, comes notice of a general order to the Federal forces to concentrate on Guadalajara, the capital of the State.

An insurrecto band has been defeated at Manzanillo by a force of Rurales who marched out of the port city to meet them.

Cosalo, Sinaloa, has fallen, leaving the way open to Culiacan, the capital of the State. The rebels are closing in on Irapuato, and refuse to accept anything except unconditional surrender. The residents had offered to turn over the town on the condition that the prisoners there should not be liberated and lawlessness should be prevented.

Even historic Dolores Hidalgo, in Guanajuato, where independence was declared in 1810, is surrounded by rebels, and the surrender of the place has been demanded.

Fears Fighting Has Just Begun.

"The war has just begun," said a prominent man connected with the Government this afternoon.

That the revolution has triumphed was acknowledged formally on the floor of the Chamber of Deputies at yesterday's session. Deputy Manuel Calero spoke in part as follows, in supporting the new Amnesty bill:

"The revolution has triumphed throughout the country both in a military and a political sense. The President and his Cabinet have recognized it by entering into peace negotiations with the opposing party. The President has become convinced that the revolution is popular and has promised to present his resignation. Under these circumstances it is only fair that the prison gates should be opened to political suspects, for, if the Government orders its forces to turn over entire States to the armed revolutionists, it is unreasonable to hold in confinement any longer unarmed adherents of the revolution."

The speech was received by the crowded galleries with the most hilarious applause.

Gov. Rodrigues of Hidalgo, who was held prisoner by the rebel captors of his capital at Pachuca, has been released and permitted to return to this city. Gov. Valdez of Michoacan has presented his resignation and has moved here for the benefit of his health.

REYES HALTED AT HAVANA.

Message from Mexico Causes a Change in His Plans.

HAVANA, May 19.—Gen. Bernardo Reyes, the former Mexican Minister of War, arrived here to-day from Europe on board the steamer Ypiranga. He proceeded at once to a hotel, intending to resume his voyage to Vera Cruz to-morrow, but at 6 o'clock this evening received a message from Mexico which caused a sudden change in his plans. He has decided to remain in Havana to await further developments of the Mexican situation.

Gen. Reyes was receiving a correspondent when the message from Mexico arrived. He declined to divulge its purport, but said he had barely time to go on board the Ypiranga and attend to the landing of his horses and baggage. Previously, he had declared that it was impossible for him to discuss the Mexican situation until his arrival in Mexico. He would only say that it was his intention to place himself at the service of his country, and accept any office in which it appeared likely his services would be most valuable, except the Presidency, for which he was not a candidate.

Gen. Reyes evidently is not in excellent health. He intimated to-night that it was possible he would make a statement to-morrow relative to his motives for remaining in Havana. It is rumored that he has received orders from President Diaz to stay here until the receipt of further orders.

MADERO SUDDENLY ABANDONS JOURNEY

GETS A GOVERNMENT HINT

Special to The New York Times.

JUAREZ, Mexico, May 19.—Francisco I. Madero, Jr., the Provisional President of Mexico, who this morning said he was ready to start immediately for the City of Mexico, there to advise with Señor de la Barra regarding the organization of the new Government that is to come into power when Gen. Diaz relinquishes the Presidency, changed his mind late this afternoon and has decided to wait until Gen. Diaz has definitely resigned and Señor de la Barra has assumed the executive office. The change of plan on the part of Señor Madero followed two conferences he had, one with Judge Carbajal, the Federal peace envoy, and the other with his Provisional Cabinet.

What passed at the conferences Señor Madero would not say; in fact, he refused for the first time since the armistice to see the correspondents to-night. Instead he handed out to them a statement in Spanish, which, translated into English, reads:

Juarez, May 19, 1911.

From the moment that I received the invitation from the Government of Gen. Diaz to go to the City of Mexico with the object of assisting in the re-establishment of peace it seemed to me that it would be advisable not to go to Mexico until Mr. de la Barra should have succeeded to the Presidency. For this reason I did not fix my departure for any particular date in my message of acceptance, because I feared that Gen. Diaz might consider my refusal of the invitation as a sign of mistrust on my part. All that I did was to prepare for my trip as soon as possible. It has just been indicated to me that the Government of Gen. Diaz holds the same opinion as to the time when I should proceed to the City of Mexico. Therefore I can announce definitely that I will not go to the capital of the republic until after Mr. de la Barra has taken the executive chair.

FRANCISCO I. MADERO, Jr.

Not Invited, Asserts Carbajal.

When the above statement was conveyed to Judge Carbajal at his hotel in El Paso, the Federal envoy abruptly stated that it did not surprise him in the least, since Señor Madero has not as yet been invited to the City of Mexico.

"Señor Madero," said Judge Carbajal, "never received an invitation from the Mexican Government to go to Mexico City, either officially or unofficially. I have conducted all of the peace negotiations and would know whether such an invitation has been issued or not."

Judge Carbajal was careful to add, however, that what had happened in no way affected the peace situation.

"Peace is virtually assured," he said, "and everything is arranged. Señor Madero and I are in entire accord as to the terms. However, I should add that I believe there will be a formal signing of the peace agreement before Señor Madero leaves Juarez. That will not be postponed until after he has arrived in Mexico City. The terms will be arranged in Juarez and executed in the City of Mexico. That is all I care to say at this time."

That Judge Carbajal was in error when he said that Señor Madero had not been officially or unofficially invited to go to Mexico City to confer with Señor de la Barra is the almost unanimous opinion here. It is known that Señor Madero, when Judge Carbajal first refused to sign the general armistice Wednesday night until he received specific instructions from his government, went over the envoy's head and communicated direct with the Diaz Government. It was the Government's answer to that message in which was included the invitation for him to go to Mexico City and help put the peace programme into effect.

The belief here is that it was on an automobile ride which Señor Madero took with Judge Carbajal this afternoon that he was informed that the Mexican Government thought it good form on his part to remain away from Mexico City until after the aged President had retired. His change of plans is known to have been sudden. This morning members of his family and his official advisers all admitted that he would start for Mexico City immediately.

Army Joyful Over the Change.

The news that he would remain was received with joy by the soldiers. There undoubtedly has been a strong undercurrent of feeling throughout the army that it would be injudicious, to say the least, for the leader of the insurrection to leave Juarez until the man against whose Presidency the whole movement has been aimed was out of office beyond possibility of recall.

Slate of New Cabinet Arranged.

The naming of the new Cabinet, which is to surround Señor de la Barra, was the chief work of the day among the rebel leaders. It is understood that they approved this slate for the new Mexican Cabinet:

Minister of Justice—VASQUEZ TAGLE.
Minister of War—GEN. RASCONA.
Minister of Colonization and Industry—MANUEL CALERO.
Minister of Public Utilities—MANUEL BONILLA.
Minister of Public Instruction—DR. FRANCISCO VASQUEZ GOMEZ.
Minister of Interior Administration—EMILIO VASQUEZ GOMEZ.
Minister of Finance—ERNESTO MADERO.

Señor de la Barra is to name a subSecretary to take charge of foreign relations, while he is occupied in the Provisional Presidency.

Emilio Vasquez Gomez is now in San Antonio. He is a brother of Dr. Gomez, the chief diplomat of the revolution. Manuel Calero is a member of the Mexican Congress, and one of the leading champions of the reforms desired by the new progressive party. Manuel Bonilla has been the revolutionist leader in the State of Sinaloa. Ernesto Madero is a cousin of Francisco I. Madero, Jr., and one of the most prominent financiers in Mexico. He is in Monterey, Mexico, and has not been a revolutionist.

The choice of Gen. Rascona for the portfolio of war was made by the Federal Government, but the rebels acceded to it, as did they to Señor de la Barra remaining in nominal charge of the Department of Foreign Affairs. The rebels, however, have virtually named six members of the new Cabinet.

The work of repairing the destroyed right of way of the National Railways out of Ciudad Juarez is under way. The road was taken in hand by the Provisional Government on the refusal of the railway officials to do the repair work. Yesterday afternoon a large force of Federal soldiers captured, with the fall of Juarez, was set to work guarded by insurrecto troops. Some former employes of the line are engaged in surveying the reconstruction.

May Stop Bullfights.

Gambling and bullfighting are to be abolished in Mexico by the Maderistas when they get into power, and race track betting may be doomed, too, according to Abraham Gonzales, who is slated to be Provisional Governor of Chihuahua.

"As is our President, so am I against gambling and bullfighting," he said. "All gambling concessions made after Nov. 20, the date of the revolution's beginning, will be canceled. All concessions made before that time will be honored by us, but at their expiration no more will be granted. This applies to both gambling and bullfighting. We now are investigating the keno and poker rights in Juarez."

As Madero is against gambling in every form, the National lottery and all gambling rights eventually may be nullified.

W. G. McADOO RECOVERING.

Both He and Mrs. J. B. Harriman, Hurt in Auto, to Leave Hospital Soon.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 19.—Dr. George D. Stewart of New York and Dr. Howard C. Voorhees of this city made careful examinations at St. Peter's Hospital to-day of William G. McAdoo, builder of the Hudson Tunnels, and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, who were injured yesterday on the road between Freehold and Matawan when the automobile in which they were returning from a trip of inspection to the Tuberculosis Preventorium, overturned.

Mrs. Harriman, they found, was badly bruised and had some cuts. She had been made very nervous by the accident, but apparently there were no internal injuries and she would be able to leave the hospital in a day or two. Mr. Harriman, who reached here this morning, remained with his wife all day and said he would take her home as soon as the doctors gave permission.

It was found that Mr. McAdoo had three ribs broken instead of two, as had been thought at first, and also had a fracture of his right arm, as well as a scalp wound and many bruises. In his case, too, the doctors found nothing to make them fear internal injuries and they said that he probably could be moved by the end of the week. Officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad have put a private car at Mr. McAdoo's disposal as soon as his physicians give him permission to leave the hospital.

CARNEGIE WRITES ON PEACE.

Letter Read to School Teachers at Peace Day Meeting in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, May 19.—At a peace day observance in Carnegie Music Hall last night, attended by hundreds of school teachers, the following letter from Andrew Carnegie was read:

"It gives me great pleasure to congratulate the Teachers' Association upon its celebration of peace day. There is a great deal to be said for counting your chickens before they are hatched, because if you do not you might miss the chance of ever counting them at all; but you do well to celebrate peace day for another reason—it is bound to come, and I believe it is going to come so soon we will be surprised.

"Men no longer eat each other; they no longer kill prisoners, or sack cities, or poison wells, and men of civilized countries no longer buy and sell each other. It is sure that there will be many who hear these words who will also hear before they take their departure that the civilized nations of the world have banished the killing of man by man as a means of settling international disputes."

George W. Guthrie, former Mayor of Pittsburg, who presided, declared that women were foremost in the ranks of peacemakers, and to them would eventually be given credit for bringing about international peace.

other. "This line of trade," says the complaint, "is systematically opposed by the wholesaler and jobber and by the retail dealer as hereinafter described."

Lastly comes the consumer, who is also divided into several classes, namely, the contracting builder, the manufacturer of furniture and "trim," the United States Government, in some localities, municipalities and railroads, the small consumer who uses lumber for minor building and repair work, and co-operative unions of consumers in the country districts.

Plans to Restrict Competition.

Prior to the incorporation of the Eastern States Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, the bill recites, various of the defendants, by means of verbal and written agreements, sought to divide up and control the lumber business of the East on the theory of preventing the consumers from dealing in any way with the manufacturer or wholesaler, and, similarly, of preventing the manufacturer or wholesaler from reaching out, without the interposition of the retailer after the trade of the consumer. In the year mentioned there was formed in New York the Eastern States Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, into the membership of which there came from time to time the various other organizations made defendants by the complaint.

Among the objects of the association, as declared at a meeting at New Haven, Conn., on Sept. 8, 1902, was the procurance of "uniformity and certainty in the customs and usages of the trade" and the protection of members "from unjust and unbusinesslike competition within the territory covered by this association."

The New York Lumber Trade Association, whose organization is next set forth, and the other individual associations which are defendants, are declared to have resident and associate members, the resident members being wholesale and retail lumber dealers in the particular territory covered by the several associations, and the associate members being wholesale and retail lumber dealers outside of such territory and within the territory of the Eastern States Retail Lumber Dealers' Association.

This New York association, the complaint declares, established a committee on trade relations, which was charged among other duties with inquiring "into all cases of interference by wholesale dealers in the retail trade, and vice versa, and especially into all complaints of alleged sales by wholesale dealers direct to consumers or customers of retailers, or the solicitation of the retail trade by wholesale dealers, whether members of the association or not." The association was to furnish information to members on these topics, to co-operate with other associations in the same trade, and have the power to expel, suspend, fine, censure, or warn any member "guilty of misconduct, breach of faith, or of violation of any of the provisions of the constitution, by-laws, rules, or regulations of said association."

In general, the conditions under which the several defendant associations were put together were about the same. The New Jersey association appears to have gone into greater detail than some of the others in its specifications of the restrictions of which the bill complains. The Philadelphia association adopted by-laws providing that it should have no rules to stifle competition, limit production, regulate prices, restrain trade or pool profits, but nevertheless, according to the complaint, it operated on about the same general lines as the others.

The Massachusetts association, the complaint charges, specifically in its articles of association and by-laws declared its intention to prevent the sale of lumber from the wholesale dealer direct to the contractor, builder or other ultimate consumer. Resolutions were adopted and made a part of these by-laws, which the complaint recites, stated that sales by any retailer in territory other than that adjacent to his own yard were contrary to the spirit and object of the association.

The Boston Agreement.

Next, the complaint comes to the National Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association, which although it is not made a defendant in the suit appears at a convention in Boston in 1899 to solicit the co-operation of the retail associations in entering into an agreement, known as the "Boston agreement," and providing for mutual relations which should make effective the control of the trade along the lines already described. The by-laws of the National Wholesale Association were then amended so as to include this article:

Whenever it shall be determined by the Board of Trustees directly or through committee acting separately or in conference with any authorized body from a retail association that any person, firm, or corporation is not a legitimate customer for the wholesale trade, according to the principles recognized by this association as best concerning the interests of the lumber business, the members shall not thereafter sell to any such person, firm, or corporation.

In 1908 it appears there was a split between the retailers and the wholesalers over this Boston agreement, but the complaint observes that, notwithstanding this fact the classifications continued and the division of trade and territory was enforced. Following is a specimen notice of the National Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association:

We are in receipt of yours of —— instant, in which you advise us of your classification of the above concerns being carpenters and builders and not retail dealers of the class whose requirements entitle them to purchase at wholesale. Your protest and classification will be communicated to our members and said classification continued unless and until objection is made to the same as being in error, in which event we will promptly communicate with you.

Exhibit J of the complaint is a typical blacklisting letter which the Government charges was sent out by the Jersey Lumbermen's Protective Association. It begins with the injunction: "Don't hang this up in your office. Half the sales of contractors can be traced to exposing this list." The letter continues with instructions about reporting "irregular" shipments and then contains the list of wholesale dealers who "are reported as selling or quoting direct to consumers."

"Poaching" and "Scalping."

The territorial division which is charged in the complaint is described as being based on an agreement that the retailers in the alleged conspiracy will not sell outside the territory immediately surrounding their own yards, which process is known as "poaching," and will not quote prices in wholesale lots or on a wholesale basis, which is known in the vernacular as "scalping." Exhibit AA of the complaint shows a preamble and resolutions passed by the Eastern States Retail Dealers' Association to the effect "that such practice of poaching is hereby reprehended and condemned as an evil tending to overthrow the business of the retailer and to bring the lumber trade into disrepute."

The resolution declares that the poacher, "in disregarding wholly what has always been recognized as fair and equitable relations between yard dealers, is a menace to the trade and therefore undesirable as a member of any lumber trade association." The Eastern States Retail Lumbers Dealers' Association is pledged in the resolution to "stamp out such practice," and the meeting voted to issue a list of poachers and distribute this list to the members of the association.

The last exhibit attached to the complaint is an extract from the address of the President of the National Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association at a convention in Washington in 1906 in which this official says:

"We are all in favor of high prices and fixed high prices. We should fix the status of the poacher and keep it fixed and his place should be with the scalper. He is a maverick roaming at will over our land, drinking of the clearest streams, feeding in the best pastures. He must be caught and branded. No association should permit him membership and no individual should under any condition permit trading with him."

Defends Dealers' Action.

The Eastern States Retail Lumber Dealers' Association has no permanent office or office force. It frequently, however, meets here in the quarters of the New York Lumber Trade Association, one of its members. J. D. Crary, founder and Secretary of the latter organization, said when his attention was called to the Government's suit that the lumber trade knew it was under investigation, but that the filing of the suit at this time was a surprise.

"The membership of this association," said Mr. Carey, "is wholly voluntary, and is composed practically of all the retailers and most of the wholesalers doing business in the market. To the best of my knowledge we have never blackballed an applicant for membership.

"We take the ground that a wholesaler or manufacturer should not sell to a dealer and the dealer's customer also. We have co-operated with certain other associations. As the result only sixty-six out of the hundreds and thousands of manufacturers and wholesalers in the territory comprising New York, Philadelphia, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and the District of Columbia have been listed as having quoted or sold direct to the consumer. And all that has been done in this connection was to send the list to our membership for information only. Having received the list, they do as they want. They can buy from them or lend them money or go in partnership with them. There is no rule, written or unwritten, which requires them to take any action. We have issued no list since December."

MORE SUITS TO FOLLOW.

Criminal Prosecutions Considered—Lumber Men Deny Charges.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—At the Department of Justice to-day it was stated that the suit filed in New York against the so-called Lumber Trust probably would be the first of a series to be instituted wherever similar violations of law are alleged. Officials of the department made it plain that there would be no delay in pushing the cases, and declared that the character of the operations of the defendants and the nature of the proof produced would determine if criminal or civil proceedings would be brought in the other cases under investigation.

CHICAGO, May 19.—It became known to-day that for several months secret agents from Washington have been working in nearly every State west of the Mississippi and in Illinois and Michigan, as well as in the Eastern territory covered by the New York suit against the so-called Lumber Trust, taking statements of dealers and examining books and records of the associations which are said to control the trade.

The Western associations investigated are reported to be the Northwestern Retail Lumber Dealers' Association at Minneapolis, the Western Retail Lumberman's Association at Spokane, Southwestern Lumberman's Association at Kansas City, Mo.; Retail Lumber Dealers' Association of Colorado and Wyoming at Colorado Springs, Col.; Michigan Retail Lumber Dealers' Association at Grand Rapids, Mich.; Lumberman's Association of Texas at Houston, Texas, and the Retail Lumberman's Association of Illinois at Chicago.

Some of the dealers say that many of the associations having to do with particular lines of lumber, as well as local clubs, Exchanges, and "line" yards, have been under the close scrutiny of Government agents.

A bitter war has been waged in the Middle West by retailers' associations upon manufacturers and wholesalers who have been selling direct to the consumer through mail order houses, contracting builders, and farmers' co-operative unions. Several years ago eighteen members of the Northwestern Lumbermen's Association were indicted in the United States Circuit Court at Minneapolis, charged with conspiracy in connection with the campaign of the Chicago retailers against the mail order houses. The indictments were dismissed upon technical grounds.

Within the last two years a prolonged litigation against the Nebraska Association of Retailers was terminated by the Supreme Court of that State, which held that the association was operating in violation of the State anti-trust law, which in many respects conforms to the Sherman act.

Managers of the retail associations maintain that all their operations have been directed by the legal opinions of skilled lawyers. They are prepared to submit a strong defense to the Government's attack.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—William H. Macbride, President of the Lumbermen's Exchange of this city, and also head of the Retail Lumbermen's Association of Philadelphia, said to-day:

"The Philadelphia Retail Association is affiliated with the Eastern States' Association. Our local body has about forty-two members, who meet once a year, and at that meeting officers are elected and a banquet held. There is no attempt to regulate prices, no attempt to make up a black list, and no desire on the part of any one to make contractors and builders buy from certain concerns. Practically every retail firm in the city belongs to this association. It seems impossible for me to believe that the Government makes such serious and ridiculous allegations."

BOSTON, May 19.—Horace B. Shepard, President of the wholesale lumber firm of Shepard & Morse and a former President of the Massachusetts Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association, said to-day that, so far as he knew, the Massachusetts Retail Lumber Dealers' Association was a social organization whose members met occasionally during the year for a dinner. Not for ten years, he said, had the association attempted to interfere in any way with the business of the wholesalers. His own firm, Mr. Shepard said, sold lumber to any one it pleased, and considerable of his firm's trade was with manufacturers, although on account of the yard and teaming facilities his firm did not try to sell direct to the builders.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 19.—"I had an idea they were going to make some kind of a flurry," said Walter Parriot, Secretary and Treasurer of the Lumber Dealers' Association of Rhode Island, when informed of the Government's action this afternoon. Mr. Parriot said that he had recently been visited by two men from the Department of Justice, who spent considerable time making an inquiry into the affairs of the association, and he had given them all the information they desired. One of the association's record books the men took with them to Washington.

"So far as a lumber trust is concerned," said Mr. Parriot, "I never heard of any."

BALTIMORE, May 19.—George H. Poehlman made a sweeping denial to-day of the Government's charge so far as the Baltimore lumber dealers were concerned. Mr. Poehlman said the Baltimore association was merely a protective association, which did not concern itself in any way with the regulation of prices, nor interfere in any way with free competition. As a matter of fact, he added, the association had not had a meeting for a year.

tet on their arrival at the Pennsylvania Railroad station told, however, and this evening the marriage was generally known here.

When Harry K. Vingut and Miss Edith Gaynor came to Wilmington to be married on June 22 the prospective bridegroom hunted up his old friend, Attorney General Andrew C. Gray, and the marriage was performed in Mr. Gray's office in the Dupont Building. To-day, however, things were different. The Vinguts had hoped that the Delaware Attorney General could again aid them, but Mr. Gray was in New York.

When Mr. Gray returned to his office this afternoon he found Mr. and Mrs. Webb and Mr. and Mrs. Vingut awaiting him and heard the news. The Attorney General congratulated the couple, and then the party walked down Market Street to a drug store, where the health of the bride and bridegroom was drunk in the temperate beverages there served. The Webbs and the Vinguts then left the Attorney General and kept on to the Pennsylvania Railroad Station where they took the 3:10 o'clock train north.

Attorney General Gray is a Trustee of the First Presbyterian Church, where the marriage took place. It is the oldest church of that denomination now used in Delaware, and this marriage is the first of any prominence that has occurred here since the enactment of more rigorous marriage laws by the Legislature last Winter, the object of which was to eliminate Wilmington as a Gretna Green.

ANGELIS AND AMEDEO CONFRONT ACCUSER

Ascrittore, Questura's Spy, Tells Why He Believes Them Guilty of the Cuocolo Murders.

EXPERT TESTIMONY ON SCAR

Alfano Vociferously Rebukes a Carabiniere Who Harshly Tried to Quiet Camorra People in the Cage.

VITERBO, May 19.—The two men denounced by Giacomo Ascrittore as the assassins of Gennaro Cuocolo and his wife had a chance to face their accuser and orally defend themselves at the trial of the Camorristi to-day.

After Enrico Alfano and other alleged leaders of the Camorra had been arrested on suspicion, they were released upon the intercession of the priest Ciro Vitozzi, who said that he had learned of their innocence through the discovery of the real assassins while performing his office of confessor.

It developed that Giacomo Ascrittore had charged Tomasso de Angelis and Gaetano Amedeo as the murderers. These men, though known criminally, established alibis, and Vitozzi and Ascrittore were arrested, charged with conspiracy against them, and also with an attempt to shield the actual assassins.

Subsequently Alfano and his associates were again arrested and held for the present trial. De Angelis and Amedeo are now crown witnesses against Ascrittore, who is charged, together with Don Ciro Vitozzi, of conspiracy against them and with diverting justice from the real murderers of the Cuocolos.

Nothing of special importance was developed. Ascrittore confirmed his earlier testimony, repeating the circumstances which he said had led him to believe that the men he denounced were guilty. He declared that at one time de Angelis had shown him a dagger, saying:

"With this Cuocolo will be served."

The accused person denied the allegations.

President Bianchi instructed de Angelis to bare his left leg and show again to the jurymen and to the medical experts the wound which, according to Ascrittore, was received from Cuocolo when the latter was fighting for his life, but which, according to de Angelis himself, he received fifteen years ago from a nail while he was gathering shell fish at Ustica. This wound, de Angelis said, had reopened in 1906.

At the afternoon session Ascrittore continued his accusation, while de Angelis reiterated his denial. Both became heated over a suggestion from some of the accused men in the cage that it was possible the wound in de Angelis's leg had been caused by a shellfish.

The Lieutenant of Carabinieri charged with keeping order within the cage told them harshly to be silent. This was the signal for an outburst from them. Shaking his fist at the Carabiniere, Alfano shouted:

"Silence yourself. Only the President is empowered to keep order here."

Then the other prisoners joined him in shrieking at the Carabiniere.

"Shame!" "Villain!" "It's time to stop persecuting us," they cried.

The pandemonium reached such a height that the President was compelled to suspend the sitting for a time.

When it was resumed experts who had examined the scar on de Angelis's leg said it was improbable that it had been caused by a penknife.

The campaign which was carried on against de Angelis and Amedeo by the Questura, or civil police, during the first detention of Alfano, Vitelli, and Rapi, from June 10 to July 17, 1906, and revived early in the Spring of the following year, when the Carabinieri began their raids upon the Camorra, had its origin, so the Carabinieri believe, not only in a desire to shield the real murderers of the Cuocolos, but also in the attempt of the heads of the Honorable Society, to discipline two delinquent members by making them serve as "imputati di paglia"—straw criminals.

De Angelis and Amedeo are not prisoners, but Crown witnesses, appearing against Giacomo Ascrittore and Antonio Farlati, spies of the Questura, and Don Ciro Vitozzi, who is alleged to have inspired the whole campaign against them.

They are brought forward now by the prosecution in order to complete the hypothesis of moral guilt of the prisoners in the cage by eliminating, in the eyes of the jury, persons whom the defense accuses of committing the crimes.

Incidental to this—a circumstance quite unthinkable in American jurisprudence—is being actually tried the civil case of de Angelis and Amedeo vs. Ascrittore and Vitozzi for defamation of character and false imprisonment.

Tommaso de Angelis is 55 years of age, a native of Naples, but with an abode—when out of prison—at Castellammare. He was seriously implicated in the murder of Nicola la Mura, a priest, and his servant, Nicoletta Vuola, which took place at Gragnano, Dec. 30, 1902. Investigation proved that robbery had been the sole object, but that the victims had succumbed to a too severe gagging. Because he had on him a large sum of money which he could not satisfactorily account for, and because, when arrested, he had at his home several marked copies of journals containing the story of the crime, de Angelis was for a long time under suspicion.

All these facts were well known to the spy of the Questura, Ascrittore, and so when he was interrogated on June 20, 1906, by the examining Magistrate, Enrico Romano, he made the following statement:

"In 1891 I was at the Carmine Prison with Tommaso de Angelis. On leaving prison I did not see him again until June 2, 1906, when he came to my house, and, not finding me, returned on June 4. He spoke to me of a crime which had cost him twenty-seven months' imprisonment, which had been caused by the 'real murderer of the priest, La Mura,' where they found some gold coins, and which he knew all about, as he was at that time in Gragnano buying flour, (comprare del semolino;) that is to say, in the language of the Camorra, (doing light robberies.)

"De Angelis then pointedly asked me if I knew 'figlio di papa,' (papa's son,) and when I answered in the negative, he added that it was Gennaro Cuocolo, who lived like a fine gentleman, but with whom he 'had an account to settle.' He asked me to let him sleep at my house on the following evening (June 5, the night of the Cuocolo murders,) or on that evening. I asked him if he were alone, and he replied that he had a companion, so I told him I could not accommodate him.

"While I spoke, I noticed that he had a dagger, for he took it out of its sheath several times. He wore a panama hat, which he told me he had got from the prison furnisher, but he did not say where. After that he went away."

On March 14, 1910, the examining Magistrate at Fuorigrotta, near Naples, interrogated a woman who declared that she was de Angelis's cousin, Irene de Angelis, who lived at Castellammare, 158 Corso Vittorio Emanuele. She denounced de Angelis, Amedeo, and Cuocolo, as the murderers of the priest, La Mura, and described a house in Naples where part of the property taken could be found.

A search revealed the property where she said it was, but the woman did not appear again nor could she be traced. The Carabinieri, however, have ascertained that she bears no resemblance to Irene de Angelis, who is de Angelis's sister, and his only relative at Castellammare.

Gaetano Amedeo, who was first denounced to the Questura in an anonymous letter, is, like de Angelis, a professional thief and ex-convict, and is, moreover, considered one of the cleverest rogues in Naples. Amedeo, when interrogated, treated the matter lightly and declared that the Questura had the best of reasons for knowing that he could not possibly be mixed up in the Cuocolo affair.

"That was an aristocratic crime," he added. "I never trouble such persons."

Ascrittore made no mention of the wound in de Angelis's left leg, just below the knee, until after the arrest of Corrado Sortino, who had a wound on his hand, and it had developed by the interrogation that a penknife belonging to Cuocolo had been found near the body in the Cupa Calastro. On its blade were drops of dried blood and the deduction was made that Cuocolo had defended himself with it. On this point, and with no knowledge that the penknife had been found, Abbatemaggio stated:

"Suddenly Mariano di Gennaro gave a blow with his dagger to Cuocolo, who strove to draw from his pocket a penknife. Nicola Morra, in his turn, gave him another stab, while Sortino was wounded in the hand by the penknife."

PORTUGUESE PLOTTERS HELD

Army Men Among Others Arrested for Conspiracy—Government Is Uneasy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 19.—A Lisbon dispatch to The Daily Mail says that last night the Carbonari members of the great Republican Secret Society, who have now detachments all over Portugal, arrested a large number of Anarchists who are accused of conspiring against the republic.

Among the prisoners are a Captain of artillery and other army officers, and several well-known people. The arrests were made separately in cafés, at railway stations, and in the streets, the Carbonari having followed the suspects' movements for a week. All the prisoners are in solitary confinement.

The warship Adamastor has been ordered to Oporto to overawe any signs of the reactionary movement which, it is said, may break out during the elections as a result of monarchical intrigue.

A widespread feeling of uneasiness seems to prevail in Government circles.

VIENNA MOURNS MAHLER.

Entire Population, from Prima Donna to Costermonger, Lament His Death.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 19.—A Vienna dispatch says that the death of Gustav Mahler has been the occasion for an outburst of sorrow on the part of the entire population of the Austrian capital. Prima donna and costermonger alike join in mourning for the great musician.

Mahler left instructions that his heart be pierced with a needle to make sure that he was really dead, and ordered a simple funeral at Grinzing, at the foot of the Austrian Alps.

DON'T WANT DR. COOK.

London Vaudeville Managers Decline to Book Him at $1,000 a Week.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 19.—A well-known firm of London vaudeville agents for some time past has been endeavoring to make bookings for Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who, dressed as an arctic explorer, would tell the story of how he did not reach the north pole.

The agents asked $1,000 a week for the engagement, but all the managers so far approached have declined the proposal.

They say that Londoners are not in the least interested in Dr. Cook.

FOR RUSSO-AMERICAN AMITY.

Fleet's Baltic Cruise a Chance for an Entente, Says Novoe Vremya.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 19.—The Novoe Vremya in a leading article to-day says that the present cruise of the American fleet in the Baltic Sea is dictated by the necessity of smoothing over the bad impression created in Germany by the peculiarities of the American squadron's visit last year to England and France. The administration of President Roosevelt, the newspaper asserts, was marked by a peculiar hostility to the Russian Empire, and public opinion then, owing to the skilful work of interested parties, was also hostile. Recently, however, the feeling against Russia in America seems to have changed, and as a consequence Russia has been included in the itinerary of the American fleet's cruise, though the inclusion of Russia, the paper adds, is possibly contrary to the wishes of the State Department at the present time.

"We cannot attribute the direct political meaning of the visit," says the Novoe Vremya, "and can scarcely yet rely upon the truly friendly relations of the United States. Nevertheless it would be a direct inadvertence to miss the opportunity for a Russo-American rapprochement. The naval, military, and other elements should give the American sailors a never-to-be-forgotten welcome. The inaction of Russian diplomacy at a critical period, and the lack of acquaintance by Russians with the current public life in America, permitted the wide success of an anti-Russian propaganda, the results of which are equally detrimental to Russia and America. The Russian people are now given a chance to retrieve that situation."

SWINGS TO SAFETY.

Painter Grasps Rope When Scaffold Breaks and Finally Gains a Window.

William Wulker, a painter, of 1,001 Rockaway Avenue grasped the end of a rope yesterday just as a scaffold upon which he and another man were working at the fourth floor of a new building at Powell Street and Sutter Avenue, Brooklyn, collapsed. While his companion plunged downward, Wulker swung back and forth in the air, finally swinging himself through a window to safety.

His companion, whom he knew only as Mike, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital with a broken skull.

FOREIGN BANKS FEAR THE SULLIVAN BILL

AIMED AT PRIVATE BANKS

But That It Relates to Others, He Thinks, No Reason Why It Shouldn't Pass—Bankers Confer.

In making a defense yesterday of the Sullivan-Foley bill, now pending in the Legislature, Senator Henry W. Pollock admitted that it would affect "a number of foreign banks as to whose responsibility there can be no question." He did not think, however, that this was a valid reason for defeating the measure, as it was aimed at the unreliable private banks, such as had been victimizing the east side poor, and which the corporate law did not reach. The Senator said this:

"Prior to the enactment of the statute of 1910 private banking had been carried on under no restriction whatsoever, as a result of which many irresponsible persons, after remaining in business long enough to obtain deposits from poor people, in some instances aggregating half a million dollars, absconded, leaving practically nothing behind them.

"The law of 1910 placed these private bankers under the regulation of the State Controller.

Express companies and telegraph companies engaged in receiving moneys for transmission, being responsible institutions, and therefore not necessary to subject them to the control of the State Controller, this law specifically excepted them. This unfortunately led to a large number of private bankers incorporating their business as express companies, and carrying on their old business relieved from the supervision of the State Controller.

To overcome this citizens interested in protecting persons doing banking with business concerns not under the jurisdiction of the State Banking Department desire the passage of the bill introduced by Senator Sullivan.

"It is unfortunate that a number of foreign banks as to whose responsibility there can be no question will be affected by this bill of Senator Sullivan, but that in any wise is any cause for not passing the bill, because, without this amendment to the general corporation law, all the advantages sought by the private bankers' act of last year would be lost. Probably the best disposition would be to have these several branches of foreign banks subject themselves to the supervision of the State Banking Department, to which surely there can be no objection if their professions of financial responsibility are sound."

It was pointed out yesterday that the branches of foreign banks doing business in the State may find protection in the provision of the Sullivan-Foley bill, which excepts a corporation formed under "or subject to the banking laws of this State." Paragraph 30 of Section 8 of Article II. of the State banking laws provides:

> He (the State Superintendent of Banks) shall also have power to examine or cause to be examined every agency located in this State of any foreign bank or banking corporation for the purpose of ascertaining whether it has violated any law of the State, and for such other purposes and as to such other matters as the Superintendent may prescribe.

The bill, it is understood, was drafted by Louis Marshall of the firm of Guggenheimer, Untermyer & Marshall. Mr. Marshall was actively connected with much of the legislation that was recommended by the Immigration Commission appointed during the Hughes régime for the protection of immigrants arriving in this State.

It is understood that some amendments will be offered and possibly a compromise bill be introduced next week.

There are some twenty-five agencies of foreign banks in New York, and of these the most important represent Canadian institutions. A meeting attended by representatives of the leading South American banks was held yesterday to consider the Sullivan-Foley bill, which they feared threatened their business here, and a committee of three was appointed to investigate.

The foreign banks are not allowed to accept deposits and must pay annually to the State Treasurer a tax of 5 per cent. on the amount of interest or compensation collected on money loaned, used, or employed in the State. This requirement opens their books to the inspection of the State officials.

BRITISH SEAMEN TO STRIKE.

Leader Threatens Tie-Up at All Ports —May 29 Is Reported Date.

GLASGOW, May 19.—At a largely attended meeting of seamen to-day, Secretary French of the local Seamen's and Firemen's Union, stated that a date for a general strike at all ports had been fixed, but that the union officials had decided to keep the date secret until the eve of the day set for the strike.

He promised the Shipping Federation the biggest fight ever known among the transport workers of Great Britain. Shipowners on the Clyde, however, do not take much stock of this threat, but are preparing for emergencies.

It is reported here that May 29 has been chosen as the day upon which the men are to quit work.

SEEKS AID OF KING GEORGE.

Mrs. Mellon as British Subject Appeals for Help in Divorce Case.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 19.—The divorce proceedings of A. W. Mellon, the banker, against his wife, who was Nora McMullen, daughter of one of the founders of the Guiness Brewing Company of Dublin, has become an international question. Owing to the passage of the Scott act, which became a law April 11, 1911, whereby Mrs. Mellon has been deprived of a trial by jury, as a British subject she appealed to King George to use his influence through the Diplomatic Corps to secure a trial by jury.

Andrew W. Mellon brought divorce proceedings against his wife on Sept. 14, 1910, naming a young Englishman, Alfred George Curpsey. Mrs. Mellon's attorney, Paul S. Ache, demanded a trial by jury in the Allegheny County Court in January, 1911. The demand was held over. March 29, 1911, the Scott act, leaving it to the Judge of the court whether a jury trial is to be granted or not, was introduced in the Pennsylvania Legislature, and April 11, 1911, it became a law. The Scott act is retroactive, in that it deprives litigants of a jury trial in actions pending as well as those which may come before the court in the future.

During the week A. W. Mellon's attorneys notified Mrs. Mellon's attorneys that they were ready to try the case before a Master. Mrs. Mellon's attorneys deny the constitutionality of the Scott act, and allege that as Mrs. Mellon has been charged with a crime, it is her right to be tried by a jury. Mr. Ache to-day said:

"I do not think the appeal of Mrs. Mellon to King George will lead to international entanglements. In fact, I cannot see that the English Government, through their Diplomatic Corps, can affect the subject. We will, however, carry constitutionality of the Scott act to the United States Supreme Court if we get no relief from the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. The Constitution gives all persons charged with a crime the right of trial by jury, and we do not believe the State courts can deny us that right."

Mrs. Mellon, after her separation from her husband more than two years ago, prepared to go back to England and make her home. She had been given the custody of her two children for seven and a half months each year and the father was to have the custody of the children for four and one-half months.

Mr. Mellon, fearing that if his children were taken away from the jurisdiction of the United States courts, the action of the courts would be set at naught by his wife, refused to permit her to take the children out of the country. Mrs. Mellon thereupon changed her mind about going to England and remained in Pittsburg. In the meantime she resigned all rights to citizenship in the United States and again became a subject of the British Crown. Hence her appeal to the King for redress.

CRAGEN IN HIS OWN DEFENSE.

Denies Knowledge of Queens Graft in the Raising of Postage Receipts.

Municipal Justice John M. Cragen, accused of raising postage stamp receipts from $5 to $50 in the office of Borough President Lawrence Gresser while he was secretary, was on the verge of a nervous collapse at this trial yesterday while under cross-examination by Deputy Attorney General James A. Parsons before Justice Kapper, in the Queens County Supreme Court.

In his own defense he had made a general denial of the testimony given by Louis J. McNally, a junior clerk in his office, save that McNally admitted to him that he, McNally, had raised the receipts.

Overwrought by the long ordeal of the week, Cragen became visibly agitated as the cross-examination progressed, nervously clasping and unclasping his hands until his friends began to fear he would collapse.

Justice Kapper called a five-minute recess to give the jury an opportunity to stretch, and in this brief interval Cragen recovered.

Cragen testified that following his appointment as secretary President Gresser turned over to him the petty cash fund of $500, and he selected Louis J. McNally, a junior clerk, as the one to make the cash disbursements. When he got a warrant for $500 he deposited it in his general bank account, and had no means of knowing when it was exhausted save by consulting McNally's expense account. He took McNally's word for the expenditures, and when making up his affidavit of expeditures in applying for a renewal of the fund of $500 he simply went by the balances and footings as shown by McNally's account book. He never noticed that the bills for postage stamps every month footed up an even $100, as he signed from 250 to 300 routine papers a day.

The first he knew the postage stamp receipts had been tampered with was when he was called as a witness before Commissioner of Accounts Raymond Fosdick.

Thestimony was concluded, and counsel for both sides asked until this morning to get ready for summing up. The case will be given to the jury to-day.

STILLMAN WON'T COMMENT.

Hasn't Read the Oil Decision, and Is Trying to Forget Business, He Says.

James Stillman arrived yesterday on the Cunard liner Mauretania. When asked for an opinion on the Standard Oil decision, he replied that he had not read it.

"I retired from active business two years ago," he said. "I have come to go fishing. I am trying to forget business."

FINED FOR STORING WAGONS IN STREET

No Right So to Use Public Property, Magistrate Tells Three Expressmen.

Test Case on a Similar Complaint Now Being Tried—Affects Taxis, Hacks, and Sight-Seeing Cars.

Holding that it is unlawful for owners to let their vehicles block the streets, even though they are licensed by the Aldermen or Legislature, Magistrate Freschi inflicted $10 fines yesterday on Bernard Cominsky, Jacob C. Mark, and Samuel Bresselman, expressmen. Complaint against them was made by Marcus Julien, a Ludlow Street merchant, and Miss L. F. Spafford, Principal of Public School 161 in Ludlow Street. In fining the expressmen Magistrate Freschi said:

"Public property cannot be taken for private use any more than private property can be taken for public use without just compensation. The abutting property owners cannot give their consent to the obstruction on the street in front of their property."

Magistrate Freschi cited a case decided by Mayor Gaynor when he was on the Supreme Court bench in Kings County, in which he ordered Deputy Police Commissioner York to remove from Seigel Street, Brooklyn, vehicles standing there under a license from the Aldermen. In this decision Justice Gaynor held that the Aldermen could not "legalize or license a nuisance."

Chief Magistrate McAdoo said yesterday that the principles laid down by Magistrate Freschi are at issue in a test case now before him against the owner, manager, and one of the chauffeurs of a sight-seeing vehicle company which occupies Broadway at Twenty-third Street. The Chief Magistrate said the decision would determine the question as to the right of taxicabs, hacks, or other vehicles to stand before hotels, restaurants, and office buildings soliciting traffic. Notice had been served on him, he said, that if his decision was adverse the case would be appealed to the highest courts.

The case against Orville Dickinson, proprietor of the sight-seeing cars at Broadway and Twenty-third Street; Thomas Hardman and Frederick A. Cafferty, two employes, was adjourned yesterday until next Wednesday morning.

UPHOLDS DENVER INJUNCTION

City Is Not Allowed to Issue Bonds for New Waterworks.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 19.—The temporary injunction recently granted by the United States Circuit Court, enjoining the City of Denver from issuing $8,000,000 bonds or taking other steps for the installation of a city water system of its own, is upheld in a decision handed down today by Judge Hook in the United States Court of Appeals.

Under this decision the cases begun by the New York Trust Company, Trustee, and the Denver Water Company against the City of Denver, asking for an order of the court compelling the city to purchase the plant of the present water company at an appraised price, will be heard in the United States Circuit Court at Denver.

By an ordinance passed in 1890 the City of Denver agreed to give the water company a franchise for twenty years, at the end of which period the franchise was to be renewed for a like period with modifications of terms; or, as an alternative, the city agreed to purchase the water company's plant at a price to be fixed by five appraisers.

When the twenty years had nearly expired five appraisers fixed the value of the plant at $14,000,000. This price the city refused to pay, and another ordinance was passed by the City Council offering the water company $7,000,000. In the event of the refusal of this offer by the company a proposition was to be submitted to the voters of the city for the issuance of $8,000,000 of bonds to construct a municipal water plant.

It was submitted to the electors and carried.

The New York Trust Company and the water company then asked the Circuit Court for a temporary injunction restraining the city from proceeding with its plan to establish its own water works. The court granted the injunction. Judge Hook affirms the order.

NEW GRAND CENTRAL PALACE.

First Big Building in New York Central Improvement Opens.

A new amusement building was opened to New Yorkers last night, the successor to the old Grand Central Palace at Lexington Avenue and Forty-third Street. It bears the same name and is three blocks above the older structure, which will be torn down soon to make way for the Grand Central Station improvements.

In keeping with the magnitude and interior beauty of the new Grand Central Palace, the building was opened with a show devoted to architecture and engineering. As a visitor remarked on entering the broad, well-lighted vestibule with its wide marble stairway, flanked by Doric columns, the building itself is a noteworthy object lesson of architectural and engineering skill. It is the first one to be finished among the imposing structures planned by the New York Central to cover the track yards on both sides of Lexington Avenue, north of the station to Fiftieth Street.

The new Grand Central Palace is thirteen stories, occupying the entire block front on Lexington Avenue, between Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh Streets, and in time it is proposed to erect a similar one on the block to the north, the two to be connected by artistic bridges spanning Forty-seventh Street.

The opening of the building attracted nearly as large a crowd on the sidewalk as assembled inside. A throng of urchins were quick to take advantage of the occasion by defying the municipal ordinance against selling tickets on the sidewalk. The nuisance became so great after a while that two policemen were delegated to curb this sidewalk trade.

Among the exhibits at the show are the latest things in metallic doors and windows, economical heating and ventilating systems, artistic cement decorations, electrical devices, landscape gardening novelties, including specimens of the work on John D. Rockefeller's Pocantico estate near Tarrytown, and many systems of fireproofing. Ex-Fire Chief Croker's fire prevention company has a small but interesting exhibit, and the Municipal Art Society and the American Musem of Safety show a number of interesting things.

Three floors of the building are to be devoted to exhibition and entertainment purposes, and of the other ten floors nine are occupied by large industrial concerns. The exhibit will remain open every day and evening next week.

WIFE SUES C. S. ABELL.

Charges Norfolk Newspaper Publisher with Abandonment.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 19.—Miss Elizabeth C. Lackey Abell, wife of Charles S. Abell, publisher of The Norfolk Landmark and former part owner of The Baltimore Sun, has filed a suit for divorce in the Baltimore County Court. The bill charges that Mr. Abell abandoned his wife three years ago, and that they have not lived together since that time. She asks alimony.

Mr. and Mrs. Abell were married at Towson, Baltimore County, on Nov. 11, 1896. They have four children, three boys and one girl. For some time Mrs. Abell and her children have lived at Marble Hall, their country estate at Govans.

When W. W. Abell withdrew from the active management of The Baltimore Sun and Charles S. Grasty obtained control, Charles S. Abell went to Norfolk, where he purchased a controlling interest in The Landmark. Mr. Abell is the son of the late George W. Abell and a grandson of the late A. S. Abell, the founder of The Sun. He is a member of the Maryland Club, Baltimore Country Club, and the Merchants' Club.

McNamara Defense League Formed.

The formation of a McNamara Defense League to aid in the defense of the prisoners in The Los Angeles Times dynamiting case, and consisting of representatives of leading labor organizations, was announced at a meeting of the Central Federated Union last night. The McNamara Defense Committee of the Central Federated Union, which was appointed some time ago, reported through its Chairman, Albert Abrahams, that the league has been made up of representatives of all labor unions, the Woman's Trades Union League, and the Socialist Party. He announced that the League would draft a general appeal to the New York unions and the public for funds. The league proposes to hold a mass meeting in Carnegie Hall.

SEEKS HER DAUGHTER MISSING FOR MONTHS

Mae Smith Vanished from the Nurses' School on Blackwell's Island in October.

HINT OF COMING MARRIAGE

Told Her Mother of a Wealthy Theatrical Man and Spoke of a Fine Home in New Haven.

Mrs. Mary B. Smith, a widow, of 160 West 142d Street, discouraged over the unsuccessful efforts of the police to find her daughter Mae, 21 years old, who disappeared strangely from the Metropolitan Hospital Training School for Nurses on Blackwell's Island on Oct. 8, has appealed to THE TIMES to help her. Mrs. Smith is afraid her daughter has met with foul play. Mrs. Smith said that her daughter read THE TIMES, and, if alive, would be sure to see her mother's appeal.

Mrs. Smith said her daughter went to work at the Nurses' Training School a little more than a year ago. It was her duty to take charge of the table of Agnes S. Ward, the Superintendent. Mrs. Smith had employment as an invalid's attendant. She was taken in in Hawthorne, N. Y., last September and two days after Labor Day her daughter visited her. The girl told of a pleasant time she had had on Labor Day at a pleasure resort with a young Bronx architect, and then she spoke of a theatrical man who had been attentive. She told her mother that neither of them would have to work very much longer, and intimated that the theatrical man wanted to marry her, and that they would have a fine home in New Haven, Conn. That was the last Mrs. Smith saw of her daughter. She learned at the Nurses' School later that the girl had disappeared on Oct. 8 after a tilt with one of the matrons. On Dec. 9 Mrs. Smith got a postal in her daughter's handwriting from Bridgeport, Conn. It was unsigned, and was as follows:

> Dearest Mother: Awfully sorry to worry you the way I have, but I have been very ill and awfully unhappy. I won't forget you Christmas. My real love to my dear mother.

Mrs. Smith asked the police of Bridgeport to look for her daughter. The police replied that they would do what they could. Mrs. Smith wrote several times afterward to the Bridgeport police, but she declared they did not reply to her letters.

Mrs. Smith also reported her daughter's disappearance to Police Headquarters here and a general alarm was sent out. The hospitals and the Morgue were searched without result. Last Monday Mrs. Smith visited the Morgue to see if she could identify the body of a woman found in the river as that of her daughter. She decided that the river victim was an older woman than her daughter.

"Until she went to work at the Nurses' School on Blackwell's Island," said Mrs. Smith, "my daughter and I had never been separated. I am at a loss to understand how she could have so completely dropped out of sight. I am heartbroken and miserable without her, and anxiety is almost killing me. I have spent all of my time and money in trying to find some trace of her. The police have not given up the search for her yet. Scarcely a week goes by that a detective does not call to see me, but they don't bring back my little girl."

The missing girl is 5 feet 6 inches in height, and has fair complexion, dark hair, gray eyes, and good teeth. She has small hands, and was particular about having her nails manicured.

PAPAL PROTEST TO SPAIN.

Government Reproached for Ignoring Vatican Over Associations Bill.

MADRID, May 19.—Cardinal Aguirrey Garcia, the Primate of Spain, to-day sent a protest to the Parliamentary Committee in charge of the Associations Bill, which provides for the regulation of religious and other societies, and which is at present an issue between Spain and the Vatican, because of the Pope's resistence that the measure from the subject of an entente between Rome and Madrid before it is acted upon by the Cortes.

The Cardinal declares that by not consulting with the Hol See as to the questions included in the bill, the Government has violated the concordat of 1851, and has imperilled its conscience as regards the Church by granting excessive liberty to propaganda hostile to Catholicism.

FROM A BANKER

We have obtained copy of a letter written by Mr. P. B. Bowles, President of the First National Bank of Oakland, California, in reply to an enquiry about us from a Western capitalist.

We quote the letter in part:

"This contracting firm erected for us the First National Bank Building in Oakland, which is one of the most attractive buildings on this Coast. Their work is in every way satisfactory and high class, and their system is exceptionally good. From what I know of this firm locally, and from what I know of them by enquiry, and by personal investigation of their Eastern work, I believe them to be the foremost in the contracting business in this country."

SAYS GOSPEL FAILS TO FILL PEWS NOW

People Want Picture Shows, New Presbyterian Moderator Declares.

ASSEMBLY INDORSES TAFT

Adopts Peace Resolution—Move to Consolidate Church Work Is Opposed as an Illegal Combination in Restraint of Trade.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 19.—Speaking upon the importance of evangelistic work, the Rev. Dr. John F. Carson, Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, declared to-day that the American people no longer wanted to hear the Gospel preached. He said:

"I am heartily tired of flitting evangelists, with their flippant utterances that all you need to do to fill your church is to preach the Gospel. As a matter of fact, our American communities do not want to hear the Gospel. The Gospel is being preached in our churches, and that is why the pews are empty.

"No, my brethren, the people are not yearning for the Gospel. Their indifference and opposition to God's truth is the greatest challenge to religion. I could easily fill my church by announcing a moving-picture show for a Sunday evening.

"The prospect of a diversion would draw a crowd. Or I could announce a high-class musical programme, and they would also flock to the service. They would not understand the classical music; but we well know that a great many persons who know little or nothing of music affect to know a great deal."

The trial of the Rev. Dr. William D. Grant, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Northumberland, Penn., will begin to-morrow morning before the Judicial Commission of the General Assembly in the Hotel Chalfonte. Friends of Dr. Grant, who is a graduate of Union Theological Seminary, were sure he would unquestionably be acquitted. The minister is charged with expressing sentiments in conflict with the teachings of the Church, of much the same nature as those attributed to the Rev. Drs. Francis Brown and Charles Adams Brown of Union Seminary.

The commission to try Dr. Grant organized by electing Charles Cairns of Indianapolis as Chairman, and the Rev. Dr. Robert Hunter of Philadelphia Secretary.

This resolution, introduced by the Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, was adopted unanimously by a rising vote:

Resolved, That the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America recognizes with thanksgiving the present movement inaugurated by the President of the United States and heartily promoted by the Secretary for Foreign Affairs of Great Britain, looking toward international peace, and that we urge all public and private individuals in our communion to use their best endeavors and offer their earnest prayers for the consummation of the treaties now under consideration by England, France, and the United States, having for their purpose the ushering in of the era when nations shall not learn war any more;

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded by the Stated Clerk to the President of the United States and the President of the Senate.

The report of the executive commission recommending the consolidation of important boards of church government, home missions, church erection, and missions for Freedmen was presented, and aroused strong opposition. The idea is by reducing the number of Directors and clerks to cut down expenses and to facilitate business.

The Rev. Dr. J. B. Moffatt, President of Washington and Jefferson College, spoke against the consolidation, which, he said, would be "a combination in restraint of trade, and therefore illegal."

A "safe plan of federation" was introduced. It provides for the arrangement of the Board of Home Missions, Freedman's Board, and Board of Church Erection in one group; the College Board and Board of Education in another, and the Board of Ministerial Relief and Sustentation Fund in a third.

The Rev. Dr. Charles Little introduced the subject of reducing the size of general assembly and the Rev. Hiram F. Faulkes of New York explained two plans, one giving each presbytery two Commissioners, one minister, and one elder for every 100 ministers and churches upon its roll, and the other giving each presbytery having less than 100 ministers and churches only one Commissioner, a minister, and elder in alternate years.

RAID ITALIAN LOTTERY MEN.

Police Take Many Prisoners on Whom Tickets Were Found.

Lieut. Vachris and twenty members of the Italian Squad of the Detective Bureau raided nine alleged Italian lottery agencies last night and took sixteen prisoners. Hundreds of letters had been received at Police Headquarters in the last two months from Italian wives and mothers complaining that the lotteries were taking the earnings of their husbands and leaving them and their children without the necessities of life. Lieut. Vachris said last night that from evidence in his possession he believed the amount realized each week by the operators of the lotteries was more than $25,000. Tickets were sold at from 1 to 25 cents apiece.

The first place raided was the tenement of Joseph Rossano on the third floor of a six-story house at 45 Oliver Street. Here, the detectives say, they found six men at work busily stamping lottery tickets. One of them, who said he was Nattale Barrancho of 81 Oliver Street, attempted to jump through the window when the detectives burst into the room and was dragged back by the legs. A pair of brass knuckles was found in his pocket.

At 69 James Street, in a wine cellar, Alfonso Panzara and his nephew, Joseph Panzara, were arrested, and the detectives say they found lottery tickets on them. At 2,249 First Avenue Joseph Alvino and Dr. Edward Cutilo of 231 East 106th Street were arrested. An Italian dream book, which told what lottery numbers to buy after certain dreams, was found.

In the barber shop of Pasquale Franko, 2,145 First Avenue, the detectives say they found a batch of lottery tickets in an ice box. Franko and his nephew, Gaetano Franko, were arrested. Giovanni Siessa's flat, 339 East 106th Street, was raided, and the detectives say they took two dozen lottery tickets from Antonio Lombati. He, Siessa, and Salvatore Rappa, who had a lottery ticket in his pocket, the detectives say, were arrested. Luigi Laparato was arrested at 334 East 106th Street, and the detectives said they found tickets in his possession. Several hundred tickets were found on fourteen-year-old Ralph Tartagliano of 455 East 107th Street, who was just leaving the premises as the detectives were entering.

An Italian coffee saloon at 2,061 First Avenue was next raided, and Giuseppe Mayo and Giacomo Ruffo were arrested. Sabato Nardi was arrested shortly afterward at 115th Street and First Avenue. All the men were taken to Police Headquarters, charged with violating Section 974 of the Penal Code.

CITY BREVITIES.

While Robert Fairweather, a glazier, was in the elevator shaft on the twelfth floor of 28 Vesey Street, putting a glass in the elevator door yesterday afternoon, the elevator, which was being tested by Edward Oliver, an elevator instructor, descended and struck Fairweather on the head, killing him. Oliver was arrested, charged with homicide.

As a part of a campaign of education entered upon with a view of making their trainmen experts in the art of handling and transporting explosives, some 400 superintendents, brakemen, pier foremen, and teamsters of the Pennsylvania Railroad were assembled in the Pennsylvania Terminal Building last night to hear an illustrated lecture on dynamite. The lecturer was Col. Taylor of the Bureau of Explosives of the American Railway Association.

GIRL MANY TIMES BITTEN.

Found Screaming in a Lot, with Four Dogs Attacking Her.

A girl, not more than eighteen years of age, was carried to the Kingston Avenue Hospital, in Brooklyn, early yesterday morning, her legs from the knees down a mass of dog bites, some of them small lacerations, affecting only the skin, but others deep wounds, extending to the bone. She was taken to the hospital by a man, who said he was Thomas McNulty of 412 Lincoln Road.

He stated that just as he was about to go to bed, a few moments before 3 o'clock, human cries caused him to hurry out of doors. They proceeded from a vacant lot, across the street. There McNulty says he found the girl lying on the ground, with four dogs tearing at her. He clubbed them off, and, managing to parry their onslaught upon himself, rescued the girl. Dr. Best was called from Kings County Hospital and treated the girl's wounds.

The police, who at first accepted the man's story without question, were puzzled to learn from the physicians that the bites were at least four hours old. This led to an investigation, which is still in progress. The girl was so weak that she could give them little assistance last evening. She said that she was Bertha Spolidge, and that the dogs attacked her when she was on her way from work to her home at Stone and Pitkin Avenues, East New York.

The police noted that one of her eyes was blackened, and they are awaiting her further recovery to learn where she was about 10 o'clock the evening before. The lot in which McNulty says he found her is in a section known as "Pigtown," which has been the scene of several hold ups recently.

DIVERSION ON ASYLUM TRIP.

Friends Kindly Rescue Deranged Veteran, Who Cried Kidnapping.

When a woman who had known him and his wife for years saw Frederick T. Thompson, a civil war veteran, 65 years old, in company of a big man at 116th Street and Third Avenue at 9 o'clock last night she didn't know that Thompson was being transferred from the Soldiers' Home at Bath, N. Y., to the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane, and not knowing why he was not still at Bath exclaimed:

"Why, what are you doing in town, Mr. Thompson?"

"This man is trying to kidnap me," replied Thompson, who is scarcely 5 feet tall.

Thompson's companion explained that he was Michael Connelly, a keeper in the asylum, but the woman began to cry for help, and presently collected a crowd, most of whom recognized Thompson as an old friend. The woman explained that Thompson was being kidnapped, and the crowd instantly set on Connelly and took Thompson away from him.

Connelly went to the East 126th Street Police Station, and Detectives Curtain and Brennan, who went to look for Thompson after hearing Connelly's story, found the old man in the home of his son-in-law, Joseph Bruno, at 337 East 125th Street. Bruno was glad enough to give the old man up, knowing that he was deranged, and Thompson, having forgotten his kidnapping story, agreed to accompany Connelly to the hospital.

WHY CALL US WICKED? STATEN ISLAND ASKS

Nothing There to Lure One from the Gay Life of Broadway, Say Insular Boroughites.

OF COURSE THERE'S POLITICS

And It's Suggested That Judge Handy, Who Runs the Men's Church League, Mixes His Activities.

Residents of Staten Island were either indignant or amused yesterday, according to their respective temperaments, at efforts to make it appear, as the result of the activities of the Men's Church League, that the insular borough harbored a red light district beside which the Tenderloin of Manhattan was but a delicate pink.

Reports had gone forth that automobile parties had discovered out-of-the-way places in which high jinks could be held without ear of observation, and that in Stapleton particularly were scores of disorderly resorts, moving picture shows and dance halls which were a menace to youth. Tales were told of beer gardens where girls were seen intoxicated in the company of young men, and it was hinted that conditions had become so bad that Deputy Police Commissioner Driscoll was called before the Grand Jury on Thursday to explain the laxity of the police.

Mr. Driscoll was called before the Grand Jury, but it turned out that this was because the Grand Jury had been investigating the unsanitary condition of police stations and wanted information as to the terms of the leases of the premises. The Grand Jury adjourned without even investigating the so-called red light district. Instead, it handed in a presentment deploring activities on the part of Magistrates for factional political advantage or to promote the defense in criminal actions.

This was recognized on all hands as a drive at City Magistrate Joseph B. Handy, President of the Men's Church League and originator of the Staten Island vice crusade. Magistrate Handy is at outs with the local Democratic machine, and his opponents say he is a candidate for County Judge. The reference to criminal defense goes back to a primary fight last Fall in which he took a leading part. In the campaign one of the minor leaders on the machine was denounced in the organ of the Handy faction as a craps-player who frequented low-class saloons. The editor was arrested for criminal libel, but Magistrate Sandy came forward and said he was the author of the article.

Nothing came of the libel case, which was brought before Magistrate Marsh, who divides jurisdiction on the island with Magistrate Handy, but perjury charges against the libel claimant were brought before Mr. Handy, and in connection with this proceeding he issued subpoenas for a number of persons of the other Democratic faction. Mr. Handy said yesterday that this was clearly within his duties, but it furnished the basis for part of the Grand Jury's criticism.

Charges that politics is behind the dispute over vice conditions are made by both sides, the Handy supporters declaring that some of the machine politicians are in sympathy with the divekeepers and proprietors of disorderly saloons.

According to District Attorney Albert Fach, there are few inducements on Staten Island to lure anybody from Broadway.

"The representations that have been made," he said yesterday, "constitute a gross injustice toward Staten Island. It is true that the two disorderly places specified by Judge Handy have been in operation, and that complaints were made to my office about six weeks ago. There have been several adjournments in these cases, not for political reasons, but because I have been acting as Surrogate in addition to my regular duties, and I have but one assistant. I am perfectly satisfied with the way in which he has handled the matter, but when he was ready to go on the other day, one of the defendants was too ill to appear.

"There is no red light district on Staten Island, and the citizens are up in arms over these charges. There are doubtless places where the conditions should be improved, and the two places specified should be brought to book, but I have yet to find another place of the kind on the island. If Judge Handy or anybody else will communicate to me the names of such other places I will prosecute them to the fullest extent.

"Differences with the Democratic Party are enough to account for Judge Handy's attack. The purpose of the churches is commendable, but I don't think they bear in mind that with a population of 90,000, there are but two or three places of the character they have condemned."

The stand taken by Mr. Fach was backed up yesterday by members of the Board of Trade and Transportation and taxpayers on the east shore of Staten Island.

The Men's Church League grew out of a conversation last Winter between Magistrate Handy and the Rev. J. Frederick Berg, pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church of Port Richmond. A conference was called, and it was decided to ask the men's clubs or other organizations connected with the various churches on the island to send delegates to a central body. Twenty-three churches are now represented, and Magistrate Handy is President of the league. Its officers include the Rev. F. E. Grunert of the Moravian Church at New Dorp, George S. Humphrey, Treasurer of the Staten Island Academy; the Rev. E. A. Dodd, and George T. Egbert of Mariner's Harbor.

At a recent meeting the island was districted and men were assigned to act as Inspectors in the different sections and to report to the Executive Comittee on June 13. In the meantime complaints had been made against two hotels at Stapleton. There are only twelve police detectives on the island, and they are said to be known to every person and every dog in Richmond County. So Magistrate Handy got two men from headquarters in Manhattan, and they made affidavits that these two places were ordinary disorderly resorts. Rose Sidders, alleged keeper of one, and Thomas McGrath, bartender at the other, have been arrested, and it is their hearings that have been adjourned from time to time.

Magistrate Handy was disposed yesterday to deprecate sensational reports about the work of the league. He denied specifically that any attempt to enforce Sunday closing was on the league's programme, and pointed to his first letter on the formation of the league, in which he advised against such a move. He also denied that he was working to prevent automobile owners from coming to Staten Island with other men's wives or unattached women.

"I don't know any way of preventing that," he said, "and it is not a public menace to morals, as are the things we are trying to stop. Furthermore, we are not endeavoring to correct the morals of grown-ups, but to abolish the resorts where the morals of young girls and boys are affected. We are also working to make the cars safer from rowdyism in the Summer, when thousands use them to get to and from the beaches.

"I sent a young hoodlum to jail for sixty days recently for using obscene language to a conductor in the presence of women. Another case was that of a young woman of good family, who is to be married next Sunday. She was walking with her fiancé and a woman friend, when she was accosted by one of a crowd of 'gophers,' as they call themselves. These are young roughs, who get up dances of a pernicious character. A stranger knocker the 'gopher' down twice, and when the crowd went for him he got the protection of two firemen. They kept the crowd back while the stranger gave the young rough a good licking. I sent the 'gopher' up to-day for thirty days. His action was one of the things we are working to prevent."

Magistrate Handy reiterated that a red light district exists in the Second Ward, which includes Stapleton, but was not ready to give the names of any places other than those already proceeded against. He said the league, thruogh its volunteer Inspectors, expected to get evidence against such places hereafter without the aid of the police.

WELLS FARGO ON GOULD LINES

Displaces Pacific Express, Which Was Dominated by Gould Interests.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS. Mo., May 19.—One of the most inexplicable arrangements in connection with the express business of the United States is that now existing between the principal Gould railroads and the Wells Fargo Company. Beginning July 1, the Wells Fargo will displace the Pacific Express Company on the Missouri Pacific, the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern, the Texas & Pacific, and the Wabash.

The significance of this understanding can only be realized when it is considered that the Wells Fargo is controlled, according to common information, by the Harriman and Rockefeller interests, while the Pacific Express is dominated by the Gould lines.

Although it was surmised that the Wells Fargo has acquired control of the Pacific Express, the explanation given was that the Wells Fargo concern has obtained the contract with the Gould lines by virtue of strenuous competition.

O'REILLY TO TESTIFY IN HIS OWN DEFENSE

Prosecution's Case Against the Lawyer Ends and Friends Testify as to His Character.

DEALT THROUGH DOUGHERTY

Suggested That Owners of Stolen Securities Pay Him $50 Retainer and $5,000 Reward to His Clients.

The prosecution in the case of Daniel O'Reilly, on trial before Justice Vernon M. Davis in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, closed its case yesterday, and Abraham Levy opened for the defense, calling several witnesses to testify as to his client's character. Mr. O'Reilly will take the stand on Monday in his own defense.

Austin W. McGee, a vault custodian in the Night and Day Bank, was the first witness yesterday, and testified that Frank J. Plass, the informer, and O'Reilly did not go to the vaults on the night of March 24 to find the 800 missing shares of Smelters, part of the stolen securities which O'Reilly is charged with receiving. O'Reilly told Inspector Russell of the Detective Bureau that he had gone there.

Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty, who was in the Pinkerton service when the robbery occurred, testified that he had known O'Reilly for several years. He received a telephone communication from O'Reilly on March 16 asking him if he was still interested in the Brancroft robbery, and upon receiving a reply in the affirmative had told him that he knew where he could get the $87,000 worth of stolen securities.

"Then I went to see Mr. Sullivan," continued the witness, "and told him just what O'Reilly had said to me, but did not use O'Reilly's name. Mr. Sullivan told me that he did not care anything about the thieves and refused to co-operate through an attorney. He said that if the thieves or some one representing them would come and put the securities in his desk he would gladly pay $5,000 for them."

In reply to Assistant District Attorney Buckener's questions the Deputy Commissioner said that Mr. Sullivan had told him that if any attorney tried to come into the matter he would prefer charges against him with the Bar Association. He said that on March 23 O'Reilly called him up and told him to tell the Brancroft lawyers to retain him for the nominal fee of $50 and give a reward of $5,000 to the persons he represented.

"I told Mr. Sullivan this, and he assured me that the arrangement was perfectly satisfactory to him," Mr. Dougherty said.

He denied that he had used O'Reilly's name or that he had ever introduced O'Reilly to Sullivan. On redirect examination Dougherty said he did not think for one minute that all O'Reilly was to get was $50.

The prosecution then closed its case, and Mr. Levy called ex-Judge George M. Curtis, ex-District Attorney Asa Bird Gardiner, and Charles Le Barbier as character witnesses for O'Reilly. They all said he was of good reputation.

MUTUALIZATION POSSIBLE.

Gov. Dix Signs Bill Drawn in Interest of the Equitable Life.

ALBANY, May 19.—Gov. Dix signed today the bill of Senator T. D. Sullivan, permitting the conversion of a stock life insurance corporation into a mutual life insurance corporation. The law is intended to permit the mutualization of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, with the approval of the State Insurance Department.

The bill provides that the policy holders using the free surplus of the Equitable which is held to secure policies may purchase the stock of the company and thus make it their property. The plan has been under consideration by Insurance Supt. Hotchkiss and J. Pierpont Morgan ever since he acquired the controlling interest in the Equitable from the Ryan interests.

With the mutualization accomplished the objections urged by Attorney General Carmody against the policy holders voting for a number of Directors every year will fall to the ground.

ROOSEVELT IN COURT TO SEE NEW CITIZENS

Joins the Judge in Asking the Applicants Questions About Their Intentions.

ADDRESSES THOSE ADMITTED

Traitors to United States, He Tells Them, if They Ever Take Money for Their Votes.

Theodore Roosevelt sat on the bench in the United States District Court in the Brooklyn Federal Building yesterday beside Judge Van Vechien Veeder and took a share in the questioning of about forty aliens who desired to be citizens. After some of them had taken the oath the Colonel made a little talk on the duties of citizenship.

Some time ago the ex-President told United States District Attorney William J. Youngs that he had never seen naturalization proceedings. He was invited to come to Brooklyn, and yesterday appeared in his automobile in company with Mrs. Roosevelt, who stayed outside in the machine reading a magazine until the Colonel joined her after his visit.

A group of fifteen applicants was before the rail when Col. Roosevelt entered. Many of them did not know the man who took a seat next the Judge and asked them questions. When the Justice mentioned his name some of them seemed excited with interest.

The ex-President asked them about their understanding of the law and the Constitution, and about their business affairs and lives. He asked many of them whether they belonged to social or political clubs, and what their reasons for wishing to become citizens were.

After about a dozen applications had been registered the men were seated in the jury box and the oath administered. The Colonel said to them:

"I want to say just one word to you who are becoming citizens," said he. "You have taken an oath to obey the Constitution and the laws. Now I want you to remember that if you do any wrong, if you take any bribes, if you ever vote for money, if you are guilty of any violence against the law, you have committed perjury and have been guilty of treason to the United States of America.

"You are yourselves part of the United States. In your old homes the sovereign was the nation. Here you are part of the Nation and part of the sovereign."

To one of the men who had said he wanted to be a citizen so as to get his rights the Colonel said he should be just as ready to do his duty as to know his rights.

"That's an impressive sight," said the Colonel, as he was going out, bowing and tipping his hat to the applause that followed him.

Down stairs the Roosevelt machine had been the centre of attraction for a large crowd that had seen the Colonel enter the building and had been waiting for him to come out. The machine departed amid cheers.

RESENTS TINKERING WITH RECIPROCITY

Taft Tells Callers That Any Amendments Will Imperil the Agreement's Chances.

CONSERVATION IS ATTACKED

La Follette Resents Implication That Roosevelt's Policy Increased Lumber Prices—Wool Tariff.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—In spite of published reports to the contrary, the President to-day let his callers understand that none of the proposed amendments to the Canadian reciprocity measure now pending in the Senate has his approval. He is for the measure itself, and is still of his old opinion that amendment tends to imperil the ultimate enactment of the measure.

This expression from the White House will take some of the wind from the sails of the Root paper amendment, which has been heralded in certain quarters as having the President's support. It seems practically certain, however, that the amendment will be accepted by the committee, though the newspaper side of the question will be strongly presented in the next few days. The hearings are gradually drawing to a close, and not later than early next week the committee's report should be received by the Senate.

At to-day's session of the committee Senator La Follette, a vigorous opponent of trusts, tried to get one of the speakers opposed to reciprocity to confess who had told him that he was of the opinion that Roosevelt and Pinchot in their conservation fight were working hand in hand with the so-called Lumber Trust." Leonard Bronson, appearing in behalf of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association in opposition to the bill, had declared that some one made such a statement to him, although he himself placed no confidence in it. After Senator La Follette had insisted that Mr. Bronson name the person and Mr. Bronson had declined to do so it was decided satisfactorily to both sides to expunge from the record all reference to the matter.

Senator Clark of Wyoming asked if conservation, the removal by the Government from the commercial market of great tracts of timber, did not have a tendency to increase the price of lumber, to which Mr. Bronson replied affirmatively. Senator La Follette wanted to know if the same would not be true if Weyerhauser or other individuals held large tracts. Weyerhauser is a Western lumber magnate. Mr. Bronson did not answer this question, but declared that there was much difference of opinion as to the result of conservation on the market. Then he quoted the remark regarding Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Pinchot, which stirred up Senator La Follette.

Representatives of the cattle and sheep raisers, milk producers and cream separator manufacturers, also appeared to oppose the reciprocity bill.

The House Ways and Means Committee met again to-day to consider the revision of the tariff on wool, and determined to meet daily hereafter until the tentative draft of a bill is prepared for submission to the Democratic caucus. Representative Underwood stated that the committee would be ready for the caucus by the latter part of next week.

For several days Democratic leaders have been sounding the sentiment among the members from various States, and it is declared that a majority of the Democrats now are convinced that a free raw wool bill would be unwise. The prevailing opinion is that there will be a largely reduced tariff on raw wool for revenue purposes, and that manufactured articles will be cut about 50 per cent.

The plan to adopt a sliding scale on raw wool, reducing it each year until it became automatically undutiable, is reported to have been abandoned by the committee, on the theory that if a duty must be imposed for revenue this year, it would be just as necessary next year.

WORK ON CANAL LOCK GATES.

Material for Huge Structures for Gatun Arrives at Isthmus.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Reports to the War Department from Col. Goethals, Engineer in Chief of the Panama Canal, state that material for the huge gates of the Gatun locks have arrived on the Isthmus. The work of erecting the south guard gates of the upper or lake level locks will be begun this week. The gates will be built of steel girders, covered with steel plate, forming water tight compartments. Each leaf, of which there will be two in a gate, will be 7 feet thick, 65 feet long, and range in height from 47 feet 4 inches to 82 feet, the total number for all locks being 92.

One method will be used in erecting all of them. It will consist of lowering the material by locomotive crane, operating on a bridge over the lock chamber, and assembling it in false work, after which the gate will be moved into place, as a door would be set on its hinges. The false work between which the leaves will be assembled, consists essentially of four steel columns, which will not only carry the weight of the gate leaf, varying from 300 to 700 tons, but also act as a brace to prevent the leaf from overturning during erection. These columns will rest upon a lowering device, which, in turn, will rest upon rollers. The leaves will be assembled on a radial line, four feet out from their true position, and swung partly open, leaving a 12-foot passage between their mitre ends. After the quoin, or hinge end, of the leaf is completed, the whole structure will be rolled back into place.

SPURN ICE CREAM GIFT.

1,200 Women Clerks in Census Bureau Able to Buy Their Own, They Say.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Characterizing the act as an insult and slur upon their station in life, 1,200 women clerks in the Census Bureau rose in their wrath this afternoon and refused to partake of the fifty gallons of ice cream sent to them by the Women's Welfare Department of the National Civic Federation.

The many freezers stood about in the corners of the several departments, and although many eyes looked longingly toward the cool delcacy, it was untouched.

What the clerks meant to do, according to the statements made by many of them, was to show the women of the Federation that they were perfectly able to take care of themselves and were above accepting charity.

MORSE DECISION NEXT WEEK.

Taft Waiting for the Return of Attorney General Wickersham.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—President Taft will not announce his decision on the applications for pardon of Charles W. Morse of New York and John R. Walsh of Chicago until next Wednesday.

Attorney General Wickersham is expected to return from New York on that day.

FOR STATE WATER RESERVOIR

Gov. Dix Among Those to be Benefited by Upper Hudson Improvement.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 19.—The nearest step toward water storage under State control was taken to-day when Senator Bayne introduced a bill which would give the required legislative authority to make effective an order recently issued by the State Water Supply Commission providing for the regulation of the flow of the upper Hudson River.

The commission has filed with the Legislature a statement of the improvement contemplated and gives a list of the "individual property owners to be benefited by the undertaking." In the list of those in Greenwich, Washington County, is Gov. Dix, the firm of Dix & Thompson, and the Iroquois Pulp and Paper Company.

It is planned to build an earth dam across the Scandaga River at Conklingville. It will form a lake twenty-six miles long and four miles wide. The depth of the water will vary from thirty to seventy feet. The estimated cost of building the reservoir is $4,667,240.

Stipulation is made that the reservoir and water power shall be under the control of the State. The power may be used for public purposes or it may be sold to those who desire it, adding materialy to the revenue of the State. The improvement was ordered by a majority of the Water Supply Commission upon the petition of the City of Albany and other municipalities, which declare there is danger from freshets in the Spring.

FRISBIE FOR INCOME TAX ACT.

Speaker Tells Dix That Democrats Will Vote Solidly for It.

ALBANY, May 19.—Speaker Frisbie, replying to Gov. Dix's recent letter urging the importance of the prompt passage by the Assembly of the Wagner resolution ratifying the proposed income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution, expresses the belief that the Democrats in the Assembly "will rise to the importance of the question involved," and will vote solidly for its indorsement when submitted to them, which the Speaker believes will be without delay.

"We cannot escape the fact," says the Speaker, "that there exists in certain portions of the country at large a prejudice against New York and New Yorkers, due to our pre-eminence as a financial, commercial, and manufacturing State, and to a belief that we are constantly seeking to protect and to advance unduly the interests of our State regardless of the general welfare. The ratification of this amendments would, therefore, do much to dissipate this belief, which is unfounded in reality, and would tend to place New York upon a higher plane in the estimation of the good people of our sister States.

"Viewed from the purely political standpoint, what a humiliating position New York would occupy in the National Democratic Convention of 1912 were this Democratic Legislature to refuse to ratify the income tax amendment after its repeated indorsement by previous National Conventions. Polical considerations, therefore, urge its indorsement as well as sound business and economic reasons."

BIG CUT IN SUPPLY BILL.

Appropriations $2,281,121 Less Than Albany's Last Year's Measure.

ALBANY, May 19.—The annual supply bill, introduced to-day by Majority Leader Smith of the Assembly, carries appropriations aggregating $4,103,729, a decrease of $2,281,121 in comparison with the supply bill of last year.

Leader Smith says it is probable that some increase for legislative expenses may be made necessary as a result of the Capitol fire and for the expenses of investigating committees appointed last year. He points out that the reduction of over $2,000,000 has been made possible by the "loyal co-operation of the officers and departments in the effort to reduce expenses."

MAY IMPROVE THIS PORT.

New Bill Authorizes Governor to Appoint an Investigating Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 19.—The need of better facilities in the Port of New York will be considered by a special State commission, if a bill introduced to-day by Senator Frawley becomes a law.

It authorizes the Governor to appoint a commission of three to investigate the construction and operation of port facilities in this country and in Europe with a view to making recommendations for the improvement of facilities in New York Harbor and for the promotion of navigation.

The members of the commission are to serve without pay, but their expenses are to be paid by the State.

BRANDEIS UNDECIDED ON POSTAL INQUIRY

CASE HARDLY BIG ENOUGH

St. Louis Publisher Who Had Trouble in Roosevelt's Term the Chief Complainant.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Louis D. Brandeis left Washington for Boston tonight without deciding whether he would enter the Post Office Department investigation as special counsel or not. He arrived here last night and held a conference this morning and again this afternoon with Mr. Ashbrook, the Chairman of the House Committee on Investigation. Mr. Brandeis himself would not discuss the matter in any respect, merely saying that the task was a public duty which he would be glad to enter upon if he satisfied himself that there was need of his services.

Mr. Ashbrook said that there was a desire on the part of the committee and of himself to have Mr. Brandeis conduct the investigation, and they would be very glad to have him come into the case. He denied that Mr. Brandeis had, as stated yesterday, written a letter to the committee or to him offering his services gratuitously.

The committee this morning held an executive session and discussed the subject of Mr. Brandeis becoming counsel for the committee, and all the facts connected with the incident thus far were made known to the committee. The fact that there was any talk at all of Brandeis coming into the investigation, Mr. Ashbrook stated, had become known in some way, and had caused trouble. Every member of the committee declared he had not divulged the fact, but Judge Alexander of Missouri said that he had talked about it to a newspaper man who had first told him he knew there was some expectation that Mr. Brandeis would be retained by the committee. A resolution was adopted pledging the members of the committee to silence.

As nearly as can be ascertained Mr. Brandeis was invited to consider entering the investigation by some person not on the committee and the purpose was to get his services to prosecute a thorough expose of the rulings and decisions of the Post Office Department in the case of the E. G. Lewis Publishing Company of St Louis, which for years had been having difficulty in the matter of sending its publications through the mails. Former Third Assistant Postmaster General E. C. Madden was asked by President Roosevelt to resign, because of a decision favorable to the Lewis concern. Since leaving the Department, Mr. Madden has acted as attorney for the company and has published a book, defending the company.

A copy of this book and a statement of the various acts of the Department toward the company have been filed with the committee of investigation and were examined by Mr. Brandeis. It is understood that the embarrassments of the situation lay in the fact that the Lewis Company would like to retain Mr. Brandeis to conduct the investigation, but the ethical question arises as to whether Mr. Brandeis could properly act as counsel to the committe in a general investigation of the Post Office Department at the request of a private concern and be paid by that concern.

It is regarded as sanctionable that he should represent the Lewis concern when the relations of the company to the Post Office Department are brought up, but the Democratic leaders and members of the Investigating Committee were averse to approving of having special counsel for a firm take charge of the investigation generally.

Mr. Ashbrook said to-night that there were enough things before the committee for investigation, but there was some question whether the case was big enough to justify Mr. Brandeis coming into it much as the committee would like to have him.

Limit Liquor to Half-Mile of West Point.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, May 19.—Assemblyman Cuvillier's bill adding a new section to the liquor tax law making it a misdemeanor to sell or offer for sale liquor to cadets or soldiers of the West Point Military Academy within a half mile of the grounds was passed unanimously to-day in the Assembly. The proposed legislation was requested by the military authorities at Washington.

RECEIVERS' FEES REDUCED.

Court of Appeals Dismisses Appeal in Brooklyn Bank Case.

ALBANY, May 19.—The Court of Appeals to-day dismissed the appeal of the Brooklyn Bank receivers from the decision of the Appellate Division, reducing the fees of Bruyn Hasbrouck as receiver from $23,000 as fixed by the special term to $16,000 and that of J. Edward Swanstrom and James C. Church as counsel from $22,000 to $14,000.

Charles M. Higgins, also a receiver, had his fees reduced from $19,000 to $12,000, less $4,000, which he voluntarily returned.

Both Church and Swanstrom are dead.

Senator Roosevelt is also opposed to the confirmation of Daniel F. Cohalan as Supreme Court Justice.

SEEK SILK COMPANY FUNDS.

Knickerbocker Trust Wins New Trial in Suit Against Subscribers.

BOSTON, May 19.—Judge Aldrich in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to-day handed down an opinion in favor of the Knickerbocker Trust Company of New York in its suit to recover $207,825 in balances on subscriptions to stock in the American Silk Company. The defendants and the amounts the Knickerbocker Trust Company sought to recover from them are as follows: Maria A. Evans, executrix of the estate of the late Robert D. Evans, $74,223; Albert S. Bigelow, $74,223; Steven M. Weld, $37,111; Theophilus Parsons, $11,133; William M. Conant, $3,711, and Russell S. Codman, $7,422. The case went to the Court of Appeals on six writs of errors.

The late Judge Lowell in the Circuit Court had directed a verdict for the subscribers on the ground that there was a variance between the loan agreement by which $843,050 was secured from the trust company by the promoters and the underwriting agreement by which the subscribers guaranteed to bind themselves by the action of the syndicate managers. The subscribers contended that they were not bound by the action of the H. W. Bennett Company, the promoter in raising the loan.

The court held that the obligations of the subscribers were primary, and that the departures of their agents from the express authority contained in the underwriting agreement was technical and harmless and in no way affected the general principles of right underlying the case.

The court set aside the verdict of the lower court and directed a new trial.

CAN'T KEEP HAMMOND FROM CORONATION

Sully's Plea to Make the Special Ambassador Stay Here and Testify Is Denied.

COURT REBUKES ATTORNEYS

Threatens to Punish Them for Contempt—$1,500,000 Suit Postponed Until November.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—After threatening opposing attorneys with prison terms for contempt of court, Justice Barnard of the District Supreme Court today gave permission to John Hays Hammond to proceed to London at his pleasure to act as Special Ambassador at the coronation of King George V. despite the objection of Daniel J. Sully, former "Cotton King," who is suing Mr. Hammond for $1,500,000 damages.

Justice Barnard said Mr. Hammond need not return until November to testify, thus completely routing Mr. Sully at every turn in his effort to force Mr. Hammond to remain here. The court also overruled an attachment for Mr. Hammond asked by Mr. Sully.

The ruling of the court followed a dramatic and exciting censure by the court of Attorney John Gittings, representing Mr. Sully, and Attorney Philip Walker, counsel for Mr. Hammond, in which Mr. Gittings said he would "settle with Walker outside of court after this is over." A request of Mr. Walker that Mr. Gittings tell the truth to the court caused Mr. Gittings's remark.

"You can't act that way in this court, and I've decided to postpone this whole thing until Fall, as Mr. Hammond asks," said Justice Barnard, showing plainly his indignation. "I'll send you both down to——. You'll incur punishment for contempt of court," said the Justice, hesitating, but plainly indicating his proposed punishment. "You've got to conduct yourselves as gentlemen or suffer the consequences."

In granting Mr. Hammond's motion for a postponement to permit his attendance at the London coronation, Justice Barnard said:

"It is important that the Government shall send its representative to Europe, and this court will not interfere with Mr. Hammond in his plans. This testimony must be postponed because of his official position. Courts should not interfere with the appointments of the Government, particularly in a case of this nature. The representative of our Government abroad must be permitted to go without hindrance from the court, and I will not compel him to remain."

The suit is the outcome of a dispute between Mr. Sully and Mr. Hammond over a cotton gin enterprise.

HALF-PRICE RATE ON CABLE MESSAGES

Four Lines to England Agree on Reduction for Business Handled in Quiet Hours.

SUBJECT TO 24 HOURS' DELAY

British Postmaster General Wins Concession After Long Fight—European Lines May Come In.

The night letter system recently adopted by the Western Union Telegraph Company is to be extended in the near future to cable companies doing business between this country and England. Arrangements have been made between the companies and Postmaster General H. L. Samuel of Great Britain. An announcement was made by the British Postmaster General to Parliament on Thursday night that a reduction of 50 per cent. would be made on all non-code cable messages across the Atlantic, transmitted with the understanding that they should be deferred in delivery not longer than twenty-four hours.

The arrangement is the result of a campaign waged by Postmaster General Samuel for some time, with the co-operation of Theodore N. Vail, President of the Western Union Telegraph and Cable Company. Mr. Vail called attention last Fall to the possibility of utilizing the slack business hours of the cable companies by throwing open the lines at those times to cheaper messages in the same way that the Western Union has utilized its wires for "night letter" telegrams sent in the slack hours of business. He went to England to confer with the Postmaster General and also to bring about closer relations between the Anglo-American, Western Union, Commercial, and Direct United States Cable Companies in the matter of lowering cable rates for deferred messages. He returned a week ago.

"The arrangements," said Mr. Vail yesterday, "mark the first success in a long campaign carried on by Mr. Samuel for cheaper cable rates. I hope it will be followed by more. At present the agreement extends to the Commercial, Anglo-American, Western Union, and Direct United States Cable Companies, which have direct transatlantic cables to England. Some of the other companies are owned by Continental Governments and regulated by the terms of a telegraph convention to which they have all subscribed. But, as Postmaster General Samuel announced in his message to Parliament, he is negotiating with the various Governments under the convention, with a view to bringing them through treaty relations into agreement with the new plan of reduced cable rates for deferred messages.

"Hitherto some of those Governments have been unwilling to agree to such reductions, fearing perhaps that the cable companies, whose earnings they in part guarantee, might suffer loss thereby. I cannot see any possibility of such loss, however. The reduced rates for deferred messages cannot effect in any way the regular cable business now carried on. The chief users of the cable lines use them during the busy hours of the day, and use them simply because they need immediate transmission of their messages. Such customers could not be diverted into relying for their main business on the slower transmission of the cheaper deferred cable messages."

Even should the negotiations of Postmaster General Samuel with the other Governments that belong to the telegraph convention fail competition, it was pointed out, would probably work to bring about a reduction of rates by the other companies.

Edward Charles Sweeney, General Traffic Manager of the French Telegraph and Cable Company, which has direct cables from here to Brest and from Brest to Penzance, England, said yesterday that he had not been informed of any change of rates agreed to by his company or negotiations to bring them about. The plan had been discussed a great deal, he said, but he knew of nothing that had come of it. He himself was not inclined to consider it with much enthusiasm.

"In the first place," he said, "that slack period of business each day has been greatly exaggerated by those who favor the project. They say that the main hours of cable business are from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.; but the period is extended greatly by the difference in time at various parts of the globe. Thus there is a difference of five hours between this country and England, six hours between us and Italy, and seven hours between us and Russia.

"Moreover, even if the plan of reduced rates for the deferred messages is adopted generally, I do not believe it will have any wide effect. Those who use it will always be a limited class. Brokers, for example, must always find it much cheaper to use code as at present, when they can send fifty words in one; and they depend, moreover, by the very nature of their business, on immediate transmission of their messages, so that they can buy or sell at a minute's notice. A deferred quotation sent to-day will be pretty dead for the purposes of to-morrow's market.

"The deferred messages, I imagine, would be used chiefly for the purposes of amplifying mail correspondence. Thus, for example, a New York firm after writing to an English firm may find a few days later that some new development makes it necessary to add to or change the original letter. In that case the deferred message by cable would come in very handy, reaching the English firm just about at the same time as the letter itself.

"It would, of course, seem that competition would oblige all the companies to adopt the system if one or a few of them do, but even that would depend upon whether or not the amount of business done under the new system is large enough to pay. And that remains to be learned."

P. H. Nichols, Superintendent of the Anglo-American Cable Company, said he had known for some time that negotiations were on concerning such a reduction of cable rates, but that he had not yet been informed officially of any conclusion that had been reached.

KILLED AT HIS WORK.

Building Law Violation Said to Have Made Electrician's Death Possible.

The death of James Thompson, 18 years of age, an electrician's helper, who, it is believed, was struck on the head by a falling brick in a building in the course of construction, is being investigated by Coroner Holtzhauser. The Coroner said that his cursory examination clearly showed criminal negligence on the part of some one.

Thompson was engaged in the installation of electric wires on the ground floor of a ten-story annex to a department store at 28 West Twenty-third Street. On every floor above masons were also at work, but there was no covering over the well except on the seventh floor. He was working alone, when he was suddenly knocked insensible by a falling object. Two workmen, Arthur Mayes of 438 Willis Avenue, and Otto Tuecling of 530 Brook Avenue, picked up his lifeless body.

Coroner Holtzhauser declared that the existence of the open well in which Thompson had been working was a violation of the building law. He also found that the elevator shaft was unprotected at the ground floor.

FAVOR A STATE TRAMP FARM.

Many Influential Bodies Declare Themselves for the Pending Bill.

Enough of the prominent charity organizations of the State, it was announced yesterday at the offices of the State Conference of Charities and Correction, have indorsed the bill introduced in the State Assembly by Assemblyman Chanler of Dutchess County, providing for the establishment of a State farm colony for tramps, practically to insure its passage. Gov. Dix is said to favor the scheme and the provision to establish the institution on State lands. Many abandoned farms, which have come into the possession of the State through the non-payment of taxes, are said to be available for the purpose. The bill calls for a tract of 500 acres.

Among the bodies which have indorsed the bill are the State Prison Commission, the New York City Conference of Charities and Correction, the Prison Association of New York, the State Charities Aid Association, the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, the Charity Organization Society, and the State Board of Charities.

EXPLOSIVES BONDS CONTINUE

Not Affected by Statute of Limitations, Says Appellate Division.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court handed down yesterday a decision that bonds given to the Municipal Explosives Commission as a guarantee for the payment of damages arising from keeping or using explosives in the city under permits from the Fire Department are not affected by the statute of limitations.

Mrs. Mary J. Loose, who sought unsuccessfully in the Supreme Court to compel the city to sue in her behalf on such a bond, won her appeal. She alleged that she was injured as the result of blasting operations near a house she owns at 168 Villa Avenue, Bronx. A bond of $5,000 to cover the blasting had been put up by Annie Leahy, John J. O'Brien, and Michael J. Maher. The defendants pleaded that the action was barred, because it had not been brought within three years. On this contention the suit was dismissed in the lower court. The Appellate Division ordered it put on the calendar for trial.

FIGHT PREFERENCES IN CARNEGIE TRUST

State Treasurer Among Those Objecting to Suing to Establish Claims.

$2,036,000 DIVIDEND ASKED

Lebaudy, "Emperor of the Sahara," Aggrieved Because His Demand for $1,657,000 Was Rejected.

Asserting that the resources of the Carnegie Trust Company will permit the payment of the accepted preferred claims and a dividend of 25 per cent. on the accepted general claims, and still leave a balance of $800,000 and more, Joseph M. Hartfield, attorney for the State Banking Department, applied yesterday to Supreme Court Justice Giegerich for permission to allow the dividend to be declared and for the appointment of a referee to pass on rejected preferred claims. Among those who appeared in opposition was Herbert Parsons, representing the Madison Trust Company, which has a claim of $195,000 which it contends is entitled to preference.

State Treasurer John J. Kennedy was also represented by counsel in opposition, because several preferred claims of State funds had been rejected, on the plea that the deposits had been made without the sanction of a court order. Mr. Hartfield argued that the State Treasurer must sue to establish the priority of his claims.

Under the proposed dividend about $2,036,000 would be paid out, Attorney Hartfield said. There were still uncollected assets of $1,500,000, consisting of good mortgages which soon fall due. These sums, he said, would protect the claims of the Madison Trust Company and the State Treasurer, if the courts should decide within the next six months that they were entitled to preference.

One of the most vigorous protests of the hearing was made by counsel for Jacques Lebaudy, "Emperor of the Sahara." Lebaudy has four claims against the Carnegie Trust Company, one of them for $329,000, moneys he contends are held in trust and thus entitled to preference. He asked that $329,000 be set aside out of the present assets to reimburse him if he succeeded in establishing his claim. He also asked that the Superintendent of Banks be compelled to keep possession of a note for a million francs, which he says the Carnegie Trust Company held for him in a fiduciary capacity.

Attorney Hartfield answered that the Banking Department was unwilling to set aside money out of collected assets to meet Lebaudy's claims because there were enough uncollected assets in sight to satisfy them if they were established.

Justice Giegerich said he would receive briefs on Monday.

AGED SPECULATOR A SUICIDE IN PARK

Col. Seixas Said to Have Lost All Since the Hocking Pool Smash.

PUTS BULLET IN HIS HEAD

Friends All Dead, His Body Is Taken in Charge by a Brokerage Firm with Which He Dealt.

Col. Henry Octavius Seixas, member of a prominent Southern family and one of Wall Street's oldest speculators, committed suicide yesterday in Central Park by shooting himself in the head. He was 70 years old. The reason for his suicide is understood to have been the loss of practically all his fortune in the last two years. He was a bachelor and lived at 1 West Thirtieth Street. Most of the friends of his earlier life are dead. His body had to be cared for by one of the Wall Street firms through whom he recently had been doing business.

Col. Seixas came originally from New Orleans. He had fought on the Confederate side during the civil war, and when he came to this city about twenty years ago possessed a goodly fortune. He began to invest in stocks through several brokerage houses. The manager of Whitehouse & Co., 111 Broadway, said yesterday his firm had been carrying Col. Seixas's account for about ten years, and that he frequently spoke of accounts elsewhere. Until the Hocking pool smash two years ago his speculations were fairly successful, but that swept away most of his fortune.

Col. Seixas left his apartment in the Wilbraham about 10 o'clock yesterday morning and went to Central Park, sitting on a bench near the Swiss Cottage, on the west side, near Seventy-ninth Street. Mrs. Hawley, the cottage attendant, saw him there for about two hours, and about noon said he went to the cottage and asked her for a glass of water. She gave it to him, and after thanking her he asked her why it was so pure. She pointed out the spring from which the water came, and he walked away, saying he would examine it.

He went into a clump of bushes where his body was found and carried to the Arsenal. Police Capt. Carson found on it several private letters, $64.45, a gold watch, and a balance sheet showing speculative transactions with the brokerage firm of Whitehouse & Co. Capt. Carson telephoned to the firm, and F. M. Cronise, an employe, went to the station and identified the body and had it taken to an undertaker's until relatives from the South might arrive.

Col. Seixas was a Director in the Columbus & Hocking Coal and Iron Company, the Davis Creek Coal and Coke Company, the Lanston Monotype Machine Company, and the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company.

CROPSEY TO HOLD ON UNTIL NEXT WEEK

Threat of Hold Up of All Police Salaries if He Doesn't Go Before Month's End.

CREELMAN SEES MAYOR

Contest May Be Started on Payroll Because of 48 Cropsey Appointments That Are Called Illegal.

There will be no change in the administration of the Police Department until next week at the earliest. Mayor Gaynor left the City Hall yesterday morning, after declining to discuss the police situation.

Police Commissioner Cropsey, whose resignation has been expected ever since President Creelman of the Municipal Civil Service Commission wrote to the Mayor, charging Mr. Cropsey with violation of the civil service law, also declined to discuss the matter. So there the situation rests, in spite of the rumors which were flying thick and fast yesterday, some to the effect that Commissioner Cropsey had already resigned, some that he had declined to resign and would be dismissed by the Mayor, and some that the head of the Police Department had succeeded in adjusting his difficulties with Mayor Gaynor, and would be allowed to remain in office.

Mayor Gaynor is not likely to return to the City Hall before Tuesday. On Monday he will make a tour of the Brooklyn watershed accompanied by Commissioner Thompson. Upon leaving the City Hall yesterday he went at once to his country place at St. James, L. I., there to remain until Monday morning.

Those who have made good guesses on pending police matters in the past said yesterday there was small doubt that a new Police Commissioner would be chosen within a week. They said that the charges contained in Mr. Creelman's letter were of such a nature that the Mayor could not afford to overlook them, and that any desire to retain Mr. Cropsey as head of the Police Department would have to be abandoned, because a lack of harmony exists between the Police Commissioner and the heads of several other city departments, as well as between him and several of his subordinates, who are thought well of by Mayor Gaynor.

It was said yesterday that unless a new Police Commissioner is in office before the end of the month, Mr. Cropsey's presence at the head of the department will be brought to an issue when the police payrolls are presented for certification. It was said that such certification would be refused, because of Commissioner Cropsey's appointment of forty-eight patrolmen who were not on the eligible list of the Civil Service Commission.

A refusal to certify the rolls would mean that the pay of 10,000 policemen would be held up until the matter was straightened out. There was also some talk yesterday of Commissioner Cropsey's being liable for the uniforms furnished these forty-eight policemen should it be decided that their appointment was contrary to law. The bill would be about $7,000.

Mr. Creelman was a visitor at the Mayor's office yesterday morning. Whether his call had anything to do with the police situation could not be learned. It is expected that a written answer to the Creelman charges will be made by Commissioner Cropsey during the next few days.

The usual crop of rumors concerning the selection of a new Police Commissioner was forthcoming yesterday. Starting with William J. Flynn, the list grew in volume as the day advanced, and last night this was the line-up of possibilities: William J. Flynn, former Second Deputy; John McCullagh, a former Police Chief; William McAdoo, Chief Magistrate; Rhinelander Waldo, Fire Commissioner; "Big Bill" Edwards, Street Cleaning Commissioner; Michael J. Drummond, Charities Commissioner; Rudolph Bloch, editor of a comic supplement; George S. Dougherty, Deputy Commissioner; James Creelman, head of the Municipal Civil Service Commission; James Dillon, Police Inspector; Dr. Joseph H. O'Connell, Thomas F. McAvoy, and Moses F. Cortwright, former Chief Inspector.

When Mr. Flynn was asked yesterday what he thought of his chances of being named as head of the department he said:

"I am not crossing any bridges before I get to them. I have planned to return to the United States Secret Service in a few days. I know of nothing just now which will change my plans."

There was a report yesterday that Dr. Marvin R. Palmer, Chief Surgeon of the Police Department, was preparing a reply to the charge by Mr. Creelman that the Board of Police Surgeons had been fighting the Civil Service Commission for five years. Dr. Palmer declined to discuss the case.

Mayor Gaynor made another contribution yesterday to his letters on the police situation. This one was addressed to the Rev. Dr. William Morrison of St. Ann's Church, Brooklyn, and had to do with an utterance of the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott. The Mayor's letter was as follows:

City of New York,
Office of the Mayor,
May 18, 1911.

Reverend and Dear Sir: Your letter calling my attention to the newspaper account that the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, at the Peace Conference in Baltimore, said that I as Mayor had taken the clubs away from the police force of this city; and that there was a decrease in the number of arbitrary arrests in the city but an increase of crime, is at hand.

It does not seem to me that Dr. Abbott could have said that I took the clubs away from the police force, and that there was an increase of crime in the City of New York.

Both these statements are untruthful. I took no clubs away from the police force, and there is no general increase of crime in this city. Nobody believes there is except those who depend on certain newspapers here which delight in vilifying this city, and surely Dr. Abbott is not of that class. It is true that there was a large decrease last year in frivolous and unlawful arrests without warrant, and I am hoping that this year there will be still further decrease.

Sincerely yours,
W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

The Rev. Dr. William Morrison, St. Ann's Church, Brooklyn, N. Y.

FROM EUROPE TO SPEND A DAY

Mr. and Mrs. Hoblyn Will See the Sights Here and Take Ship Again.

E. H. Hoblyn, manager of the first-class passenger department of the Cunard Line in Liverpool, arrived in New York yesterday on the Mauretania, accompanied by his wife, to spend twenty-four hours sightseeing in this city. They sail again for home on the Carmania at 10 o'clock this morning. The City Hall, Stock Exchange, Williamsburg Bridge, Central Park, Riverside Drive, Fifth Avenue, Broadway, a trip around the harbor, "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," and a visit to the The Times tower were all included in the day and night spent by Mr. and Mrs. Hoblyn in New York. The view of the harbor from the deck of the Mauretania, the miniature forest of skyscraper buildings, and the dazzling display of electric signs on Broadway, as seen from The Times tower, were the features that impressed the visitors most during their brief stay in New York. Mr. Hoblyn said that he did not intend to write a book on his impressions of America on his return.

MRS. TAFT WILL REST.

Plans to Surrender Social Duties to Her Daughter for the Present.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Mrs. Taft so far recovered from her attack of nervous trouble to-night that it was announced it would be unnecessary for her to go to Hot Springs, Va., or to Beverly to recuperate.

Mrs. Taft probably will remain in the White House, avoiding all social duties and seeing only a few close friends for a month. By that time she may be ready to go to Beverly. Miss Helen Taft will preside at the White House functions for the present.

RAILWAY MUST STAND SUIT.

Passenger Who Demands Damages Was Permitted to Ride on Running Board.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court overruled yesterday a Supreme Court order dismissing the suit of Dean G. Edwards against the New Jersey & Hudson River Railroad Company for damages for injuries sustained while riding on the running board of an open car near Hackensack. The suit will now be placed on the calendar for trial. Edwards came into collision with a girder on a trestle. The majority opinion of the court held:

"The plaintiff had been warned by the conductor on approaching a previous trestle, and that warning, aside from the general duty of the defendant to give warning of unknown dangers, may have been considered as an assurance of safety. The conductor knew that the plaintiff and others had stepped down on the running board after passing the first trestle.

"The plaintiff had the choice of riding on the running board or in a cramped and uncomfortable position between the seats. The car was so crowded that Edwards was unable to get a good foothold when he did step into the car. For that reason the company must be deemed to have assented to his resuming his place on the running board, and it cannot be said, as a matter of law, that in doing so he assumed any risk, except of known dangers and of the ordinary motion of the car."

CRESCENT CLUB VENTURE.

Governors Get Option on Scudder Estate for New Country Home.

Some members of the Crescent Athletic Club of Brooklyn have formed a holding company to buy for the club the Townsend Scudder property, comprising 189 acres, at Hempstead, L. I. There appears to be no doubt among the members that the club will eventually take the property.

It was announced some time ago that the Crescent Athletic Club contemplated abandoning its Bay Ridge house and grounds and was looking around for a new site. The Townsend Scudder estate was looked upon as an ideal spot, and after finding the sentiment of the club about it the Board of Governors got an option good until June 11.

The Hempstead property is valued at $400,000. The holding company has about $35,000 at its disposal for this transaction. It was said that the conditions of the proposed sale call for a cash payment of $150,000 and the balance on mortgage.

The contemplated improvements on the property include a new golf course, tennis courts, boating house, baseball diamond, and eight bungalows.

MAURETANIA'S CENTURY TRIP.

Starts Wednesday—Averages 25.25 Knots and Has Gone 290,510.

When the Cunard liner Mauretania went along side her pier yesterday morning she completed her ninety-ninth trip across the Atlantic since she went into commission, three and a half years ago. She will start on her century trip on Wednesday. Details of her performance are contained in the Cunard Daily Bulletin, published on board:

Her highest day's run westward is 676 sea miles, and on the short day eastward, 614. Her highest average speed for a day's run is 27.04 sea miles per hour, and for a voyage 26.06. The average speed for the whole time the Mauretania has been running is over 25.25 sea miles per hour. Her shortest passage between Queenstown and New York was made in the remarkable time of 4 days 10 hours 41 minutes.

Converted into land miles the above figures read: Highest day's run, 780 miles; highest average speed per hour for day's run, 31.15 miles; highest average speed per hour for a voyage, 30.02 miles; average speed since first voyage, 29.10 miles.

It is figured that the Mauretania now has covered 290,510 knots; 40 of the trips having been made in the long course of about 3,000 knots, and 59 on the short course of 2,800 knots.

Her time of passage for the voyage just ended was 4 days, 18 hours, and 32 minutes. She brought 243 saloon, 224 second and 742 steerage passengers.

WALDO AND CROPSEY SPEAK.

Both Attend Flag Presentation to War Veterans by Mrs. Speyer.

More than 300 members of the Police and Fire Departments and their friends attended last night the installation and presentation of flags by Mrs. James Speyer, wife of the banker, to the Abraham Lincoln Camp, No. 91, of the United Spanish War Veterans. The guests included Commissioners Cropsey and Waldo.

Commissioner Cropsey eulogized the flag and the spirit of the presentation, but made no reference to the Police Department. Commissioner Waldo spoke to the firemen, and said it was his policy to have the fine system in the department eliminated, and that he did not recommend having firemen brought to trial except when the charges made it necessary.

The flags presented by Mrs. Speyer consisted of a large silk American flag and a blue silk flag bearing the insignia of the camp.

WINS SUIT AGAINST HUSBAND.

Mrs. de Brauwere Sued to Recover Money Spent Upon Their Children.

In a unanimous opinion, handed down yesterday, the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court decided that Mrs. Alice de Brauwere may recover from her husband Louis money she expended out of an inheritance for the support and education of their three children.

The decision fixes the law in this State on this question for the first time. Mrs. de Brauwere sued for about $4,000.

WATER SUPPLY DOWN TO HALF NORMAL SIZE

Mayor Again Calls Attention to Need of Stopping Waste to Prevent Serious Famine.

MAY HAVE TO ASK HELP

Temporary Supply Could Be Obtained from Ten Mile River with Connecticut's Consent.

Mayor Gaynor commented yesterday on the failing water supply of Manhattan and the Bronx, which, in the opinion of engineers, shows that the city is facing, without fully realizing it, a most serious water famine, likely to become acute before many weeks have passed.

At the same time the Engineering News, published yesterday, declares editorially that not only does such a famine menace the city, but that it means a calamity well nigh past imagination.

Mayor Gaynor called attention to the fact that the reserve supply for Manhattan and the Bronx, which comes from the Croton watershed, had gone down 3,000,000,000 gallons last week. Those who heard the Mayor were convinced that he was fully aware of the serious nature of the situation. Water Commissioner Thompson has never tried to minimize the conditions.

The Mayor pointed out that on May 1 there was on hand in the Croton reservoirs 52,000,000,000 gallons in reserve for Manhattan and the Bronx, against exactly twice that amount on the corresponding date last year. By Dec. 1 last the 104,000,000,000 gallons had been reduced to 32,000,000,000, with an average loss of about ten billion gallons a month. The situation did not present very serious aspects then, the Mayor remarked, because the wet season was about to begin and the melting snows of Winter were expected to refill the reservoirs. This they did not do, and the city starts the dry season with half empty reservoirs instead of full reservoirs, as was the case last Spring.

At the rate of loss indicated by the Mayor's figures, the present reserve therefore will not last much longer than seventeen weeks unless there is a very much larger rainfall between now and Sept. 1 than has fallen in Summer in many years.

In other words, the Mayor fears Manhattan and the Bronx will be suffering from a water famine in the middle of September unless stringent measures are efective in protecting the reserve supply.

The Engineering News takes an even more gloomy view of the situation.

"The city of New York," it says, "is to-day in grave peril of a water famine. What does this mean?"

In answer the Engineering News declares that the menace is by far the most important matter the city faces. It says:

It is more important than new rapid transit lines. It is more important than the freight terminal question. It is vastly more important than the crime wave, or the location of a Court House, or than any and all combined of the questions which now appeal for public attention.

Why is it so important? Because a water famine—the exhaustion of the water supply on which the city is daily and hourly dependent for its life and its industry and its safety from destruction by conflagration—would be a calamity well-nigh past imagination.

Such a failure of the city's water supply would compel the shutting down of factories and the practical annihilation of industry in the city which has the largest volume of manufactures of any city in the country. It would mean scarcity of water for domestic use in hundreds of thousands of households. It would mean peril to health in these households. It might easily bring wholesale riot in its wake.

Most serious of all, such a water famine would place the great metropolis in imminent danger of destruction by conflagration. A few crowded sections of the city, it is true, are protected from fire by the high-pressure water supply system, which can on an emergency obtain a supply of salt water from the adjacent rivers; but the area so protected is very small compared with the area of the greater city, where hundreds upon hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of property is at stake.

It can hardly be doubted that as soon as the water famine was close at hand, fire insurance companies would cancel their policies covering property all over the city. Justice to their policy holders elsewhere would require them to do this. With the experience of Baltimore and San Francisco and other minor conflagrations fresh in our memory, no one can think of a water famine in New York without realizing the gravity of the situation.

Asserting that an emergency supply is absolutely and almost imediately necessary, The Engineering News recurs to the makeshift plan talked of some years ago of constructing a pipe line from the Ten Mile River watershed into the Croton watershed, with a pumping station on Ten Mile River. This line need not be more than seven and one-half miles long, and the cost of construction is estimated at not more than $500,000. The Ten Mile River is a tributary of the Housatonic, which flowes through Connecticut into Long Island Sound, but it is anticipated that the consent of those in that State could be obtained for such a temporary arrangement. It is said that in two or three years water from the Adirondack reservoirs will be available, and the Ten Mile River watershed will no longer be needed.

Water Commissioner Thompson is now at Croton going over the situation, and it is understood that he is thinking seriously of the plan to tap Ten Mile River as the only thing to do in the emergency unless the situation speedily improves.

It is estimated that this arrangement would give the city an additional supply of 150,000,000 of gallons a day, and would be ample to tide the city over the famine period.

DID NOT DECLARE JEWELRY.

Presents Brought from Paris by Mexican Mine Owner Are Seized.

Francisco Peraza Martinez, owner of a gold mine at San José de Garcia, State of Sinaloa, Mexico, arrived yesterday on the Cunard liner Mauretania on his way to his home. He had to spend most of the day explaining to the customs officials and the United States District Attorney's assistants how it happened that he had neglected to declare some $2,000 worth of jewelry which was found in a pocket of his coat. It was late in the day when the authorities decided that he had no criminal intent to smuggle, and allowed him to leave for the Waldorf. The jewelry was seized on the Cunard pier. It is still in the possession of the customs authorities, who will retain it until the necessary formalities of release have been fulfilled.

Martinez did not declare any dutiable goods. He admitted having purchased the jewelry in Paris as presents for his wife. He said he intended to take it out of the country with him, and his failure to declare it was because of ignorance of the customs laws.

WIFE RICH, SHUNNED WORK.

So Alvar De C. O'Brien of New York Is Divorced in Montana.

HELENA, Mont., May 19.—Mrs. Mamie Cruse O'Brien, daughter of Col. Thomas Cruse, wealthy mine owner of Helena, was granted a divorce to-day from Alvar De C. O'Brien of New York City by District Judge Smith.

Mrs. O'Brien testified that she married the young man two years ago at St. Paul, and since their marriage he has failed to provide for her and refused to work, although several places were offered to him by her father. He was taken into her father's bank here, but quit after working half a day.

William Cruse, uncle of Mrs. O'Brien, the only other witness, testified that various attempts had been made to put O'Brien into positions where he might familiarize himself with Cruse's land and cattle business, and thus look after Mrs. O'Brien's interests, but the young man showed a disinclination to apply himself.

YALE REUNION IN CHICAGO.

President Hadley and 500 Alumni to Attend Western Meeting.

CHICAGO, May 19.—"A Yale Commencement Day in the West," the most important Yale event of the year outside of New Haven, is to be staged in Chicago to-morrow, when the seventh annual meeting of the Associated Western Yale Clubs will be held at the Onwentsia and University Clubs.

Special cars will leave all the big mid-Western cities to-day bearing delegations of Yale alumni, from the class of 1850 to the class of 1910, and all headed for Chicago. It is estimated that at least 500 men will attend the reunion, the preliminary registration last night showing 400 names, with more coming in by every mail.

President Arthur T. Hadley, who arrives to-morrow, will be a central figure in the celebration. It is said to be his pride that he never has missed one of these Western meetings.

TAFT HEARS DANISH SINGERS.

Fifty Students from Copenhagen Entertain White House Guests.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—President Taft had as special guests at the third White House garden party this afternoon fifty students of the University of Copenhagen, Denmark, picked for their special ability from the Danish Student Singers' Society, a famous musical organization. Through Count Moltke, the Danish Minister, they were invited to sing before the President.

The programme included Danish folk songs and patriotic airs. Olaf Holboll and Helge Nissen, royal Court singers of Denmark, sang solos.

KISSES MARY GARDEN.

Charles F. Lummis, Explorer, Cheered by Audience at Gamut Club Dinner.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 19.—"Gin a body meet a body, comin' through the rye, Gin a body kiss a body, need a body cry?"

This was the song that Mary Garden sang late last night at the Gamut Club after Charles F. Lummis, poet and novelist and explorer, had kissed her well and long, while the audience cheered. For Lummis's kisses were not mere stage affairs or society kisses. They were the old-fashioned kind, and both he and Miss Garden enjoyed them.

When Lummis was called upon to speak at the dinner given by the club in honor of Miss Garden he asked her if he might hold her hand. She assented, and as he held her hand he recited poetry. Then he kissed her hand. Then she arose and offered her cheek. He kissed it, and she offered the other and he kissed that. Then she sang "Coming Through the Rye," still holding both his hands.

As he approached her when called upon to speak he exclaimed:

"I've been familiar with California, the Garden of Eden, for many years, but I had never dared to hope that I would come so near the Eden of Garden."

Then the kissing began.

Cat's Cradles from Many Lands
By KATHLEEN HADDON. With 59 Illustrations. $0.90 net.
Almost all over the world the game of Cat's Cradle is played by natives. The book gives descriptions and illustrations of fifty figures from different parts of the world. These Cat's Cradles can be manipulated by one person, and in this respect differ from the European form known to our childhood. The figures usually represent some well-known object, or may illustrate a story, in which case they are frequently moving. A dozen string tricks collected from various places are also described.

Mrs. Maxon Protests
By Anthony Hope
This is pre-eminently Anthony Hope's novel of modern life. In it he wittily and sympathetically expresses his inmost feeling about the social pageant. The crisp speeches are like "The Dolly Dialogues," but the theme is much deeper. Here is the real world, its respectability, its narrowness, its curious codes of morality, as they look to a man so sensitive to the romantic side of life as Anthony Hope. Mrs. Maxon is married to a cold, stern man who doesn't understand her. Finding that she can no longer endure her life with him, she decides upon a separation. He will not divorce her. So she is left in her false position. How she works out her destiny is a story of great human appeal.

Miss Gibbie Gault
By Kate Langley Bosher
Women's intuition recognized Mary Cary and drew the child into the hearts of thousands. So many thousands, in fact, that the rest of her story had to be written. And here it is in this new book, "Miss Gibbie Gault." There will be a charm for every woman in the surroundings of Mary Cary—the story of her environment as she grows up in Yorkburg—its society, institutions, the Needlework Guild, the town council, the subtle tragic influence of gossip. Gibbie Gault is a woman in a thousand. And romance also touches Mary Cary as she grows and blooms into young womanhood. This new story is a book to read and to love.

Essence of Honeymoon
By H. Perry Robinson
"When a married couple leave a hotel," I said to Euphemia, "the wife should walk quite independently of the husband. You need not cling to me." "But I wasn't going to," interrupted Euphemia—"walk straight on to the front door and strive to convey the impression that you are accustomed to having a husband around."
Everybody who has ever indulged in a honeymoon will laugh over the delicious humor of the situations, and everybody who hasn't been honeymooning would better steer clear of the book altogether—it is too fine, too dainty for the uninitiated.

Jack and the Check Book
By John Kendrick Bangs
The familiar fairy stories of other days are retold in the light of Mr. Bangs' ingenious fancy. Wall Street here replaces the "Never-Never Land," and the result is twice as funny. You will find some of your old friends like Puss-in-Boots and Jack-the-Giant-Killer doing some amazing things. One critic says that no better parodies have been written since Bret Harte's "Condensed Novels."

A Noon-day Chat with the Family
WE know a New York business man living in Montclair who telephones his home about noon every day and spends a few minutes talking with his family. About this time the children are returning from school and the first thing they ask when they come in is: "Has father called up yet?" The telephone call is an event in the day for the children and it gives the man's wife an opportunity to deliver messages she has forgotten in the hurry of his leaving in the morning.
This telephone message keeps the man and his family closer together during the busy hours of the working day, and the cheery, "Hello, father," from his children is worth the entire cost of the message to him.
The slight expense for toll service is many times offset by the pleasure that is derived from a few minutes' chat.

AND OTHER POEMS
By JOEL ELIAS SPINGARN
Boards, 12mo., $1.00 net.
A collection of the author's best poems—love poems, poems expressive of American aspirations, and others suggestive of the author's literary and intellectual interests.
The title poem elicited the following letter from the late John Hay, then Secretary of State:
"I thank you very much for your poem, which I have read with great interest and enjoyment. I am old and tired, but still I take pleasure in the dreams of other men when they treat of noble things—and are well told. Lines like
'For Spring finds Summer trembling in the root,
And the March mists are melting into flowers,' and
'Only the seeker worthy of the quest
Shall find the perfect land,'

AMONG THE AUTHORS

MR. JOSEPH C. LINCOLN is at work upon a new novel, "The Woman Haters," the scene of which is laid at Eastboro Twin Lights, Cape Cod.

MR. STEPHEN CHALMERS has put in his novel, "The Trail of the Tenderfoot," some well-known Adirondack guides and woodsmen. One of these guides, described as "Old Man Smith," called at the publisher's office recently and asked to see himself "in print." He had been visiting the Sportsmen's Show, and was so struck with the type picture that he confessed himself the original with "Gosh, it's me, all right!"

MR. E. P. POWELL, author of "How to Live in the Country," has preached for several years in Unitarian churches, and has worked editorially for the St. Louis Democrat. He now expects to devote the rest of his life to the back-to-the-land movement. In Summer he lives on a fruit farm at Clinton, N. Y., overlooking the Oriskany Valley, and in Winter on Lake Lucy, near Sorrento, Florida.

MR. AND MRS. MONTAGUE GLASS are to sail shortly for Italy, where they will spend the Summer. While abroad Mr. Glass will work upon a novel. A new volume of "Potash and Perlmutter" stories, to be called "Abe and Mawrus," will be published in the Fall.

MR. VAUGHAN KESTER was undergoing a serialized operation on his throat while "The Prodigal Judge" was being printed. There were three instalments. Each time he came out from the anaesthetic he found they had changed the title of his book. First it was "The Unexpected," then it was "The Judge" and finally it became "The Prodigal Judge." He considers this a unique experience for any author.

MR. HAROLD MACGRATH sat in the front row listening to a vaudeville monologist springing some old jokes. He had heard them all before, and maybe he looked bored. Not knowing who he was (this was in MacGrath's home town) the monologist pointed down at him after the laughter. "This young man doesn't seem to appreciate these jokes." "Oh, yes I do," MacGrath came back. "I appreciated 'em ten years ago, when I wrote 'em!" Yells from the audience, who knew that MacGrath had once been a newspaper humorist.

It was in 1891, after repeated sojournings in camp, ranch, and military post, that my saturation with the whole thing ran over, so to speak, in the form of fiction. Writing had been a constant pastime since the school paper; in 1884 Mr. Howells (how kind he was!) had felt my literary pulse and pronounced it promising; a quickening came from the pages of Stevenson; a far stronger shove next from the genius of "Plain Tales from the Hills"; during an unusually long and broad wandering through the Platte Valley, Powder River, Buffalo, Cheyenne, Fort Washakie, Jackson's Hole and the Park, the final push happened to be given by Prosper Merimée; I had the volume containing "Carmen" (my favorite of all short stories) with me. After reading it in the Park I straightway invented a traveler's tale. This was written down after I got home—I left some good company at a club dinner-table one night to go off to a lonely library and begin it. A second followed; both were sent to Franklin Square and accepted by Mr. Alden.

MR. IRVING BACHELLER, whose "Keeping Up With Lizzie" was published two months ago, has just completed a Spring lecture tour which took him as far west as Minneapolis. His correspondence regarding the theme of "Keeping Up With Lizzie"—extravagance, and the ridiculous endless-chain of evils from aping our neighbors—induced him to transfer some of Socrates Potter's philosphy from the book to his lecture. Mr. Bacheller has gone to his camp in the Adirondacks for the summer.

MR. HERBERT CROLY is thus described in The Metropolitan Magazine:

Who Herbert Croly is may be answered briefly. He is the son of the late David G. Croly, formerly editor of The World and The Graphic in New York. His mother was Jennie C. Croly ("Jennie June"). He began life as a philosopher. That is, when he went to Harvard in 1886 it was with a view to becoming a teacher in philosophy. His father, to whose memory the book is dedicated, was deeply interested in philosophy. But the son soon lost interest in the subject, and without waiting to get his doctor's degree took a job on The Architectural Record. This he kept until 1905; then "The Promise of American Life" took such absorbing possession of him that he threw over everything else in order to do it right.

MR. BOOTH TARKINGTON, having just sold the dramatic rights of his novel, "The Conquest of Canaan," makes the emphatic statement that he will devote his entire energy in future to writing novels. "I'll never write another play," said Mr. Tarkington, "nor collaborate with any one in writing a play."

DR. WILLIAM J. DAWSON, joint editor, with his son, of "The Readers' Library," and author of several works of fiction, was born at Towchester, England, in 1854. He was educated at Kingswood School, Bath, and Didsbury College, Manchester. He achieved success as a preacher and lecturer. In 1904 he visited America as the guest of Dr. Hillis of Brooklyn, and during his stay in this country lectured and preached from Boston to Seattle. His present home is in Newark, N. J.

MR. MARK LEE LUTHER, whose new novel "The Sovereign Power" is just published, was born at Knowlesville, N. Y., in 1872. He was educated at public and private schools, at Harvard and Columbia, and in the law offices of Mr. William S. Bissell. He has been engaged in literary work since 1897, being at present the editor of The Smart Set. He is the author of several books and a contributor to the magazines.

"A book that enjoys the distinction of being one of the six 'best sellers' must be fluent, lively and typical; and is all these. 'Hopalong' is a dauntless rider, a 'dead' shot, alert, good-humored, generous, resourceful, romantic in spite of his nearness to the soil; the sort of hero one imagines as always dominating the situation.

"The robust outdoor life begets robust emotions. These men, living in the saddle, often tipsy, nearly always cheerful, with gun perpetually cocked for defense, live by a code so different from ours that it seems fantastic."—The Boston Herald.

Love Under Fire

"The author strikes an exciting note at the very beginning, and keeps up the interest to the end. The dashing officer is as alert in love as in war, and the very pretty love story never flags. In this stirring romance it must be said that the love making, even under like trying circumstances, is more convincing than usual. The beautiful full-color illustrations by Alonzo Kimball are worthy of note in this volume, as well as its tasteful exterior."

"Lyrics From Lotus Land"
By Florence Land May,
who groups her beautiful verses into these three divisions: "Lyrics From Lotus Land," "Lyrics and Legends of California and the West," and "Dialect Songs and Light Verse." The author's utterances embody a rich variety of themes, and are shaped into a delicate quality of poetic diction, all scented with the fragrance of deep and tender emotions. The homely aspects of life, as well as the most beautiful and exalted phases thereof, are lifted into relation of exquisite beauty and charm by the hand of art. SALE OF USED ENCYCLOPAEDIAS

From $1.00 Per Set Up

Nelson's Perpetual Loose-Leaf Encyclopaedia has revolutionized all Reference book making because the patented loose-leaf binding device makes it the only Reference Work that can be kept up to date, and an Encyclopaedia, to be dependable, must contain the most recent statistics and the latest information.

In the old way of making Encyclopaedias, years elapse between the appearance of the first and the last Volumes. This great lapse of time makes the first Volumes so many years out of date that for accurate information these Encyclopaedias connot be depended upon.

By The Nelson Loose-Leaf Reference System, the obsolete pages are removed, and 250 or more new pages are substituted in March and October of each year. Nelson's is therefore always abreast of the times.

Owners of the stitched and bound Encycolpaedias, on seeing Nelson's, wish to dispose of the old for the always new. Therefore, we have on hand a number of sets of stitched Encyclopaedias of all kinds. Below is a partial list:

FOUR IN FAMILY

How We Look from Where the Dog Sits

A FROLICSOME little book is Four in Family, a tale as waggish as Bosco's tail. Bosco is a real-for-sure dog, a bull-terrier of high degree and prolonged pedigree. His noble birth, however, does not inflict upon him a painful dignity nor interfere with his being a low comedian. He is indeed quite the funniest fun-maker that ever walked on four legs. And his tail is the most amusing appendage that ever whisked through fiction.

All the merry yarn is spun consistently from Bosco's point of view. His feelings, his comments, even his similes are naively and deliciously doggy. "When I first saw a clothes-brush," says Bosco, "I supposed it had just seen a cat." If you like a good story, you will like Four in Family, and if you're fond of dogs, you'll gloat over it.

THE IMMEDIATE PROBLEM

OF THE PUBLISHERS OF THE ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA is to accurately determine the invisible demand which will materialize in actual registrations by the 31st inst. It is only reasonable to expect that many people who have decided to acquire the book some time, but have not as yet carried their purpose into effect, will wish to profit by the present remarkably low prices. It is important, however, that such intending subscribers should realize that although the present offer has been open ever since last November, it will only remain in force ten days longer. The first distribution has been so successful that for the present no more copies will be printed and bound other than those for which applications shall have been received up to the day on which the lists are closed. All data for the revision and adjustment of existing manufacturing contracts must therefore be to hand by the 31st. Orders received after that date will be filed away to be filled, after the first distribution is complete, at prices which will be at least $10 higher per set than those now in force.

May 31st is the last day on which it will be possible to register a subscription for the new [11th] edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica at the rate of $4.00 a volume for the ordinary paper impression and $4.25 a volume for the India paper impression.

Orders bearing this or a prior date—as determined by the post-mark—will be included in the current lists and the senders privileged to rank as "previous-to-publication" subscribers.

Each subscriber will be protected by the assignment to him of a serial number which establishes his priority on the waiting files and secures him preferential treatment in the matter of delivery over every order subsequently received.

Readers who are desirous of obtaining the new Britannica at the lowest possible price and of having it delivered at the earliest possible moment are therefore urged to make application, or, if they have not already done so, to write for a prospectus at once.

(FROM A PHOTOGRAPH)

A Striking Comparison Between the 29 Thick Paper Volumes of the Encyclopaedia Britannica (11th Edition) and the Same Volumes printed on India Paper

(Both formats are printed from the same plates)

The original aim of the present concession was to induce subscribers to order quickly and thus afford the publishers the information necessary to standardize the production of the work in alternate formats.

The reader is still permitted to profit by this concession, although its object has been attained, because, if he makes prompt application, his order will be executed as part of an unbroken series of manufacturing operations.

Even if he is going away for the summer months he should leave his order behind him, for the fact that it may not be convenient to accept delivery until the fall need not prevent him from benefiting by economies of manufacture to which by registering before May 31st he will contribute.

His volumes will be held subject to his direction in such a case, nor need his payments begin until he actually receives them on his return.

Ideal in motive,

Indisputable in authority,

Exhaustive in treatment,

Cosmopolitan in scholarship

Adequate in information,

Comprehensive in scope,

Simple in language,

Convenient in format,

Practical in aim,

Appropriate in illustration,

Accessible in arrangement,

The new edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica is also an eminently readable book. Its articles possess to an unusual degree the power of taking the reader out of himself and interesting him in the work of the men who, to quote Oliver Wendell Holmes, "carry in their brains the ovarian eggs of the next generation's or century's civilization." To thus arouse curiosity and stimulate the imagination, to induce the reader to seek knowledge for its own sake and for the satisfaction he derives in acquiring it, is—in a vast organ of co-operative effort dedicated to the service of the public — a literary achievement of prime importance. Judged simply by the literary quality of its articles, and altogether apart from the intrinsic value of the information they contain, the 11th Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica is conceded to have set a new standard in works of general reference.

From a Professor of Law at Harvard University

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., 28th March, 1911.

I cannot speak too highly of the new edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica on India paper with flexible binding. The books themselves are in every way worthy of the great reputation of the Encyclopaedia, and fully meet the reasonable demands of the time that everything be up to date. The India paper and flexible binding make these volumes the most serviceable that I have ever used. To have enabled us to have such a compendium of all knowledge close at hand in a series of light, compact volumes, which one can handle almost as easily as he can his newspaper, is an achievement comparable only to the feats of efficiency engineering of which we are hearing so much.

The 11th Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, published by the Cambridge University Press, comprises an entirely fresh survey of contemporary knowledge to 1910. It consists of 28 volumes and Index, comprising 40,000 articles, 7,000 text illustrations, 450 full page plates, and 569 maps, and was simultaneously written by 1,500 leading specialists of 21 countries (including 200 Americans) working under the general supervision of a permanent editorial staff of 64 members.

NOTICE

No more copies of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica (11th Edition) will be printed and bound at present other than those required to fill orders for which applications shall be made up to and including May 31st. By this date it is essential for manufacturing reasons that the publishers shall be in a position to determine with accuracy the extent of the first distribution.

This will therefore consist of the orders already in hand, and of those that shall be received during the few days that now remain before the expiration of the limited period for registering orders at the advance-of-publication prices. Complete publication of the entire 28 volumes of text has been reached and the printing has been finished up to 17,500 sets (490,000 volumes). The Index (Volume 29) is now going into type.

The 68 printing machines requisitioned for the American edition will be kept continuously in operation until such time as all of the copies required for the "advance" sale are off.

From May 31st a new schedule of higher prices—at an advance of at least $10 a set—will go into effect, and a second distribution of the work will follow later in the year at the increased prices.

The orders now in hand will be dealt with as rapidly as circumstances will permit, but all orders have for some weeks been subject to delay in delivery owing to the increasing demands upon the binders, and to the extraordinary eagerness of book-buyers to subscribe for the new edition on the most favourable terms.

Not less noteworthy than the remarkable success of the "advance" offer of the 11th Edition is the fact that it has been conducted exclusively by advertising and circularizing, that is, without the intervention of the book-agent.

The work, in 28 volumes and Index, is in two forms: (1) On India Paper (very light and opaque) in Three Styles of Binding: Cloth, Full Flexible Sheepskin, and Full Flexible Morocco, the volumes each One Inch Thick (about 960 to 1,060 pages).

The India paper impression bound in either Full Sheep or Full Morocco is strongly recommended.

(2) On ordinary book-paper in Three Styles of Binding: Cloth, Half Morocco, and Full Morocco, the volumes each 2¾ inches thick (about 960 to 1,060 pages).

Illustrated prospectus (40 pages), 56 specimen pages on India paper, 4 specimen plates and form of application showing the special advance terms, will be sent upon receipt of request.

THE INDIA PAPER VOLUMES

"BOOKS," said he, "THAT YOU MAY CARRY TO THE FIRE AND HOLD READILY IN YOUR HAND ARE THE MOST USEFUL AFTER ALL."

Dr. Johnson's saying (quoted by Sir John Hawkins) dates from the period which saw the first appearance of the Encyclopaedia Britannica (1768). It has thus taken a century and a half for his ideal to be realized.

The word "format," which appears so frequently in these advertisements, is a technical French term employed by publishers to express an idea to which no single English word is quite equivalent. It comprises the joint conception of size and form and therefore by inference the conception of weight.

Very little reflection on the reader's part is needed to indicate the nature of the handicap imposed on previous editions of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, by their inconvenient and even repellent format, and, by contrast, of the advantages accruing from the substitution for the time-honoured quarto of the past of a slim, flexible volume, occupying but one inch of shelf room against three, weighing less than three pounds as against seven, yet embracing exactly the same contents. To quote from the very witty account of the matter which appeared in Truth (London):

> "Never since the law was written on tables of stone was there anything . . . so ponderous as each of the thirty and five volumes of that colossal 10th Edition. Shortly after they were delivered to me by a Pickford's goods wagon I saw in an Anglican church how they were evidently intended to be read. There was a boy bent double, in the attitude of one who stands for leapfrog, with a massy book between his shoulders from which the officiating priest was reading. Now I could not afford the boy. But with the compact volumes—especially with the exquisitely slim and dainty India paper volumes of the new edition—there is small need indeed of such a sturdy acolyte. . . . They are indeed such a pleasure both to read and to handle that they will be used, not like their predecessors, as mere books of reference, but as a library."

If the reader will realize that the new format brings the 11th Edition into the category of INTIMATE books: "books," to quote the great doctor, "that you may carry to the fire and hold readily in your hand"; he will understand the grounds of the belief of the publishers that the extraordinary merits of the innovation of India paper will prove an attraction hardly second to the value of the contents of the articles printed upon it. No longer will the mechanical restrictions of the bookmakers' art appear in the light of a necessary limit to the usefulness of a work of which the contents assuredly fit it above all other works to remain in constant use.

THE SHERMAN ACT MEANS WHAT IT SAYS.

It would be well if the slang and jargon of the law could be reduced to the terms of our common speech. A widespread and almost universal misconception of the language of the Sherman Anti-Trust act, and that meaning is so plain that no ingenuity could make it plainer, has been the responsible cause of twenty years of wrangling and litigation, of bad advice by counsel to clients, of court decisions at war one with another, some of them at war with the act itself, of the intolerable harassment of business men honestly desiring to conduct their affairs in accordance with the law, if only they could find out what the law was, and of a paralysis of enterprise and energy resulting in enormous loss. The nature of the legal obfuscation that has so long blinded the bar and the bench to the true intent of the act of 1890 may be set forth in a few words.

Put in the briefest way, it is because of the confusion of "restraint of competition" with "restraint of trade." The Sherman act forbids all restraint of trade, Congress intended to forbid restraint of trade, it was right that it should forbid restraint of trade, because, rightly viewed, there can be no innocent restraint of trade. Restraint means diminishment. It ought to be clear to the humblest understanding that any man who diminishes trade by impeding its free flow is guilty of a wrongful act. All restraint of competition, on the other hand, is not forbidden. That restraint may be not only innocent but salutary, since it may actually enlarge the volume of trade. Two men who are competitors in the same business may by uniting their capital and skill produce together more than both produced separately; they may be able to sell their product at a lower price. Manifestly, this is no injury to society, it is an innocent restraint of competition. It is only when restraints of competition do, in fact, restrain trade and prevent the free flow of commerce, that they become guilty acts within the meaning of the law of 1890. So, when in his Northern Securities opinion Justice BREWER said that Congress did not intend to reach and destroy "those minor contracts in partial restraint of trade which a long course of decisions at common law had affirmed as reasonable," he fell into the common error, the error that has hitherto stood in the way of a true interpretation and understanding of the act. It is through the vice of the legal jargon, a vice chargeable originally against the profession in England, but one to which the lawyers of this country have become universally addicted, that the words "restraint of trade" have been used in a technical sense that forces the phrase out of its natural and only reasonable meaning, and this has brought us into this sea of trouble. If the lawyers and Judges would so far amend their usage as to speak English when they are talking law, there would be less litigation and much less confusion and worriment for ordinary mortals. Keeping in mind, then, that restraint of competition may often be innocent, but that restraint of trade is always guilty, let us see what Congress intended by this enactment.

Its intent is plain. The bill, which was originally drawn "to prevent full and free competition," and was many times printed with that phrase unchanged, was subsequently amended, after a debate which enlightened the minds of the legislators as to the disastrous effect of forbidding all restraint of competition until, in the form of final adoption, the word "competition" is nowhere used. Senator SHERMAN first introduced his bill on Aug. 14, 1888. It then read as follows:

> That all arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts, or combinations between persons or corporations made with a view, or which intend, to prevent full and free competition in the production, manufacture, or sale of articles of domestic growth or production * * * are hereby declared to be against public policy, unlawful, and void.

The bill, reintroduced on Dec. 4, 1889, was reported from committee with some amendments on Jan. 14, 1890. It still retained the words "to prevent full and free competition." In that form, and with that phrase, it was often reprinted with other amendments. FRANK HISCOCK of the State of New York appears to have been the first Senator to call attention to the unwisdom of enacting a law that prohibited all restriction of competition. But it was only when Senator ORVILLE H. PLATT of Connecticut, on March 27, 1890, in debating this feature of the bill pointed out "the disastrous effects which it would have upon the legitimate business interests of the country," that the Senate really began to understand what it was about to do. Quoting the section forbidding agreements "which tend to prevent full and free competition," Senator PLATT said:

> That is the real meaning of this bill. That is, all arrangements whatever, looking to the objects which are pointed out in the bill, between any two or more persons are unlawful. In other words, this bill proceeds upon the false assumption that all competition is beneficial to the country, that every advance in price is an injury to the country. That is the assumption upon which this bill proceeds. There never was a greater fallacy in the world. Competition which the bill provides for, as between any two persons, must be full and free. Unrestricted competition is brutal warfare, and injurious to the whole country. The great corporations of this country, the great monopolies of this country are every one of them built upon the graves of weaker competitors that have been forced to their death by remorseless competition. * * * So this bill sweeps in all business. It sweeps in the dealing in every article. It sweeps in the transactions of every merchant; it sweeps in the transactions of every manufacturer and of every producer.

Had these words forbidding all agreements to prevent competition been retained in the act, then, indeed, it would have meant what Justice PECKHAM in the Trans-Missouri case thought that it meant, it would have meant what everybody, until the Supreme Court spoke the other day, feared that the act really did mean, it would have put innumerable innocent, wholesome business operations throughout the country under the ban of about the most unreasonable statute ever enacted. The word "competition" was not retained in the act. After the speech of Senator PLATT the bill was referred back to the Committee on Judiciary. On April 2, six days after Senator PLATT'S speech, Senator EDMUNDS reported the bill from that committee with an amendment which struck out everything after the enacting clause, and substituted an entirely new bill which, with some trifling amendments, subsequently made, read as the law now upon the statute book reads. Senator PLATT'S speech had killed the competition clause.

But this is not all. In the House Mr. BLAND of Missouri, the indefatigable advocate of free silver coinage, moved an amendment which would have made the act forbid "every contract or agreement entered into for the purpose of preventing competition in the sale or purchase of any commodity transported from any State or Territory to be sold in another," and so on. This amendment was much debated. Conference committees were appointed between the two houses. The conferees on the part of the Senate reported, and the Senate approved amendments to the House amendment. In the ensuing debate grave fears were expressed that, as drawn, the amendment would sanction pooling arrangements between railroads, which the Inter-State Commerce act forbade. The final result was that, after a second conference had been held, the House withdrew its amendment and concurred in passing the bill as the Senate had passed it. The Senate also withdrawing its amendment, the bill became a law as it now stands.

Thus it appears that both houses, not by inadvertence, but deliberately, after debate, struck out from the measure the words "forbidding contracts or agreements to prevent competition." These words were first struck out from the Senate bill, and then, when restored by a House amendment, they were again struck out by a decision of the House to drop that amendment. The evidence is complete that it was not the intention of Congress to prohibit restraints of competition. It deliberately rejected that provision for reasons given in debate. But, as enacted, the law does prohibit restraints of trade, and that is exactly what Congress intended to do. Congress understood what it was about, its understanding of what its act meant was evidently much clearer than the understanding of the innumerable lawyers and Judges who have had to deal with it during the last twenty-one years. If we read the language of the act in its ordinary, natural sense, as plain English, it presents no trouble at all, no occasion for doubt or misconstruction. The words could not be plainer. And, in that natural and only reasonable meaning, this act may be accepted precisely as it reads without the slightest sophistication of its clear meaning by lawyers' argument or Judges' construction. The Sherman act means what it says. It is not an act that will do harm to any innocent man or any innocent business, since restraint of trade, the thing it forbids, can never be innocent.

Justice HARLAN in his criticism of Chief Justice WHITE'S opinion the other day protested against the attempt to read the word "unreasonable" into the law. We may be very sure that the eight Justices who concurred in that opinion know as well as any men in the land that they can read nothing into a law of Congress. The effect of that decision is to apply the law as Congress intended it should apply. That is to say, acts, contracts, or agreements complained of will be examined with respect to their evident intent and inevitable effect, in each individual case. It is plain that Justice WHITE'S words "the light of reason" mean that the courts will not condemn acts, contracts, or agreements that, while they may restrain competition, do not restrain trade. That is just what Congress intended. But Justice HARLAN himself, it seems to us, is chargeable as much as any other jurist with having used language, or assented to the use of language, that has tended to the legal, the judicial, and the popular misunderstanding of the Sherman act. He has concurred in decisions rendered in opinions of the court that have used the word "competition" and the word "trade" as though they were interchangeable. In the Northern Securities opinion, which he wrote and delivered himself, he speaks of "the rule of competition, prescribed by Congress." With the utmost deference for the venerable Justice HARLAN, it may be pointed out that Congress expressly and deliberately struck out from the measure all reference to competition save that which is implied in its prohibition of the restraint of trade, an evil which might result from improper restraints on competition. So, too, Justice LACOMBE in his vigorous opinion in the Tobacco case, embodying the famous illustration of the two rival express wagon drivers who would violate the act by entering into a combination that would "restrain an existing competition," and who found that the Tobacco Company, although it had been a "good trust" and not a "bad trust," had violated the law, appears to have read the act as though it forbade not merely restraint of trade but restraint of competition. It may seem like effrontery to charge pretty much all the Judges and all the lawyers of the country with a failure to get at the meaning of a law written in plain English, with a failure to understand rightly what it was their business to understand, and what they might have understood by an attentive reading of the debates, but we can see no escape from the conclusion that this clear difference between restraint of competition, which is not forbidden, and restraint of trade, which is forbidden, has been altogether overlooked. We do not suppose the lawyers and the Judges will for any of these reasons consent to bring the language which they habitually use into any closer agreement with the common speech. Doubtless they will go on discoursing about innocent restraints of trade, which is a manifest absurdity, since no restraint of trade can be innocent, when they mean restraint of competition. But we hope that some of them, at least, may be prompted by what we have said to read diligently the debates which preceded the enactment of the Sherman law. It would have been of incalculable advantage to the business of the country, we think, if they had read these debates years ago in the light which, with our humble powers, we have sought to cast upon the pages of the record.

A CONTRAST.

The reciprocity treaty was under discussion in the House of Lords on Thursday and also in the Finance Committee of the United States Senate. In the former body a Conservative Lord undertook to embarrass the Government by the argument that Canada was allowed to get better terms from the United States than the United Kingdom. Baron LUCAS for the Government answered very simply and with the utmost candor that if Canada wanted reciprocity with the United States England could not prevent it and would not try; that, on the contrary, Great Britain would give to Canada a fair field for promoting her own prosperity in her own way. It was on these lines alone that the Government was watching the negotiations. That was a perfectly correct and at the same time a broad view to take of the situation.

To the Committee on Finance in the Senate appeared Mr. ELIHU ROOT, Senator from New York, formerly Secretary of State. He offered an amendment to the bill carrying out the reciprocity agreement, which, if adopted by the Congress, would practically defeat reciprocity. This he did in the avowed interests of the papermakers of this State. In effect it postpones indefinitely the free importation of paper and wood pulp. It is a matter for profound regret that a public man of Mr. ROOT'S high reputation and undoubted ability, whose services to the State and to the world have been so substantial, should deem it right to engage in a manoeuvre like this. The reciprocity agreement is essentially a measure for peace and common advantage. Even if it affected injuriously some private interests, based on the favors which it withdraws, that would be a petty reason for endangering the measure. As a matter of fact, we do not believe any interests will permanently be injured. When Mr. ROOT, in behalf of the paper mills, opposes the policy of the President, which has received the approval of the Nation generally, and which is in the line of peace and progress, it seems that the statesman has shrunken suddenly into the attorney.

THE MEXICAN ARMISTICE.

Disturbing rumors during the lull in Mexican affairs are inevitable. FIGUEROA and his fellow-rebels of Guerrero and Morelos are keeping up a show of armed resistance to the Government, probably with the object of forcing MADERO to reckon with them in completing peace negotiations. We need not take very seriously the rumors of a plot against MADERO in Mexico City or MADERO'S avowed opposition to BERNARDO REYES, who will reach Tampico next week. The rumored formation of a Catholic party to meddle in the coming elections is not encouraging to the hope of a restoration of perfect harmony, but it may be nothing more than a rumor. Neither the Maderists nor the remaining Porfirists are likely to seek new support through an alliance with the Church, while the clerics, though their power is closely restricted, have seen their institution grow in wealth and influence under the Diaz régime and are not likely to risk what they have in an unwise attempt to secure some of their old political authority.

In spite of the continued fighting in some of the lower States, the country is now generally tranquil, and the outlook for permanent peace is good. The present situation is almost without precedent in Mexico, and we cannot judge of the outcome by historical comparison.

In 1821 AGUSTIN DE ITURBIDE, placed by the Spanish Viceroy in command of the Government troops detailed to crush the revolution under Gen. GUERRERO, formed a coalition with GUERRERO, and together they entered the City of Mexico, and ended Spanish rule forever. Less than a year later ITURBIDE proclaimed himself Emperor, and the revolution broke out anew. The example of ITURBIDE is not likely to be followed in this era, and unless there is some unforeseen hitch in the negotiations now pending peace will be restored and industry will prosper if the people of Mexico prove themselves equal to the task of self-government. They have had thirty years of good preparation for it under the firm but wise sway of DIAZ, though the temper of their representatives and their tendency toward extreme measures are not altogether reassuring.

MULCTING THE CITY.

This city has paid good round prices for the lands it has found necessary to condemn in bringing an additional supply of water down from the Catskills through its new aqueduct. The Tax Assessors in the towns of Olive, Hurley, Marbletown, New Paltz, Shawangunk, and Gardiner have unduly increased their assessments beyond the values which the city has had to pay. Owners in the town of Olive, Ulster County, for example, now pay taxes on their lands at an average assessment of $10.80 an acre, while the average for the city's property has been hoisted to $54.67 an acre. The market value of the lands acquired by the city has not increased in the town of Gardiner, but assessments upon the city's property have risen from $31.25 an acre in 1908 to $375 an acre in 1910. In most of the towns along the line of the aqueduct the town assessors, in the opinion of Commissioner CHARLES N. CHADWICK of the Board of Water Supply, have treated this city unfairly.

Therefore, Commissioner CHADWICK urges the passage of Assembly bill 1,573, introduced by Mr. FRY, which provides that lands condemned by a municipality for the purpose of a water supply shall be assessed and taxed only at their market value, exclusive of the value of the water works. It provides, further, that the rate shall not be higher than the rate at which unimproved property in the vicinity is assessed. This provision would not deprive the up-State counties of any taxes they would have levied had it not been necessary for this city to go to the Catskills for water.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Campaign Against Loan Sharks.

That so many of this city's prominent merchants should be seriously considering what is called the loan shark evil, and making a united effort to find a remedy for it, illustrates the new feeling of responsibility for and interest in the welfare of employés that has come of late to be as characteristic of "big business" as are some of its more frequently mentioned peculiarities.

The men now planning a systematic campaign against the usurers who so ruthlessly exploit, sometimes the necessities and sometimes the extravagances of small-salaried workers, are themselves in no danger from this class of moneylenders, since they never have any dealings with them. Not many years ago most or all of them were content to do nothing more than to threaten with discharge any employé who could not or did not so manage his affairs that his creditors did not bother "the house" by attempts to collect through it what he owed. That day has passed, or is rapidly passing, and at present there are few of the larger employers of labor who have not come to recognize that the old policy is not only bad for the unfortunate debtor, in that it supplies the usurer with a potent means of intimidation and coercion, but that it is also bad for those following that policy because its inevitable effects are the demoralization and lessened efficiency of its victims.

A specific remedy for the evil is not of facile discovery, for no laws will long prevent men in desperate need from paying large interest for money, or other men from charging large interest when they make loans on poor security. The difficulty of the problem was recognized by many of the speakers at this week's conference, and the suggestions for its solution were mostly along the line of prevention rather than of cure. Thus JACOB GIMBEL said that the plan found fairly successful by his own firm consisted in letting its employés know that it would give help in times of trouble by making loans without interest or giving credit for necessaries and so removing the temptation to resort to the "sharks."

Mutual loan associations were also hopefully proposed as a means of relief for any group of workers of considerable size. These, if properly managed and protected, would seem to be the best way out of the difficulty, the plan being quite free from any suspicion or taint of charity and enabling the borrower to preserve unimpaired his sense of self-dependence.

Not Too Mad to be Held Responsible.

What the negro CAIN did with his big knife in the few minutes that elapsed between the remonstrance which he resented, and his reduction to helplessness, is almost enough to make one wonder if there be not in his veins a strain of Malay blood. At any rate, he acted very much as do the "juramentados" of the Philippines, and seemed to be inspired, like them, with a ferocious desire to kill as many people as he could before he could himself be beaten down and killed.

That CAIN still lives, though two of his victims are dead and nine others are severely wounded, speaks well for the self-control of the policemen who at last subdued him, but that his murderous career should have been as long as it was does not as audibly demonstrate their efficiency—does, indeed, seem to hint at incompetency or unpreparedness. It is only fair to note, however, that none of the policemen who took a hand in the affair—and as many did take one as could—showed any hesitation in attacking the man who was manifesting such skill and determination in the use of his dangerous weapon. Courage, therefore, was not lacking, and it is little wonder, it is easily excusable, that in dealing with a criminal of a sort so unfamiliar the policemen did not at first realize the seriousness of the situation that confronted them and the need there was for an instant exercise of the utmost severity.

CAIN is presumably a man with a mind abnormal enough to justify an alienist in calling him insane, and probably they will do so if their opinion is asked at his trial, but that is not a sufficient reason, though the law, strictly interpreted, might say so, for calling him irresponsible for his savage outburst. His record, while extremely bad, is not that of a helpless lunatic, and the fact that when sent to prison for his previous exploit as a wielder of the knife, he won the full measure of commutation of sentence by good behavior, shows that he can restrain his passions when he chooses. His frenzy was one into which he deliberately and voluntarily prepared the way by nursing grievances, the unreality of which he more or less clearly knew, and of course the circumstance that he killed while resisting arrest balances the absence of technical premeditation from his act.

If anybody deserves capital punishment CAIN does, and life imprisonment, with all its chances of pardon, will not adequately protect society, since he is sure to kill again if he ever goes free.

Foresight a Good Investment.

It is all very well to remove sidewalk obstructions, even at the large expense which it imposes upon those who in making the obstructions only followed universal custom and had for what they did official tolerance when they did not have explicit official permission. The public streets are for public, not private, use, and the increased facility for traffic movement which the removal of the various hindrances to it creates is still less than is needed. But the nuisance and the cost of all this tearing down and rearranging are hard to bear, for the exercise of what now seems like a little foresight and sense would have prevented the need of it.

If only we would—or could—plan our cities as a whole, instead of merely letting them grow up under the blind direction of individual needs, tastes, and interests, what a lot of trouble and money would be saved, and how much easier it would be to attain municipal comfort and beauty! Of course we could not plan perfectly, for nobody knows everything about the future, and villagers cannot be expected to lay out streets for millions still unborn to use, but we could plan better than we do, and we could stick to our plans more closely.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE TIMES of this morning I read an article upon the destruction of trees in New Haven by worms or bugs, and the threatened destruction of all of our shade trees everywhere. I was "raised" upon a farm in Maine, and as my father was very fond of trees he planted so many elm and maple trees around the house that we lived in a semi-wilderness. One year the bugs or worms took possession of his favorite maple and rapidly destroyed the leaves. My father was one of the odd creatures called "a genius." Presently he sent me to the village store for a pound of powdered sulphur. Then he bored an inch hole about four inches into the big tree. Then he filled the hole with powdered sulphur and "rammed it in with a punch"—rammed in all the hole would hold. Then he stopped the mouth of the hole with a cork stopper. Behold! The sap of the tree picked up the sulphur and carried it to every leaf. Every leaf of the big tree was sulphurized. The worms were not fond of sulphur. By the third day every worm or bug was gone. And they did not return in the half-dozen years that I remained upon the farm. It is an easy treatment. An active man can bore, fill, and plug a tree in fifteen minutes. And, so far as I know, the tree is uninjured.

You justly praise the elm. But a real "rock maple," or sugar maple, of the Maine and Vermont school of trees is grand. It gives a better shade than the elm, you know.

Dr. Hyslop's Society.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While some of your correspondents are discussing psychical research, will you or one of your readers kindly give me a little information?

What amount of money has been expended by Dr. Hyslop's society since it was organized? I believe that $20,000 was originally donated, and that much more has since been received in membership fees, &c. What is the total sum?

What has been accomplished as a result of the expenditure of this money? What is it that has been scientifically demonstrated beyond question? Are those who contribute the money permitted to witness any of the investigations, or do they merely get printed reports?

The question of a future life is one that we are all interested in, but I must confess that my confidence in psychical research has been greatly shaken by some of Dr. Hyslop's recent writings.

Queries About Arbitration.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to ex-President Roosevelt's article in The Outlook on the arbitration treaty proposed with Great Britain, in which he draws attention to the imprudence of leaving to arbitration such a question, for instance, as that of an unlimited immigration from Eastern countries, it might be well to mention another case which it would be a questionable proceeding to leave to arbitration.

A case, for instance, like the Venezuela affair under the Cleveland Administration; any case, in fact, in which the Monroe Doctrine would come into discussion, a doctrine which, I believe, has not yet been formally subscribed to by European nations.

In such cases, who would the arbitrators be, or likely be? Would they not be European nations, who, to say the least, are not interested in upholding the Monroe Doctrine at all?

Need of Aquatic Economy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to the waste of water and the need of aquatic economy in this town at present, I noticed Sunday afternoon, while passing along 110th Street, in front of Columbia University, two large fountains in the plaza throwing up into the air what looked like three-inch streams of water from each. A great quantity of water may be lost—I don't say wasted—in that way, or does it flow back into the main from which it came? If it does that, of course no tenable objection can be made to the squirting of Columbia's silver fountain, although as far as I could see there was nobody standing, or sitting, around listening to the fountains play.

NEW TIMES SQUARE KIOSKS.

How the Entrances to the Subway Will Be Situated.

THE TIMES incorrectly stated yesterday the projected rearrangement of the entrances and exits to the Times Square Subway station. The new entrance is to be by a single kiosk set back from the curb on the Forty-second Street side of the southeast corner of the street and Seventh Avenue. The kiosk on the Broadway side of the Hotel Knickerbocker corner is to remain in its present place, but to be remodeled, but the kiosk on the Forty-second Street side is to be abolished entirely. It is hoped that arrangements can be made for the abolishing of the two kiosks in front of Shanley's old restaurant and the erection of the entrance through the new building to be put up on the property. If not, the kiosks will be set back from the curb as far as possible.

DENIAL FROM McANENY

That the Minds of His Committee Are Made Up Against Subway Compromise.

President McAneny of Manhattan, who is Chairman of the Board of Estimate Transit Committee, was quoted yesterday as saying that the report of his committee to the board would be submitted before June 1, and that it would not recommend a division of territory between the two companies in the subway field, the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company and the Interborough Rapid Transit Company.

Later in the day Mr. McAneny denied that he had said anything that could be construed as meaning that the minds of his committee had been made up on the compromise plan. It is known, however, that Mr. McAneny personally does not see how the possibility of compromise remains, and holds to the view that an attempt to make the two companies compromise their offers at this time could end only in delay. The report of his committee is expected to go to the members of the Board of Estimate next week.

BROOKLYN COLLEGE CHANGE.

The Rev. J. F. X. O'Conor Will Be Succeeded by Father O'Rourke.

It was announced yesterday that the Rev. J. F. X. O'Conor, rector of the Jesuit Brooklyn College since its founding, three years ago, is to leave that institution, exchanging places with the Rev. John H. O'Rourke, who is now editor of The Messenger of the Sacred Heart, a Catholic monthly publication, whose office is in Kohlman Hall, in West 181st Street, Manhattan.

Father O'Conor has been very zealous in the upbuilding of the college. On April 23 last he celebrated the silver jubilee of his priesthood. Yesterday's transfer was made by the General of the Society of Jesus in Rome through the American Provincial. It is customary for the heads of Jesuit colleges to have a term of three years, at the end of which they are reappointed or transferred. Father O'Conor's term has just ended.

The new President of the institution is one of the best known of the Jesuit priests in the East. He has been rector of other colleges.

CITY'S WORK HORSES IN LINE.

Many Public Entries for the Parade on Memorial Day.

Police Commissioner Cropsey has notified Mrs. James Speyer, President of the New York Women's League for Animals, that the department will have the record number of entries in the work horse parade which is to be given on Memorial Day in Fifth Avenue. About sixty horses usel by the mounted police will lead the procession, and the best-conditioned of these will receive special prizes.

Fire Commissioner Waldo has promised a liberal representation. There will be engines, hose-carts, water-towers, and trucks, and the Commissioner holds that the horses drawing them will show up as well as any other draught animals in New York. Many entries have been received from the Park Department, the Street Cleaning Department, and the Board of Health. As for the "lay" horses, a greater number will be in line than ever before.

TO SUPPRESS CRIMINAL NEWS

Bill Prohibits Publication of Details of Crimes and Executions.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 19.—The House bill which prohibits publication of detailed statements or descriptions of crimes and execution of criminals passed the Senate to-day apparently without being noticed. The bill was called up and without waiting for an explanation of its nature the roll was called and it was passed by a vote of 29 to 0.

The measure has already passed the House. Violation of the act is made punishable by a fine of not more than $1,000 or not more than six months' imprisonment or both.

"Hell's Kitchen."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is a fine opportunity for an important public improvement in making Eleventh Avenue not only trackless, but a beautiful roadway, helpful to all the residents of the nearby unattractive streets. The quarter has long been known as "Hell's Kitchen." Why not let this neglected water front, so full of delightful possibilities, have its share of the generous plans enjoyed, for example, in the Bronx? It certainly would make better citizens, if, instead of noise, dirt, and an absolute lack of any point of interest, the people could enjoy a tree-bordered boulevard, with parks, model tenements, playgrounds, a Carnegie library, garden plots, perhaps, and a kindergarten and nursery could also find an appropriate place here. A Yearning Requited.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I noted with pleasure that you also are human enough to "yearn for praise," as you so frankly stated in your reply to Dr. Adler's criticism of the report of his lecture. Permit me, then, to say that the charming combination of facetiousness, sound judgment, and deep thought which characterizes the editorials on the "Topics of the Times"—evidently all the product of the same pen—has been keenly appreciated by at least one reader, who is indebted to the editor for many a pleasant breakfast hour. BAR ASSOCIATION HITS THE GAYNOR CHARTER

Law Committee Files a Brief Saying It Is Intolerable in Its Legal Aspects.

EXISTING CHARTER MORE FIT

A General Objection Is That It Necessitates Reference to All Prior Statutes Relating to City Government.

The Bar Association joined vigorously yesterday in the attack on the Gaynor Charter, by presenting to the Legislature Committee on Cities, which is holding hearings on the draft in the Aldermanic chamber at City Hall, a brief declaring that the legal aspects of the Charter are intolerable, and must produce worse confusion than now exists. "Apparently," says the brief, "the draughtsmen of the bill were unwilling to do the scientific work necessary to provide a proper schedule for repealing or modifying existing laws. It will be much easier for the city of New York to continue its existence under the Charter as it is now drawn."

The brief is prepared by the committee on the amendment of the laws of the Bar Association, of which Louis Marshall is Chairman. In passing severe criticism on the Charter from the strictly legal point of view, the brief develops the one new point that it adds to the public records which are beyond the taxpayer's right of inspection, those of the Commissioner of Accounts and Statistics. In this department, the proposed charter places the Bureau of Municipal Investigation and Statistics, which now performs, in the Controller's office, the function of analyzing the departmental estimates for the budget, so that in the light of the facts to which attention is called by the Bar Association Committee, it would appear that under the Gaynor Charter no taxpayer could get access to any of the data from which the budget was prepared.

The Mayor Retracts a Little.

Mayor Gaynor sent a letter yesterday to Chairman Foley of the Assembly Committee on Cities in which he retracted on some of the provisions for which the proposed charter has been criticised, and insisted upon other points that have been assailed, and disregarded other criticisms altogether. The Mayor yields on the provision for a statutory budget committee, but says that he favors a committee appointed by the Mayor from the Board of Estimate, and including the Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen. This would place directly in the Mayor's hands the control of budget making which under the Gaynor Charter would come indirectly by controlling the appointment of the majority of the budget committee.

The Mayor gives up also on the general suspensive veto over resolutions of the Board of Estimate, on the theory that the existing absolute veto on franchises "and contracts relating thereto," is a more important exercise of the veto power which he does not think ought to be superceded by a suspensive veto overriden by twelve votes. The Mayor declines to yield on the provision which makes the certificate of the newly created City Engineer final in the audit of bills for all work, material, and supplies, and sticks to his idea of a paid Board of Education, although raising the number of members from five to seven, and also declares for "home rule" in regard to civil service requirements.

Sticks to Hospital Provisions.

He adheres to his proposal to create a separate department of hospitals with a single paid Commissioner, declaring that this department ought to be closer to the city government, and does not vary his proposal to remove the Bureau of Real Estate of the Controller's office over to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, and the Bureau of Municipal Investigation and Statistics of the Controller's office over to the Commissioner of Accounts. The Mayor again disclaims authorship of the charter, remarking: "I am not able to take any credit for whatever there may be good in the proposed charter, but I am willing to be accused of any bad or unwise things in it."

The brief of the Bar Association was prepared by a committee whose members in addition to Mr. Marshall are Clarence D. Ashley, Timothy Davenport, William V. Rowe, Edward Sanford, Eugene Smith, Nelson S. Spencer, and Harlan F. Stone. It begins by saying:

"The existing Charter is about as far as possible from being the instrument which a proper charter should be, and is exceedingly defective as a law. The proposed Charter does modify the existing scheme of Government in many substantial and important respects. It is manifest that a law which is merely a new compilation will only add to the existing confusion. Any new instrument ought to be so carefully prepared and drawn with so much knowledge of the existing law that it will be complete in itself and will not necessitate the examination of all prior statutes relating to the city Government which are still on the statute books unrepealed and which run back to the year 1874. The bill will simply add to the present confusion. It has apparently been prepared with the idea of shortening the provisions of the present Charter, but it does this only by the process of omitting certain provisions which still remain the law and which are to be found only through an examination of the existing Charter and other statutes."

Condemned as Vague.

The brief of the Bar Association then goes into detail in a destructive analysis of various vague statements of the Gaynor Charter repealing existing laws. The Bar Association committee points out that this vagueness must give rise to indefinite litigation. The existing situation, it declares, is bad enough, but that proposed under the Gaynor Charter would be immeasurably worse. The report continues:

"Such a condition of affairs should not be tolerated. The Charter of the City of New York should be complete in itself. Within this code any citizen should be enabled to find the provisions of the statute law relating to the municipality. He should not be called upon to wade through a century of previous litigation for the purpose of determining what the law governing a particular situation is. The objection to the present Charter, that it consists of layer upon layer of legislation, the meaning of which can only be definitely determined by a judicial interpretation, will merely be emphasized by the adoption of the new Charter without specific repealing provisions. It would be but another encrustation and not a codification.

"It will be much easier, in our opinion, for the City of New York to continue its existence under the Charter as it is now drawn, with some modifications, if any are necessary, as to administrative departments than it will be to introduce these modifications in a new statute which is incomplete in itself and which must for construction and application depend upon research of all prior statutes relating to the same subject."

Civil Service in Doubt.

The brief attacks the proposed Board of Administrative Detail as having "the effect of creating a court without any of the appurtenances of a court," and declares it to be "in defiance of the jurisdiction conferred on the courts by the Constitution and in conflict with that instrument." The Bar Association committee also speaks out against the civil service sections of the Charter, declaring that the status of the whole civil service sections is left in doubt by the published statements of Mayor Gaynor and his reference to the Corporation Counsel.

In addition the brief inveighs against the proposal of the Gaynor Charter to prevent taxpayers from getting access to opinions rendered to the various city departments by the Corporation Counsel and contains a considerable enumeration of vague and indefinite statements whose verbiage, in its estimate, produce their sufficient condemnation.

All the Borough Presidents except Lawrence Gresser of Queens appeared at yesterday's hearing to protest against the redistribution of some of the functions of their offices proposed by the Gaynor draft. Borough President McAneny of Manhattan was spokesman. He opposed particularly the abolition of the present Departments of Buildings in the various boroughs in favor of a central Department of Buildings, the creation of an office of City Architect and the creation of an office of City Engineer appointed by the Mayor to exercise many of the functions now distributed through the borough organizations.

8,000 GIRLS DANCE IN CENTRAL PARK

SPECIAL SHOW FOR CARNEGIE

One Group of Public School Athletic League Does the Highland Fling for Him—45 Maypoles on the Field.

Central Park had the appearance yesterday afternoon of having been struck by an exploded rainbow. On fifteen acres west of the Mall were all the colors the most beautiful rainbow ever saw. They were massed and scattered and massed again as thousands of small girls danced and played games and wound Maypoles. The Girls' Branch of the Public School Athletic League was having its annual outing in the Park. There were 8,000 children on the green yesterday, coming from sixty schools of Manhattan and Bronx to dance around the big band stand draped with flags, where the boys' band of Public School 21, under the leadership of M. J. Ryan, played for the whole programme. Commissioner Stover had the fifteen acres roped off, and in this space were set forty-five Maypoles, each gay with ribbons.

There were settees for the visitors at the north end of the roped space, and here sat the Directors of the league, Principals of schools, President Egerton Winthrop, Jr., of the Board of Education, and Mrs. Winthrop, Supt. Maxwell, and the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie and their daughter, Margaret.

Mr. Carnegie had a little bit of the May party given for him alone. He had come out to be photographed standing just on the edge of the group of girls from School 15, of which Miss Margaret Knox is Principal. They were an attractive lot of girls in dark blue kilted skirts and white blouses.

"My girls would like to dance the Highland Fling for you, Mr. Carnegie," said Miss Knox. Mr. Carnegie was delighted, and so between the dances of the regular programme the girls gave the Scottish dance, and Mr. Carnegie applauded heartily.

"What nationality are they?" asked Mr. Carnegie.

"Little foreigners, most of them," replied Miss Knox.

"Well, they have American vim," commented Mr. Carnegie, and the girls were so pleased that they danced the Sailor's Hornpipe.

The final exercises of the day were the prettiest of all. At a given signal all the girls came running to the bandstand, their handkerchiefs waving and each group shouting the number of the school at the tops of their shrill young voices. Then while the handkerchiefs still waved the band struck up the "Star Spangled Banner," and all the children sang. Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie joining in, the former with his soft hat off, and keeping time with it.

There are now 20,000 children in the girls' branch of the Public School Athletic League, and 200 teachers. Miss Elizabeth Burchenal and her assistant, Miss O'Keefe, train the teachers, who in turn instruct the children. The big annual May fête is not only to please the children but to give the people an idea of the benefit these exercises are doing for the girls, building them up mentally, morally, and physically. The officers and Directors of the branch, prominent women interested in educational effort, work very hard to keep the exercises up to a high standard and to enlarge the field. There were 8,000 children in the park games yesterday, and a year ago there were only 5,000 girls. Some of the girls last year from the lower east side of the city had never seen green grass before. This year they renewed their experience. The league is not under the Board of Education, though Supt. Maxwell encourages it, and Mrs. Egerton L. Winthrop, Jr., wife of the President of the board, is Vice President of the girls' branch. Money for its support has to be raised from friends. There must be $2,000 raised by the end of the school year for the expenses of this year's work, and $700 of it is already promised by four different friends of the work on condition that the remainder is raised.

There were fourteen numbers on the programme yesterday. There were several Swedish numbers, including the oxdans, which is a favorite, a jolly Irish jig, which the girls gave with great vigor, a Russian dance interspersed with little shouts and winding up with a large one; a basket ball throw, shuttle, and pass ball relay, the ribbon dance, and next to the last the scattered fragments of rainbow seemed to turn into whirling balls as the forty-five May poles with their colored streamers were wound. The different schools had their respective yells, which they gave at intervals.

Mrs. Alfred Seton Post, President of the girls' branch of the league, was among the onlookers, who included also Miss Catherine S. Leverich, Miss Oliver Leventritt, Mrs. Charles M. Knox, Mrs. Frank Ritz, and Miss Estelle Whitfield, Mrs. Carnegie's sister.

Ice Rink on Victoria Roof in Fall.

Following the Summer season of Hammerstein's roof garden, which will begin on June 5 and close on Sept. 2, the roofs of the Victoria and Republic Theatres will be converted into an ice-skating rink by a Chicago firm. The skating surface, with refrigeration pipes, will be installed on the Victoria roof, and the roof of the Republic will be used for spectators. Patrons of the Victoria Theatre will have free access to the rink.

HOTEL CHAIN HERE FOR RITZ-CARLTON CO.

MAY HAVE A BERMUDA HOUSE

A Hundred Rooms to be Added to the Madison Avenue Hostelry—Atlantic City, Pittsburg, Montreal Buildings.

William Harris, Chairman of the Ritz-Carlton Hotels Company, returned yesterday on the Mauretania to settle the plans for the projected hotels at Atlantic City and Philadelphia and the extension of the Ritz-Carlton at Forty-sixth Street and Madison Avenue. To a TIMES reporter he said that work would be begun at once on the extension to the Ritz-Carlton.

"We shall add 100 rooms," said Mr. Harris, "and a banquet hall to seat 300 guests, a ballroom, 80 feet by 60 feet, and small private dining rooms, which will all be on the Forty-sixth Street side.

"As soon as the plans are passed, work will be started on the proposed new hotel in Atlantic City to be erected on the site of the old Windsor Hotel recently purchased by George Widener. It will have 400 rooms and be on the same lines as the other hotels belonging to the company.

"Work has been making rapid progress on the alterations and redecoration of the Hotel Shenley in Pittsburg, and I hope that it will be completed by June 7.

"Directly the plans for the new hotel in Philadelphia are approved excavation will be begun. This will be a small house with sixty or seventy rooms, ballroom, banquet room, and restaurant. Work has already been begun on the excavations for the foundations of the hotel to be erected in Sherbrook Street, Montreal."

"Will the Ritz-Carlton Company extend its chain of hotels to the Western cities?" Mr. Harris was asked.

"That I cannot answer except to say that we have enough work to go on with for the present," was the reply. "We are considering the building of a large hotel in Bermuda, but I cannot say anything more definite, as the matter is still in an embryo state. We have had an offer of a site."

With regard to the arrangements for the coronation in London Mr. Harris said that the rooms in the Ritz and Carlton hotels had all been reserved for June, but there would be plenty of room in London for all the strangers who went there to see the pageant.

"The hotels along the route of the procession will increase their prices, but there will be plenty of hotels and boarding houses in all parts of London, including Bloomsbury, where visitors can be accommodated at moderate prices," he said.

Mr. Harris will remain here for six or seven weeks and will not be in London for the coronation. He intends to go to Bermuda and examine the hotel site offered to his company if he has time, but may have to defer this trip till Fall.

Benson Lang to Whom It Was Entrusted a Year Ago Is on Trial.

Benson Lang, 18 years old, was put on trial before Justice McCall and a jury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court yesterday, charged with grand larceny in the first degree.

Lang was a messenger for the brokerage house of Hornblower & Weeks, and on Feb. 4, 1910, was intrusted with a ten thousand dollar banknote to deposit in the National City Bank. He reported the next day that he had lost the money. No trace of it has since been discovered.

He testified yesterday on the stand that he suffered a fainting spell on that day, accompanied by loss of memory, and wandered in Central Park all night. On cross-examination Lang admitted that he was a distance runner, who had entered road races, and that he had run around Central Park in thirty-five minutes. The trial will continue to-day.

HURT IN CATSKILL BLAST.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 19.—Four men were seriously injured when a dynamite blast prematurely exploded in the Catskill Aqueduct, near Elmsford to-day. The men were setting off a blast and as the fuse burned slowly they approached to see why the blast did not go off.

Before they reached the spot the dynamite exploded, throwing rocks in all directions. Patrick Callaghan, the foreman, had his right arm blown off. Nicholas Macey, Joseph Magill, and Joseph Puzirrio were the other laborers who were injured.

Macey was thrown about twenty feet in the air, but was not dangerously injured.

MANAGER WOODS HAS PLAYS FROM EUROPE

Marguerite Sylva to be the Star in "Gypsy Love," by Franz Lehar.

OTHER COMEDIES AND FARCES

Julian Eltinge and Eddie Foy Will Open Their Seasons on Labor Day—Blanche Walsh in a New Play.

A. H. Woods, the theatrical manager, returned from Europe on the Mauretania yesterday, with many new theatrical offerings for next season. He has been abroad for seven weeks, and has contracted for the American rights to a number of European successes, which he intends to produce here next season.

Among the first of his foreign pieces to be given will be "Gypsy Love," by Franz Lehar and Dr. Wilner, in which Marguerite Sylva will be starred. This will open in Philadelphia, and will come to the Globe Theatre in New York on Oct. 30, after a run in Boston.

Other productions from Europe will include "Tantalizing Tommy," by Michael Morton and Hugo Felix; "Modest Suzanne," a Vienna musical comedy by Jean Gilbert; "The Pretty Little Milliner," a musical farce from Berlin; "Dame Nature," a drama by Henri Bartelille; "The Antelope," a play by Hugo Felix, and "Miss Dudelsack," by Greenbaum and Reichert, with music by Rudolph Nelson.

As for his American productions, Julian Eltinge will open in "The Fascinating Widow" at the New Amsterdam Theatre on Labor Day, and on the same date Eddie Foy will appear in a new musical comedy in Chicago, at the Olympic, and Dustin and William Farnum in "The Littlest Rebel" at the Chicago Opera House. On Oct. 15 Blanche Walsh will open in a new play at Trenton, N. J. In conjunction with Frazee and Lederer, Mr. Woods will have three "Madame Sherry" companies on the road, and two companies of his own in "The Girl in the Taxi."

Among his new plays will be "The Greyhound," by Paul Armstrong and Wilson Mizner; "Slumming," a musical extravaganza; "The Pet of the Petticoats," a musical comedy, and "The Prosecuting Attorney," by Otto Hauerbach.

FRIARS' AUCTION GETS $7,600.

George M. Cohan and Marcus Loew Pay $1,000 for a Box for Frolic.

An auction sale of boxes and seats for the coming Friars' Club Frolic was held at George M. Cohan's Theatre yesterday afternoon, and about $7,600 over the regular price of seats was bid for the privilege of selecting locations. The frolic is to take place at the New Amsterdam Theatre on Sunday evening, May 28, and is to be the beginning of a tour of the Friars.

At yesterday's sale George M. Cohan, William Collier, and Charles J. Ross were the principal auctioneers, Mr. Cohan having the first try at bringing large bids from people in the audience. The first box sold went to the auctioneer and Marcus Loew, who took it jointly, and paid $1,000 in premiums. Mr. Loew had his $150, when Mr. Cohan dared him to make it one-half of a thousand, and the vaudeville manager did not "take the dare."

The second box went to William Collier for $175, the third to Walter Moore, for $100, and the fourth, the last of the first tier boxes, to Sam Harris, for $75. Then Mr. Collier took the auctioneer's place, and succeeded in persuading $150 from Eddie Dunn, $50 from a representative of Adelaide Thurston, $35 from Harry Frazee, and $75 from himself and George M. Cohan for the remaining boxes. The first choice of orchestra seats was taken by "Diamond Jim" Brady, who bid $500 for nine in the front row. Other orchestra chairs ranged from $10 to $6 premium, and before the bidding was over a large portion of the lower floor seats had been disposed of.

BURIAL OF CAIN'S VICTIMS.

Surrell's Funeral To-day and Hall's To-morrow—Slayer in Bellevue.

The funeral of Saxson Surrell, one of the victims of John Cain, the mulatto ex-convict, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from Calvary Baptist Church. Surrell was a single man, 34 years old, and boarded at 53 West 106th Street. He was a clerk with the Singer Sewing Machine Company. Two of his brothers, who live in Orange, N. J., made arrangements yesterday for the funeral and burial in Old Hook Cemetery, Westwood, N. J. His parents are at present living in France.

The columns at the entrance of the branch Post Office at Columbus Avenue and 106th Street were draped with black and white yesterday in honor of John Hall, the Assistant Superintendent of this station, Cain's other victim. The employes will attend his funeral to-morrow. Hall had worked in the postal service for fifteen years, and in this branch for three years. He lived at 227 Shippen Street, Hoboken. He was married and had children.

Cain was removed yesterday from the Harlem Hospital to Bellevue Hospital, where it was said his condition was about the same. It is still expected that he will recover.

SIX MONTHS FOR CELLA.

First Person to be Convicted Lately on Finger-Print Evidence.

Caesar J. Cella, alias Charles Crispi, the first man to be convicted on finger print evidence alone, was sentenced to six months in the Penitentiary by Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions yesterday.

Cella broke into and robbed the place of M. M. Bernstein & Co., 173 Wooster Street, on Feb. 28 last, and the only evidence against him was four finger marks on a pane of glass he had removed from a door to the loft.

After standing trial for several days Cella confessed his guilt.

ELLIOTT DERANGED.

Man Who Charged Erectors and Burns with Dynamiting Goes to Asylum.

PITTSBURG, Penn., May 19.—James Elliott, who last night made an alleged confession in which he charged that officers of the National Erectors' Association and Detective Burns were implicated in the wrecking of buildings throughout the country, constructed by non-union labor, was to-day found to be mentally deranged.

He was sent to the Allegheny County Home at Marshalsea.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The 150th performance of "The Deep Purple" in New York was given at Maxine Elliott's Theatre last night. The present season will end to-night, but the play will reopen in town in the early Fall.

Rida Johnson Young's new comedy, "Next," in which Helen Lowell will be featured, will open at the Hyperion Theatre, New Haven, to-night, and will go to Chicago for a run, beginning Tuesday.

Gustav von Seiffertitz, the stage director, who staged "Chantecler" for Charles Frohman, will sail for England to-day to visit London, Paris, and V

The Giants traveled over a rough road yesterday on the Hilltop before they beat the Pirates, 4 to 3, and had to scrap for all they were worth in a teeming, upgrade game, surmounting big odds and obstacles with lots of grit and vigor. The pirate crew battled with a never-say-die spirit, and in the heat of the tussle crippled two New York players and sent them to the emergency doctor. Josh Devore was spiked in the left leg in the first inning when he slid under Gibson at the plate with the Giants' first run. His leg was badly torn by the teeth of steel, and he limped to the clubhouse. In his right field pasture Beals Becker was substituted.

Becker doesn't get a chance to show what he can do very often. The rosiest opportunity he has ever had since joining the Giant troupe came yesterday, and he proved to be little Mr. Fixit from the time he went into the fray. Becker and his trusty length of batting furniture were the biggest factor in the Pirates' downfall. In the fifth inning a lusty slam to right field drove in the run which tied the score, and in the seventh inning he jammed another ripper to the same part of the map, and sent Arthur Devlin galloping home with the victory.

The other calamity was a serious injury to Wiltse, whose flinging hand was lacerated by a steaming line drive from Main Pirate Clarke's bat in the seventh inning. With his hand cut and bleeding, Wiltse picked up the ball after knocking down the shoot and threw Clarke out at first base. Wiltse's misfortune gave Raymond the chance of his life to show the best that is in him, and "Bugs" measured up to the job, every inch of him. Twice Raymond's pitching prowess was put to a hard test. Once in the seventh inning with Leach on third base, and Wagner at the bat, a Pirate run and victory seemed a certainty. Raymond buckled down to his task and fanned the Teuton. Again in the eighth inning, with two Pirates on the bases and two down, Jack Flynn, who can clout them far, was rushed in as a pinch hitter. Raymond worked the corners of the platter skillfully, and Flynn was called out on strikes without even swinging at the ball.

The contest scintillated with brilliant bits of fielding. In the field both teams were alert and uncorked packages of spectacular plays which marked the game as one of the most dazzling of the season's entertainments. The two short stops, Bridwell and Wagner, made heroic stops followed by swift relays, tossing the ball from impossible angles to cut down runners at the third corner. Larry Doyle was both good and bad, and Devlin never batted an eye when the Pirates drove scorching sizzlers at him.

New York was away with a rush in the first inning. Devore introduced himself to Steele with a single to right field, and he went to third on Doyle's rap to the same spot. Snodgrass laid a short grounder in front of Steele, and he threw him out at first base. Devore started for home with the swing of the pitcher's arm, and although Hunter relayed the ball to Gibson Joshua slid under the catcher and was safe. He was chewed by Gibson's spikes in the leap and retired from the game. Murray's single to left sent Doyle home with a second run.

Wiltse started well, and at no time while he was identified with the battling did the Pirates show undue familiarity with his service. Miller was laid aside in the second inning on strikes, and Hunter hit to centre for two bases, the fly going high over the roof of Snodgrass. Wilson sent another to centre which Snodgrass didn't make a very good job of, Wilson getting to second and Hunter to third. Gibson shot a grounder between third base and short. Bridwell made a fine running stop and while tied up in a knot tossed the ball to Devlin and cut down Wilson going into third. Hunter scored on the play.

The Giants squeezed out of a troublesome hole in the third inning. Byrne fell victim to Wiltse's skill, and Leach sent a hit through second which Doyle stopped niftily. Wagner then grounded to Doyle. Larry had a beautiful chance for a double play. He was glued to the spot for several seconds and had a little argument with himself whether he should throw to first or second base. He chose first and threw the ball along the ground. Wagner forced Leach at third, after Bridwell had made an almost impossible stop and throw to Devlin. Miller flied to Merkle and ended the quaky inning.

The Pirates jumped to the front in the fifth inning. Byrne singled and Leach grassed to Wiltse. Wiltse threw to Bridwell to force Byrne, but the Giant shortstop was nowhere near the base and all hands were safe. Chief Pirate Clarke then clouted a long hit to the centre field boundary for three bases, scoring Byrne and Leach. Clarke himself was forced out at the plate when Wagner grounded to Bridwell. In the same inning New York tied the score. Devlin bounced a hot roller off Hunter's shoes and took second on the rap. Meyers forced him when he tried to get to third base after the Indian hit to Wagner. The German made an eighteen-foot reach for the ball and speared it with his bare hand. Wiltse was an easy out at first and then Becker began to shine by driving Meyers home.

New York won the game in the lucky yawh inning. Devlin was safe when Wagner pulled Hunter off first with a wide throw. Meyers fouled to Gibson and Raymond, on his first time up, singled to left. Becker drove the ball on a swift ride to right and sent Devlin home with the joy tally.

Umpire Eason behind the bat was in hot water much of the time. Bridwell was provoked in the sixth inning and threw his bat into the air after a decision. He was promptly ejected to the outer fence. Raymond held the pirates safe after Wiltse was injured in the seventh inning. The eighth inning looked dangerous until "Bugs" bravely mowed down Pinch-hitter Flynn.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 19.—Bert Shotten's poor work probably cost a game for Joe Lake to-day. The final score was 10 to 6 in favor of New York, the Yankees making nine runs in the eighth and ninth innings. Four were scored by the New Yorkers after Bill Bailey had relieved Lake in the eighth inning. But for Shotten's error in the eighth inning the chances are that the game would have ended 6 to 3 in favor of the Browns.

For seven innings the Browns played brilliant ball behind Lake, who pitched himself out of several bad holes and looked like a sure winner. Hartzell started the eighth with a single to right field, Cree flied out to Shotten, then Charlie Hemphill, batting for Knight, smashed the ball to the right field fence for two bags, sending Hartzell to third. Gardner singled to centre, scoring Hartzell and Hemphill. Johnson then beat out a slow roller toward first base, and with two men on Sweeney soaked the first ball in the seam. It was a clean single in any man's league, but Shotten played ping pong with the ball, and it bounced through his legs and rolled on.

Shotten then turned and chased the sphere to the wall, but with all his speed he failed to get it back to the infield until Sweeney had circled the diamond, sending two men home ahead of himself and tying the score for New York, 6 to 6.

Shotten's error took all the starch out of the St. Louis team. Brockett followed Sweeney at the bat and tapped to Laporte. Myers muffed the throw. Then Daniels rolled to Wallace, who booted the ball. At this stage of the proceedings Manager Wallace took Lake out. Bailey was sent in to check the Yanks. Instead of holding them down, he proceeded to hand them the game. He started off in grand style, fanning Wolter, a left-handed sticker. Hartzell, another left hander, followed Wolter at the plate, and the natives figured Bailey would take his measure, but the Yanks scored four times with him in the box.

Laporte scored in the second inning. He got on by clouting a single to centre. While Quinn was sticking the third strike over on Hogan, Laporte hiked for second base. Johnson and Gardner got their signals crossed and Sweeney's throw sailed out to centre field, Laporte going to third. From this station it was easy for him to score on Stephen's single to centre. The seventh exhibition of the hit and run by Austin and Shotten netted the Browns their second run in the third. Shotten got on by punching a single to centre, then stole second and crossed the tallying station on Austin's drive to right field. It looked like the Browns would get to Quinn and knock him off the mound in this round. Laporte laid against the ball hard and smashed a wicked hopper over short. Johnson mitted it in time to pull off a double play and stop the rally.

Luck Breaks Badly for Champions.

DETROIT, Mich., May 19.—Luck broke badly for Philadelphia to-day, and Detroit won a slugging match, 9 to 8. Stanage's home run in the eighth inning won the game. Lively was hit on the head by a batted ball in the second inning and was forced to retire after pitching the third inning. Coombs, prostrated by the heat in the first inning, was relieved by Russell, who allowed seven hits. Score:

PHILADELPHIA,

NAETHING CAPTURES N. Y. A. C. GOLF TITLE

Winner Also in Gross and Net Scores Ties in Open Handicap at Fox Hills.

John Naething of Englewood won the first annual golf tournament for members of the New York Athletic Club over the Fox Hills links yesterday. In the final round match Naething defeated Ralph Carroll of Greenwich by 2 up. The winner also got into gross and net score ties in the open handicap.

When the survivors resumed play in the morning Naething took on J. A. Janin, the Richmond County man who in 1899 and 1900 won the Staten Island championship. This proved to be Naething's hardest match, and despite the fact that Janin frequently got into trouble he managed to carry the struggle to the home green.

In the meantime Carroll and the veteran James D. Foot were having it out on the other side of the draw. Foot did not get going until too late, so that Carroll, who was playing only fair golf, managed to end matters on the seventeenth green.

Careless playing at critical stages practically cost Carroll the match with Naething. A case in point was at the tenth hole, where he had two strokes for a win with his ball lying a club's length from the cup. Putting quickly, Carroll knocked his opponent's ball into the hole so that a half in 5 resulted. More weak putting cost the Greenwich champion the fourteenth and sixteenth holes. That placed Naething in the comfortable position of dormie 2, and although he lost the seventeenth he settled all doubts with a fine 3 on the last green. He made the round in 78 to Carroll's 80. The summary:

First Sixteen.—Semi-Final Round—Ralph Carroll, Greenwich, beat James D. Foot, Apawamis, 6 up and 1 to play; John Naething, Englewood, beat J. A. Janin, Richmond County, 1 up.

Final Round—Naething beat Carroll, 2 up.

Beaten Eight, First Sixteen.—Final Round—M. J. Condon, Wykagyl, beat Theodore Cassebeer, Oakland, 2 up and 1 to play.

Second Sixteen.—Semi-Final Round—P. A. Proal, Rumson, beat H. H. Bottome, Baltusrol, 4 up and 2 to play; J. H. Bell, Wykagyl, beat Dr. George D. Hamlin, Englewood, 3 up and 1 to play.

Final Round—Proal beat Bell, 2 up and 1 to play.

Beaten Eight, Second Sixteen.—Final Round—Robert Collier, Dunwoodie, beat C. A. Spofford, Apawamis, 7 up and 5 to play.

Third Sixteen, Semi-Final Round.—J. G. Batterson, Fox Hills, beat John S. McAleenan, Fox Hills, 7 up and 5 to play; W. R. Delehanty, Deal, beat J. E. Faber, Richmond County, 2 up and 1 to play.

Final Round—Batterson beat Delehanty, 2 up and 1 to play.

Beaten Eight, Third Sixteen.—Final Round—P. E. Smith, Ridgewood, beat C. J. McKenna, Woodmere, 2 up and 1 to play.

Fourth Division, Semi-Final Round—J. M. Savage, Fox Hills, beat R. H. Landale, Oakland, 2 up; H. L. Brown, Wyantenuck, beat R. A. Sasseen, Fox Hills, 1 up, (20 holes.)

Final Round—Brown beat Savage, 1 up.

MISS CAMPBELL CHAMPION.

American Girl Wins Woman's Golf Title of Great Britain.

PORTRUSH, Ireland, May 19.—Miss Dorothy Campbell, champion of the United States and Canada, won the woman's golf championship of Great Britain today by defeating Miss Violet Hezlet, the Irish champion, in the final by 3 up and 2 to play.

Miss Campbell defeated Mrs. T. W. Bourn of the Tyneside Club, 2 up and 1 to play in the semi-finals in the morning. In the other semi-final match Miss Hezlet beat Miss Mather of Tyneside Club, 2 up and 1 to play.

Miss Campbell's superior long game won her the final match. She outdrove Miss Hezlet all the time. The champions were all square at the turn, but Miss Hezlet lost the tenth and eleventh holes, became 3 down at the fourteenth, and was unable to retrieve her position.

Miss Campbell, who represented the Hamilton (Ontario) Ladies' Golf Club, played a splendidly consistent game throughout the tournament, in which were 114 entries, comprising the flower of English, Irish, and Scottish women golfers. Because of the new and mediocre form of golf which she showed in the matches preceding the championship play experts at first did not favor the American's chances of recapturing the British title, which she previously held in 1909. Miss Campbell's almost faultless play, however, established her as a prime favorite after she had won the fourth round.

Mrs. Fox Wins Golf Title Again.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—For the second year in succession Mrs. Caleb F. Fox of the Huntingdon Valley Country Club won the women's individual golf championship of Philadelphia to-day by defeating Mrs. R. H. Barlow of the Merion Cricket Club on the course of the Merion Club, 3 up and 2 to play.

Navy Crews in Schuylkill Regatta.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 19.—For the first time in the history of the big rowing classic at Philadelphia, Navy is to be represented in the Schuylkill regatta this year. Two crews from the Midshipmen squad will row in the events on the Schuylkill River on Saturday, May 27. The necessary authority has been granted by the officials for the departure from the academy of the second eight, which will contest in the junior events, and the plebe or fourth class crew, which will go in the freshmen contest. The rowing season will close here to-morrow, the first eight rowing against Syracuse and the four against the Severn Boat Club of Annapolis.

Bulldog Breeders to Show.

The second annual specialty show of the Bulldog Breeders' Association of America will be held this afternoon at the Murray Hill Lyceum, Thirty-fourth Street, near Third Avenue. Nearly 150 specials will be awarded in addition to the regular awards of the association, among the specials are the Hewlett Kennel Challenge Bowl, the Chinchaun Young Jack Memorial Trophy, the Rockcliffe Challenge Cup, the Windsor Club Trophy, the Treasurer's Cup, the Robinswood Trophy, and Dundee Trophy. The judge will be A. A. Lees of Hamilton, Canada. The Bench Show Committee consists of Abram D. Gillette, Thomas Grisdale, J. W. Minturn, J. Cooper Mott, Walter Murray, and C. R. Wood.

Pfizer's Marmara Wins in France.

MAISONS-LAFITTE, France, May 19.—Eugene Pfizer's Marmara won the Prix de la Fretts, which was run here to-day. In the Prix de Saldichoury W. K. Vanderbilt's Mirador III. finished second.

CUP DEFENDERS' TEST.

Meadow Brook Polo ists Score Fifteen Goals on Picked Team.

Indicative of the exceeding cleverness and perfect cohesion with which the Meadow Brook champion polo ists operate, regardless of the strength of any team brought against them, yesterday's galloping game on the international field may be quoted. Whether riding their own or borrowed ponies, their form does not seem to deviate a particle from the high standard they have set, and the overwhelming victory they achieved, notwithstanding they had L. E. Stoddard, Rene La Montagne, Foxhall P. Keene, and Rudolph Agassiz arrayed against them, covers a registry of no less than fifteen goals at the rate of two or three to a period, which trounced the Freebooters "good and proper," leaving them with gross earnings of only two goals for the day.

When Lieut. Palmes, the referee, got through with his idea of the situation, he inflicted fines to the tune of three and a half goals for fouls or crossing other players, so that their grand total was just one-half. This speaks volumes for the champions in light blue, and it goes to prove that even veterans are no longer in their class.

There can be no doubt that the "country's safe" in their hands, and it is patent to the cognoscenti that the British challengers must pile right in with additional curves and goal-shots, if they are going to carry away the great cup.

Devereaux Milburn positively distinguished himself in this game, and held his strong and clean right up to the end of the third period, only letting Stoddard fly past him once in the fourth. He counteracted the charges of Agassiz and La Montagne so effectively that only the latter could record a goal in the fifth period. It took the watch holder all his time to get enough scores to enable him to deduct the penalties.

Mr. Keene was not playing up to anything like his old form, but he fought for every inch of the green, and might have achieved more had he played in second position. Rene La Montagne had that place, however, and did not appear to be keyed up as high as we have seen him heretofore. His injured arm may still be bothering him. Mr. Agassiz, the old Boston man, was enthusiastic as ever, but not on edge. He has given the "big 4" many a race before now, and he tried himself out with them two or three times, but grew a little reckless and crossed right in front of the whole opposing team on one occasion.

Mr. Whitney was in fine trim at the start, but on going in for the second chukker he had the misfortune to be struck with a ball. The crowd waited for him about three minutes, when he plunged into the sport again as frisky as ever. America certainly can't afford to lose the Captain who is the soul of the international challenge outfit, and it is pleasing to note that the rap he received did him no apparent damage.

In the game under notice the signals of the Waterbury brothers came thick and fast, and their combination play only needed stiffer opposition to bring it out in more brilliant quality. Between them they accounted for eight goals, and they got pretty nearly everything they started for. Mr. Milburn came through and scored four times, while Mr. Whitney was successful in working the ball right through his colleagues and opponents, scoring on two occasions. A pony helped increase the score by one goal, which he kicked in. It was an educational game to watch, and the English polo players were on hand for this express purpose. Capt. Percy Creed of The London Times is reported to have been an interested spectator on the side lines. It being understood that he landed in New York from the Lusitania. The summary and score:

MEADOW BROOK.	FREEBOOTERS.
L. Waterbury,	L. E. Stoddard,
J. M. Waterbury,	Rene La Montagne,
H. P. Whitney,	Foxhall P. Keene,
Devereaux Milburn.	R. L. Agassiz

Referees—Lieut. Palmes. Goals—D. Milburn, 4; J. M. Waterbury, 3; L. Waterbury, 5; H. P. Whitney, 2; Pony, 1. Total, 15. Stoddard, 1. R. La Montagne, 1; lost by penalties, 1½. Total, ½ goal.

The English officers play at Cedarhurst to-day, at 4:30 P. M. against a strong picked team.

BARNARD FRESHMEN WIN.

Show Swimming Skill in Events in Thompson Gymnasium Pool.

Barnard College freshmen carried off the natatorial honors yesterday in the swimming tank of Thompson gymnasium, with a point total of 17. The seniors were compelled to be content with 10, while the sophs accumulated 9. An enthusiastic crowd witnessed the events, which were viewed from the gallery overlooking the pool.

From the opening event the freshmen showed their superiority. They began operations by winning the relay with a team composed of Eleanor Hadsell, Louise Fox, Margaret Brittain, and Sophie Andrews, who were, however, closely pressed by the sophomore quartet, made up of Dorothy Cheeseman, Priscilla Lockwood, Naomi Harris, and Varian White. The senior team, Amy Weil, Mildred Du Bois, Olga Ihlsing, and Marion Obendorfer, made a gallant try, but could not quite get up.

Eleanor Hadsell won the dash of twenty yards in the fast time of 0:13. This proved another win for the freshmen, as Amy Weil, '11, finished second and Margaret Brittain, '14, third. Miss Hadsell supplemented this victory with another in the swimming on the back event, in which Amy Weil was second and Naomi Harris third.

Dorothy Cheeseman, '13, was awarded first honors in the fancy diving event, which included tests at high, low, plain, and fancy diving. She easily outclassed the other contestants in her various stunts. Olga Ihlsing was second and Sophie Andrews third.

DARTMOUTH MEN LEAD.

Hillman's Team Qualifies 16 Athletes in New England Trials.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 19.—The five-year grip that Dartmouth has acquired on the second championship cup of the New England Intercollegiate Athletic Association was in no wise shaken as the result of the trial events at the twenty-fifth meeting of the association here to-day, and with sixteen representatives qualified for the finals to-morrow, the chances for permanent possession of the trophy by the Hanoverians looked rosy to-night. The Dartmouth team is coached by Harry Hillman of New York.

The teams from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Williams, with ten men each for the finals, might threaten Dartmouth to-morrow if it were not for the fact that these two teams are badly bunched in single events.

Big Brothers' Boys' Games.

The annual athletic games for the boys of the Big Brother Movement were held last night in the gymnasium of the West Side Y. M. C. A., West Fifty-seventh Street. All the competitors ranged from 10 to 15 years of age. The programme consisted of short sprints, potato and obstacle races, a relay race, and a basket ball game. During the evening the champion gymnastic team of the West Side Y. M. C. A. gave an exhibition drill.

Columbia's "Prep" School Day.

One of the largest preparatory school meets that has ever been held in this city will be run off by Columbia University on South Field this afternoon. Over 825 entries have been received and all of the different events will be well represented. The affair is being handled by T. MacKenzie, '11, and A. H. Smith, '12, manager and assistant manager respectively of the Columbia track team, assisted by a large committee, and nothing which will add to the entertainment of the boys in their stay at the university has been overlooked.

Dalton Navy's Track Captain.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 19.—The members of the Naval Academy field and track team have selected John Patrick Dalton of Missouri to be captain for next season. He is also captain of the football team. He holds the academy record for both low and high hurdles.

Colgate Wins Track Carnival.

HAMILTON, N. Y., May 19.—Colgate won the track meet to-day from Bucknell by the big score of 90 to 22. The track was heavy and no track records were made. A. P. Stipp of Scranton broke his record of last week in the shot put with an even 43 feet.

Illinois Athletes Win.

URBANA, Ill., May 19.—The University of Illinois defeated the University of Wisconsin in a dual track meet here to-day. Final points: Illinois, 60; Wisconsin, 57.

AVIATORS IN SESSION.

National Council to Act on Agreement with Aero Club.

The future relations between the Aero Club of America and the National Council of the Aero Clubs of America depends upon the action of the members of the Executive Committee of the National Council, who will hold a special meeting to-day to take action on the refusal of the Aero Club of America to ratify the modified agreement between the two organizations.

Chairman Robert J. Collier will preside at the meeting, and a full attendance of the committee is expected, as adverse action may result in the disruption of the council. The Aero Club will ratify the agreement if a clause is inserted giving the Aero Club the right to approve all members of the council. This is for the purpose of excluding undesirable organizations and recognizing the leading position of the Aero Club of America in aviation circles in the United States.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks React—Trading Reduced—Call Money Rates, 2¼@2⅜ Per Cent.

GAIN IN CASH INDICATED

Receipts from Interior Exceed Shipments—Further Improvement Noted in Retail Trade.

Trading on the Stock Exchange yesterday fell off considerably, the total being reduced to about half the volume of transactions last Tuesday, when the Stock Exchange was awakened from its lethargy by the decision in the Standard Oil case. Stocks yesterday, at the higher level to which they had advanced during the preceding three days, were under sufficient pressure to result in most cases in fractional net losses, but set up against the recent gains the day's reaction was altogether moderate. A few of the active issues showed net gains at the close, but these were not numerous enough to modify materially the general reactionary character of the market, particularly during the closing hours of the session. The movement in prices early in the day was irregular, but as the session advanced the reaction became more general. An incident of the trading which recalled the dealings during the recent period of dullness was declines, greater than the average, in American Agricultural Chemical, American Cotton Oil, and Virginia-Carolina Chemical, all of which some time back had been under greater selling pressure than most other stocks in the list.

A continuance of the improvement in retail trade recently noted by the commercial agencies was a feature of yesterday's summaries of trade conditions and a more cheerful sentiment was also recorded in some wholesale lines. This expansion in trade, while it has not yet gone very far, is one of the hopeful indications which are being supplied by current events. Although yesterday's trade comments on the general crop situation laid emphasis on the need of more rain in some of the wheat-growing States the general tenor of crop advices was favorable, and these found reflection in a small decline in the wheat market. On the Cotton Exchange, after a further advance had been recorded in the old crop options, notably May and July, a reaction occurred which reduced the gain in the old crop months and brought the later months well under Tuesday's closing prices. Rain, where it was needed in the cotton belt, and a continuance of warm weather in the other cotton States were helpful in shaping the market to this course.

Much interest will attach to to-day's bank statement because of the indications which it will give of the extent to which the loans of the banks here may have been increased by the expansion in Stock Exchange activity. The higher rates for time loans, which have been an incident of the week's transactions in securities, suggests a substantial increase in the aggregate loan account. Money rates for the most part were maintained yesterday at the level established the previous day, although there was somewhat less active bidding for six months' funds, while the rates for periods longer than that suggested that most of the borrowing was being done for the over-the-year period. The usual estimates of currency movements indicated a gain by the banks of from $2,500,000 to $4,500,000, according to the varying estimates of the net gain on the interior movement. If the higher of yesterday's estimates of the banks' cash gain are borne out in to-day's statement it would be sufficient to offset a substantial increase in loans so far as the influence of that item on the surplus reserve is concerned.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

New York Still Gains Cash.

The indications yesterday were that the banks had gained a substantial amount of cash since the close of last week. Some of the day's summaries of the currency movement indicated that about as much had been received by the New York banks from the interior as a week ago, while the shipments out of New York showed a considerable reduction. It was the Middle Western States which made most of the demand upon the New York banks for cash, while the South and points near this city sent cash to New York. In their transactions with the Sub-Treasury the banks lost less than $1,000,000, which was just about offset by the receipts of new gold, leaving the banks the full benefit of the estimated net gain from the interior.

Demand for Short Term Notes.

Another instance of the presence of unusually large sums of idle money waiting for a settlement of uncertain conditions before it is put into long term investments was seen in the quick absorption of an issue of $2,250,000 St. Louis & San Francisco two-year 5 per cent. notes, which were put out by the railroad to refund $2,000,000 of notes called for payment on May 31. The new issue was offered by F. S. Moseley & Co. in Boston at a price to yield 5½ per cent., and was all subscribed for by local institutions. The notes were sold in large blocks, and so few of them reached the trading market that no quotation on them was to be had in New York. The notes are secured by the deposit of $2,700,000 'Frisco certificates for Chicago & Eastern Illinois common stock, and $1,490,000 certificates for Kansas City, Fort Scott & Memphis preferred.

M. K. T. Bonds Authorized.

After denying last week an application of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas for permission to issue $107,000,000 bonds, on the ground that the application did not set forth the purposes of the issue in sufficiently explicit terms, the State Railway Board of Kansas has granted the company permission to issue $24,000,000, on the condition that $5,000,000 of the proceeds be used for betterments to the road in that State. It was suggested that the company had no plans for spending that amount in Kansas, but might technically comply with the commission's requirements by building $5,000,000 worth of locomotives there. It is said that the road has not made any arrangements for selling the bonds.

Slow Deliveries of City Bonds.

There seems to be nothing in the way of the continuance of Stock Exchange trading in the temporary receipts for the 4% per cent. city bonds which the Exchange has refused to list. The actual bonds are being turned over to the Controller's office at the rate of only about 1,000 pieces a day, and the capacity of the City Clerk's office for signing and sealing is, if anything, somewhat less. It is not expected that the entire $50,000,000 will be ready for delivery to the purchasers until well toward the end of the Summer. Then, unless the Exchange recedes from its position of refusing to recognize the bonds because they were printed by a company unrecognized by the Exchange, the transactions in this issue must be confined to the Curb and over-the-counter sales. Although the receipts bear interest, any idea Stock Exchange houses might have of holding on to the receipts rather than exchanging them for actual bonds, which are not a good delivery, will be defeated by the Controller's office, which will refuse to pay interest on the receipts after Sept. 1. When that date arrives, applications for interest will be met by tenders of the actual bonds, and only the coupons will thereafter carry interest.

Big Gain in Bank Clearings.

It is a long time since the aggregate bank clearings of the country have made a comparison with the preceding years equal to that shown this week in the figures compiled by Dun's Review. Where a month ago comparisons with 1910 showed declines ranging around 15 per cent. and over, as compared with 1910, and larger losses by comparison with 1909, this week's returns are an actual increase of 3.5 per cent. over the same week last year, and a loss of only 2.6 per cent. from 1909. The aggregate of $2,737,311,510 is due very largely to the increase at New York, which is 5.1 per cent. over the figures of last year. The gain here is, of course, due to the renewal of activity on the Stock Exchange.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 19.—Except for the unbidding of Lake Superior income bonds, there was little worthy of note on the Philadelphia Exchange to-day. On the whole the tone was irregular, with an inclination toward recession in the afternoon. Further falling off in activity was noticeable, this being particularly true of the volume of transactions in United States Steel. The trend was a trifle reactionary, due to profit taking on the recent rise and the realization that, although some increase in orders have resulted from the better outlook in general, the company is still operating at but a trifle more than 60 per cent. of capacity.

The market ended dull. Spanish pig lead is nearly unchanged at £18. Cleveland warrants were quoted at 46s 9d. Spelter was steady at £24 7s 6d.

MERGER IN SOUTH OF CITY RAILWAYS

New Company Formed to Take Over New Orleans, Birmingham, Knoxville and Other Lines.

CAPITAL TO BE $38,000,000

Properties Controlled by the American Cities Railway and Light Company in the Deal.

Consolidation of the New Orleans Railway & Light Company with a number of similar enterprises in other Southern cities owned by the American Cities Railway & Light Company has been planned through the organization of a $38,000,000, company, which is to acquire at least two-thirds of the preferred and common stocks of the New Orleans Railway & Light Company, and the stocks of these properties of the American Cities Railway & Light Company: Birmingham Railway, Light & Power Company, Memphis Street Railway Company, Little Rock Railway & Electric Company, Knoxville Electric Company, and Houston Lighting & Power Company.

Bertron, Griscom & Jenks announced yesterday that an agreement had been entered into between them and a number of large stockholders of the New Orleans Company in accordance with the plan. The new company is to issue in payment for the preferred stock of the New Orleans Railway & Light Company its 6 per cent. cumulative preferred stock and common stock at the rate of $83 1-3 par value of its preferred stock and $16 2-3 par value of its common stock for each share of preferred stock of the New Orleans Railway & Light Company, and at the rate of $35 par value of its said preferred stock and $25 par value of its common stock for each share of common stock of the New Orleans Railway & Light Company.

Should all of the stockholders of the New Orleans Company enter under the plan the new company will have outstanding $21,810,083 6 per cent. cumulative preferred stock, $16,643,416 common stock, and $10,000,000 eight-year collateral trust 5 per cent. bonds.

The preferred stock over the $15,333,333 issued for the acquisition of the New Orleans Company and the common stock over the $6,666,666 required for the same purpose will be used to acquire the subsidiaries of the American Cities Railway & Light Company, together with approximately $1,500,000 to be used by the new company for working capital. The agreement is to be declared effective within 45 days from May 15.

FINANCING MISSOURI PACIFIC.

Directors Expected to Authorize $25,000,000 Note Issue Next Week.

Missouri Pacific Directors are expected to take the first step toward financing the road next Tuesday by authorizing an issue of between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 of three-year 5 per cent. notes. The issue will be underwritten by Speyer & Co.

When arrangements were pending with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to take over the financial administration of the Missouri Pacific, it was understood that the bankers had tentative plans for letting the road's stockholders provide funds for improvement work. The company has $48,000,000 of unissued first and refunding bonds in its treasury, but the present plan is to hold these until the road's credit is better, and to provide for the next two year's needs by the sale of notes. The company plans to spend an average of $10,000,000 per annum for improvements, and the notes will provide for this and $5,000,000 of floating debt. The refunding bonds and other collateral will be put behind the notes.

QUARTERLY DIVIDEND PASSED

Kansas City Co. Explains That Earnings Are Undiminished.

The Kansas City Railway and Light Company has passed the quarterly dividend due at this period on its preferred stock. The last disbursement was 1¼ per cent. In explanation of the omission of the dividend due June 1 R. J. Dunham, Chairman of the board, says:

"The dividend has not been passed because of reduced earnings, but because the company wishes to use its surplus earnings over and above interest charges for other corporate purposes, constructions, improvements, &c. The surplus earnings for the ten months ended March 31, 1911, over and above taxes and interest, were $703,305.92, and this was after exceptionally large charges to operating expenses for maintenance exceeding by $207,000 the maintenance charges of the previous year."

MORE FOR CLEARING HOUSE.

Eighteen Trust Companies Have Now Applied for Membership.

Two additional trust companies were heard from yesterday as having applied or being about to apply to the Clearing House Association for admission, bringing the number which have so far signified their intetion of taking advantage of the change in the constitution up to eighteen. The Metropolitan Trust Company, which had at the time of the last call, $2,000,000 capitalization and aggregate deposits of $26,148,900, applied for admission yesterday. The Executive Committee of the Knickerbocker Trust Company unanimously recommended to the Board of Directors that the institution apply for membership, and it is expected that their action will be ratified at the next board meeting.

Chairman Nash of the Clearing House Committee returned yesterday from Chicago, where he has been looking into the system of the Clearing House examination of member banks in force in that centre. He has offered the position of Clearing House examiner under the newly adopted provision for Clearing House examinations here to J. B. MacDougal, who has been at the head of that department of the Chicago Clearing House. If Mr. MacDougal accepts the offer, he will choose his own assistants.

Weekly Failure Report.

Bradstreet's reports 285 business failures in the United States during the week, against 245 for the previous week and 225, 219, 284, and 165 for the corresponding weeks of 1910 to 1907. The Middle States had 82, New England, 22, Southern 44, Western 89, Northwestern 19, and Far West 29. Canada had 27, against 24 for the preceding week. About 85 per cent. of the total number of concerns failing had capital of $5,000, or less and 12 per cent. had from $5,000 to $20,000 capital.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, May 19.—Money and discount rates were firm to-day.

Trading was dull on the Stock Exchange. Profit taking in Mexican rails and American shares caused irregularity in the forenoon, but home rails and rubber stocks continued in good demand, and diamond shares hardened on Paris support. Consols lost an eighth in the early dealing, but recovered in the afternoon.

American securities moved irregularly during the forenoon. Canadian Pacific advanced 1½ points, but the rest of the list ranged a small fraction either side of parity. In the afternoon Missouri, Kansas & Texas, Rock Island, and Amalgamated Copper improved on New York buying, but the irregular movements continued in the other shares. The closing was steady.

Bar silver quiet, 24½d per ounce.

Money, 1½ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 2 3-16@2¼ per cent.; for three months' bills 2 3-16@2¼ per cent.

Gold premium at Madrid, 8; at Lisbon, 10.

Bullion amounting to £20,000 was taken into the Bank of England on balance to-day.

PARIS, May 19.—A heavy tone prevailed on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes 96f 7½c for the account.

Exchange on London 25f 81½c for checks.

BERLIN, May 19.—Prices were irregular on the Boerse to-day. American shares opened lower, but later Canadian Pacific became active and closed higher.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Henrr A. Blair is expected to reach Chicago to-morrow, and some definite information may be forthcoming regarding the progress in the elevated railroad merger. All of the principals are now in New York, where the negotiations have been carried on by Mr. Blair. Elevated shares and bonds were active and reflected the belief that the announcement of successful arrangements for financing the consolidation plan will be made shortly. Metropolitan Elevated preferred is in strong demand at an advance of more than 2 points, and the common shares have gone up fractionally. South Side Elevated shares gained another point. North Western bonds, the refunding of which must be done before September, and upon which the merger deal has appeared to hinge for some time past, are very strong. The preferred shares of the Kansas City Railway Company were offered down 15 points to-day, and the first sale being at 50, the break coming as a result of the passage of the dividend on stock, and the recent going rapidly to 45. The common was offered at 18, with no bids.

CONDITIONS OF TRADE.

Commenting on the business situation, Dun's Review says:

Two events of the week have an important influence upon the business situation, inasmuch as they remove much of the uncertainty which has served to retard enterprise and discourage activity. These events are the Supreme Court decision in one of the cases involving the status of big corporations under the anti-trust law, and the prospects of the restoration of peace in Mexico. For the first time in many weeks the reports from the leading trade centres are more buoyant in tone, though it would not appear that the actual gain in volume of transactions has been much, if any. This improvement in business sentiment appears in the reports from the iron and steel trade. It also appears to a limited degree in the textile markets, which report some improvement, notwithstanding the continued curtailment due largely to the high cost of production and the conservative purchases by consumers. It is noteworthy that the more seasonable weather stimulates a larger retail distribution, and the continued fine prospects for the crops have an encouraging effect upon the trade. Railroad earnings in the first week of May decreased 1.8 per cent. Bank clearings outside of New York this week gained 3.3 per cent. and 6.0 per cent. over the two preceding years; in New York there was a gain of 5.1 per cent. over 1910 and a loss of 6.5 per cent. from 1909. The improvement in the export trade, which has been one of the best features of the past few months, keeps up. At New York in the last week exports were $15,260,140, or only $1,112,753 less than the imports, while last year the excess of imports was $3,908,509, and in 1909 was $3,308,579.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—At the beginning of business to-day the condition of the United States Treasury was:

Working balance in Treasury offices, $22,648,586.

In banks and Philippine Treasury, $36,048,189.

The total balance in the general fund was $82,399,626.

Ordinary receipts yesterday were $2,210,169, with ordinary disbursements of $2,906,121.

The surplus to date this fiscal year is $230,172, as against a deficit of $16,418,444 at this time last year.

These figures excluded Panama Canal and public debt transactions.

STATE MAY REGULATE TRACKS IN 11TH AVE.

Court Denies Right of City to Disturb New York Central in Use of the Street.

MAY NOW END DISPUTE

Way Cleared for Settling So-Called "Death Avenue" Problem—Predicted That McClelland Bill Will Prevail.

Both sides in the long controversy which has centred about the New York Central's west side tracks counted themselves victors yesterday when a decision was handed down by the Court of Appeals, holding that the power of regulation and modification of the franchise held by the Central for Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth Avenues and West Street rests with the State, and that the city has no right in the matter.

New York Central officials were pleased because the decision settled in their favor that the Borough President of Manhattan may not fall upon their tracks with men and pickaxes and tear them up. The city officials were gratified because it was made clear that the railroad is not free from regulation, and may be restrained and controlled by the Government, the point that the State instead of the city government is to do the controlling being immaterial, according to representatives of the Corporation Counsel's office.

Both parties were agreed that the decision was as inclusive as could be desired; that it terminated a long warfare, which had raged incessantly since a protest was uttered against the laying of the Central's tracks in West Street in 1849; and that the way had been opened through the decision for settling finally the so-called "Death Avenue" problem.

The point in the decision which gave both sides their sense of victory on the main issue was that while the New York Central's right to use the streets under its franchise was found to be entirely valid and unassailable, still it was found that this right did not necessarily apply to the surface of the street, and that the State, by legislation, could compel either the elevation or sinking of the tracks to meet the needs of traffic and public safety.

It was held that a street car franchise gave undeniable right to the surface of the street, but that in the case of a steam railroad this did not apply, and the road would have to be put where the Legislature wished it.

At the office of Ira A. Place, chief counsel of the New York Central Railroad, it was said that the railroad had long sought on its own initative the right to change its present system on Eleventh Avenue, to electrify it, to run it closer to the water front, and to expend many millions of dollars in freight terminal facilities, and in parking the roadway through the Riverside and Fort Washington Park sections.

Clarence J. Shearn, counsel for the League to End Death Avenue; Assistant Corporation Counsel Burr, who conducted the city's legal battle to have its rights in the case adjudicated, and Albert J. Harris of the New York Central law department, though differing on many points, all agreed, in the light of the decision, that the McClelland-Walker bill, now before the Legislature, is constitutional. The opinion was generally expressed that this bill will be speeded to final passage, and will be approved by Mayor Gaynor, after which an agreement between the Board of Estimate and the New York Central Railroad will be made for the improvement work that will do away with the surface tracks.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—Wheat trading was in small volume, with a small net decline for the day. Continued reports of dry weather in the Central West and Southwest and of need of rain were used as supporting features, while the bull control of the Chicago market continued apparently complete, so that the trade was afraid to sell the near deliveries and all markets acted in sympathy. Reports from Chicago emphasized the bull control of the May and possibly July delivery and the tied-up congested state of the market. The news generally aside from the Winter wheat complaints was against values. The weather in the Northwest was favorable, and the crop there is developing auspiciously. The foreign markets were weak and lower, while foreign crop and weather news were favorable and foreign statistics were bearish. Exports of wheat from Australia last week were 808,000 bushels, against 736,000 bushels the previous week; Argentine, 2,720,000 bushels, against 2,480,000 bushels, and India, 1,144,000 bushels, against 1,000,000 bushels. Bradstreet's American exports were 3,560,000 bushels, against 3,132,000 bushels the previous week, and the world's export total was estimated at 16,360,000 bushels, a gain of 2,500,000 bushels compared with the previous week and of 6,300,000 compared with last year. These enormous shipments to importing Europe show not only that Europe must have wheat and that freely, but also that exporting countries are able to furnish it. There was a little export business in Manitoba wheat, with sales reported of 6 loads. No. 2 red was quoted at 99c, free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.08½; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.03, and No. 1 Manitoba, $1.03½.

CORN.—The market was quiet and comparatively firm. Prices eased off a little in sympathy with other grain, but there was an absence of pressure and selling was limited. While the demand for corn was slow and no export business was reported, the small movement from the country, small acceptances reported from day to day, and the heavy falling off in the actual receipts limits the selling pressure. The receipts for the day were only half of last week, and for five days the receipts have fallen off 1,500,000 bushels. Bradstreet's American exports were 936,000 bushels for the week, against 670,000 bushels the previous week. There were no Argentine shipments. Cash corn was firm, with No. 2 quoted at 60½c, free on board; steamer, 59½c, in elevator, export rate.

OATS.—Prices were firm early on the absence of rain in the Central West and Southwest, but a study of the weather map brought some selling. There was a low barometer throughout the entire region west of the Mississippi, and quite general showers were predicted. Cash oats were steady, with standards quoted at 40c; No. 2 white, 40½c; No. 3 white, 39¾c.

PROVISIONS were inactive, with prices showing very slight change. Hogs were lower, but after selling off a few points the market rallied and closed dull.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Efforts on the part of leading refining interests to establish a higher level of values are meeting with success, and general run of sentiment is more bullish as a result. There is far from a unanimity of opinion as to the motive in bringing about a higher level, some students of the situation asserting that the bull aggressiveness is for the purpose of stimulating consuming inquiry, while others claim that demand at present justifies the buying which is being witnessed. The firmness of crude and of the near months in the future market is pointed to, but it must be said that stocks of crude are admittedly light, and near positions of oil controlled for the most part by interests conspicuous on the bull side at present. Nevertheless, there is little disposition to antagonize the advancing tendency. Crude quoted at 5.47@5.60c. Cotton conditions slightly more favorable. Future quotations follow:

COTTON.

May and July options again overtopped their previous high levels, although other options showed decided heaviness during the day and appeared to be in the process of liquidation under cover of strength of the near months. The demand from shorts, with the Continent and Liverpool conspicuous in this respect, was of an incessant nature, principally for July, and the upward movement was checked only by selling orders placed at the will of the bulls. It was claimed that August was being sold as a hedge against purchases of other near months, with the assertion made that spot interests who have recently been heavy buyers of July, intending to deliver all undesirable cotton in Augus. New crop options yesterday plainly reflected improved weather conditions in the belt.

Opening values were from 3 to 15 points lower, the greatest weakness existing in the Winter months. Factors accountable for these substantial declines were rather disappointing Liverpool advices, reports of scattered rains east of the Mississippi, and an estimate by The New York Commercial. This journal had reports from its correspondents showing an increased acreage of 6.52 per cent., as compared with last year, the increases being reported from all stations except the Carolinas. The condition of the plant was said to be good with weather favorable for germination in nearly all sections.

For a time the support given to July by bulls, which intimidated shorts, had a sympathetic effect in other parts of the list, while unconfirmed rumors of large print-cloth sales and private cables stating that Manchester was sold ahead for seven months also restrained bear enthusiasm. Outside interests, however, are not inclined to take to the buying side, notwithstanding their abhorence in selling and recent buyers who attempted to liquidate on predictions of thunderstorms in the cotton belt for last night or to-day found only a limited demand. Trade buying October continues, but this is of a conservative character, much of the demand in the far months being based on large discounts prevailing; also on the theory that knowledge of an acreage increase has been partly discounted, while damage reports are to be expected, and with improved sentiment in business circles and prosperity abroad, a fairly good-sized crop will be a necessity, and a large crop not burdensome.

The closing prices were at practically the low of the day for new-crop months, while moderately bullish week-end statistics seemed to have been anticipated. The American visible is now below last year, amounting to 2,061,000 bales, against 2,062,000 in 1910. The decrease for the week was 124,000 bales, against a decrease of 157,000 bales last week, and 97,000 bales a year ago. Spinners' takings of American cotton were 192,000 bales, against 155,000 bales last year. Intosight for the season totaled to 11,564,000 bales, against 9,918,000 bales last year. Exports to date are approximately 1,600,000 bales in excess of last year.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Resale of the Charles W. Morse House on Fifth Avenue—Investors Buy West Side Apartments—Bronx and Suburban Deals.

One of the interesting features of the realty market yesterday was the sale of the old Charles W. Morse residence, at 728 Fifth Avenue, by John N. Golding, to a client. The property was sold for John E. Berwind, who bought it at foreclosure sale last October for $375,000, which was about $15,000 less than the mortgages and other liens. The house, which is a five-story modern building, on a plot 27 by 125, was sold a few years ago by Harry Payne Whitney to Charles W. Morse during the time that the latter was at the height of his financial success.

It adjoins the Whitney residence, standing about in the middle of the block on the west side of Fifth Avenue, between Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh Streets, and to the south is the fine residence of Mrs. Louis T. Hoyt. The house has not been occupied since it was vacated by Mr. Morse considerably over a year ago. Since that time it has figured in two or three sales, the plaintiff, Mr. Berwind, buying it in on each occasion.

When sold to Mr. Morse by Harry Payne Whitney the property was restricted to residential uses for ten years, and the restriction has about five or six years more to run. Mr. Golding would make no statement regarding the probable occpancy of the house, and declined at the present to name the buyer. In view of the price at the last foreclosure sale it is believed the consideration involved in the recent deal was close to, if not quite, $400,000.

$800,000 West Side Apartment Deal.

One of the important sales of the many during the week on the upper west side was concluded yesterday by N. A. Berwin, who sold for John Palmer to Patrick Kiernan the five-story apartment houses known as the Curtis and the Edinburgh, situated on the southeast corner of Amsterdam Avenue and Eighty-seventh Street, covering a plot 126.5 on the avenue by 97.6 on the street. This is the second sale of this property since the houses were built. They were erected by the D. Willis James estate, and are considered among the best constructed apartments on the west side. The property has been held at $800,000. This is the third apartment sold by Mr. Palmer in the last six weeks, the others being the Imperial, situated on the corner of Amsterdam Avenue and Eighty-fifth Street, and Temple Hall, on Lenox Avenue and 121st Street.

Investor Buys the Theresa.

The Theresa, a six-story apartment house, at 241 West 113th Street, has been purchased by Leo Platt for investment. Max N. Nathanson negotiated the sale for the owner, John Healy. The building, which occupies a plot 50 by 100.11, was held at $100,000. It was sold for cash.

The Marjorie, a similar apartment adjoining, was sold recently by the same broker for the Hennessy Realty Company.

The Private Dwelling Market.

Porter & Co. have sold for the Wells Holding Company, the three-story brownstone dwelling, located at 163 West 131st Street, size, 16 by 100.

Marion G. Hoey has sold 554 West 156th Street, a four-story house on lot 17 by 99.11, between Amsterdam Avenue and Broadway.

Mrs. John A. Pinard has sold her residence, 44 East Sixty-fifth Street, a four-story and basement dwelling, on lot 20 by 100.5, between Park and Madison Avenues. The buyer is a physician, who will occupy the house.

Investor Buys Harlem Flat.

Mrs. Mary Soloman has sold to an investor 60 East 122d Street, a five-story single flat, on a lot 21 by 100.11.

Bronx.

William Stonebridge has sold for Frank Poletchek to Hovaguem Demirjiar the three-story building, 2,390 Lorillard Place, near Third Avenue, the Bronx.

S. Edmund McRickard & Co. have sold for a client the three-story concrete block modern residence on the west side of De Voe Terrace, about 600 feet north of Fordham Road. The buyer will occupy.

Shaw & Co. have sold for Margaret J. Ellis 2,351 and 2,353 Jerome Avenue, two three-story brick and stone store and dwellings, on plot 36 by 80, to an investor.

Brooklyn.

Friday & Lehman have sold 21 Dewey Place, a two-story and cellar brick two-family dwelling for H. Belloff to a client, a plot 50 by 100 at Jamaica Gardens for M. C. Saltzsieder to a client, and 93 Covert Street, a two-story and basement and cellar two-family frame dwelling, for Helen Steffens to a client.

The Jerome Property Corporation has sold for H. Heghinian and P. Iskiyan the plot of ground 50 by 100 on the south side of Sixth Street, 97 feet 10¼ inches east of Fourth Avenue, to a client for improvement.

Isidor Taub has sold for Elizabeth Carmichel to J. Schmidt 151 Eighteenth Street, a three-story frame dwelling, with driveway adjoining, on a lot 25 by 100.2; also, for Augusta Jacobson 1,044 and 1,046 Fifty-ninth Street, two two-family frame houses. The buyer gave in exchange a farm of 112 acres at Bethel, Sullivan County, N. Y.

Dalmasse & Co. have sold a plot at the southwesterly corner of Eastern Parkway and Nostrand Avenue, running through to Union Street, for Elizabeth M. McLaughlin. Union Street is just being opened from Nostrand to Rogers Avenue. On the opposite corner a large row of apartments was erected two years ago. Also, a plot 60 by 100 feet on the south side of Eastern Parkway, between Kingston and Albany Avenues, for B. Jacobson.

Staten Island.

Cornelius G. Kolff has sold for the Queen Mab Realty Company to Frederick Boger the premises known as 64 St. Mark's Place, occupied by Charles Barton and opposite the residence of Senator Bayne, New Brighton, S. I.

Suburban.

Irving H. Wolfe has sold the Dunn tract at Lincoln, N. J., owned by Hugo Doernberg, to William B. McLain, President of the McLain Realty Company, which owns the adjoining tract and will lay it out in one-fourth-acre plots for home sites, in conjunction with their present holdings, making it one of the biggest developments of its kind in that section. The same broker has sold the Vail tract of seventy acres, situated at the junction of Inman Avenue and Dukes Lane, Rahway, N. J., to a corporation, which will commence improving it at once into a "little farm" proposition.

T. J. McCord has sold at Westbury, L. I., a plot, 100 by 150, on Union Avenue to Margaret L. Levi; a plot, 50 by 100, on Westbury Avenue to Charles Hannigan; a plot, 75 by 100, on Westbury Avenue to Oscar Wickey, and a plot, 100 by 100, on Broadway to Joseph Bruckner.

The Van Cortlandt Realty Company, Robert Louis Hoguet, President, has sold to the George Edgar Company, three vacant plots of land on Van Cortlandt Terrace, South Yonkers. They comprise Plot 58 on Fanshaw Avenue, 50 by 194; Plot 121, on the south side of Fanshaw Avenue, 112 feet west of Leighton Avenue, 60 by 104, and Plot 128, south side of Ellsworth Avenue, just west of Fanshaw Avenue, 50 by 132. David Stewart was the broker. The Edgar Company will erect three high-class residences, which they will place on the market.

S. Edmund McRickard & Co. have sold a fireproof terra cotta block bungalow on Keansburg Heights Beach, at Keansburg, N. J., to Thomas Hunt.

Studebaker Building Alterations.

Plans for altering the former Studebaker automobile building at the north end of Times Square, fronting on Forty-eighth Street, into an office structure were filed yesterday by the architects, Schwartz & Gross, at a cost of $120,000. Andre & Jacques Bustanoby, who acquired a ninety-nine years' lease on the property a short time ago from the Juilliard estate, recently turned out the lease to a syndicate headed by Jesse Froelich. The Bustanobys retain the ground floor for their proposed new restaurant. The building is a ten-story structure. The alterations involve the renewing of all partitions and stairs from the second floor to the top, installing new elevators, stair halls, and fire towers. The exterior will not be changed.

New Loft Near Fifth Avenue.

Plans have been filed for a twelve-story fireproof mercantile building on the south side of Forty-seventh Street, 100 feet west of Fifth Avenue, for Frederick Ayer of Boston, Mass., at a cost of $165,000. It will have a frontage of 64.4 feet and a depth of 92.5 feet, with a façade of brick with limestone and terra cotta trimmings. Maynicke & Franke are the architects.

Claremont Avenue Apartment.

Plans have been filed for a six-story apartment house on the east side of Claremont Avenue, 100.6 feet south of 125th Street, for the Clementine Realty Company, at a cost of $200,000. It will have a frontage of 150 feet and a depth of 86.6 feet, with accommodations for seventy-two families. Maximillian Zipkes is the architect.

Coenties Slip Improvement.

Plans have been filed with Building Supt. Miller for an eight-story ship chandlery house on the southwest corner of Coenties Slip and Water Street, for Baker, Carver & Morrell, at a cost of $80,000. The building will have a frontage of 43 feet and a depth of 76.6 feet, with a façade of brick, and will be fireproof. H. Craige Severance and Walter Schumm are the architects.

Notes.

The Willard S. Burrows Company negotiated the sale 108 and 110 East Thirty-fourth Street, a twelve-story office building, sold to the Childs Company Wednesday.

Albert B. Strange is the buyer of the dwelling at 111 East Seventieth Street, sold recently by Mrs. Oliver S. Lyford, Jr.

The Taylor-Sherman Company has placed a loan of $260,000 with the Zeigler estate on 598 Broadway, for Thomas Howell.

Wonderful Hearing Devices

THE ACOUSTICON is now being successfully operated in over 400 Churches throughout the country.

It enables people who are hard of hearing to distinguish every word of Sermons and Prayers, even in the rear pews of the Church.

This feature has added greatly to the attractiveness of these Churches for deaf people and their friends—they are showing it in their attendance and patronage.

Is also made for personal use and may be tested before it is purchased.

THE TURNER INTERIOR TELEPHONE is the most dependable, convenient and efficient Interior Telephone that modern science, combined with many years of experience in Electrical hearing devices, can produce.

It will work efficiently and persistently all the time—there is almost nothing to get out of order.

No mouthpiece—no germs—you may talk at 3 feet distance and be heard perfectly.

But see it at the Show—test it, and learn all its advantages.

THE DICTOGRAPH is the Instrument used by Detective Burns in recent famous cases to get evidence, etc. The daily papers have covered this fully in the past two weeks.

It also saves a vast amount of time to the busiest man in the modern office, bank, or institution.

He may dictate letters to his stenographer in the next room, or consult with a department-head four floors away, and not stand or sit within 10 feet of the instrument.

Or issue orders to his entire corps of managers at once, without leaving his chair.

THE GENERAL ACOUSTIC CO., K. M. Turner, President.

The Beautiful Painting

which is one of the striking pictures of the present London Royal Academy's Exhibition, called

"Poverty Clipping The Wings of Love" will be reproduced in full-page size in fine half tone on coated paper in

Next Sunday's Times

A smaller reproduction on April 30 brought forth many requests from TIMES readers for a larger copy of this painting and in response to this demand this full-page reproduction is made.

The artist, A. C. Cooke, illustrates in a new way in this painting the old adage "When Poverty comes in at the door, Love flies out at the window." It is full of sentiment and will be appreciated by all who see it.

Effective.

¶ Ruland & Whiting of 5 Beekman Street inserted the following advertisement in The New York Times:

A YOUNG MAN, 15 to 18, wanted by downtown real estate firm; must be American and of good address; salary, $10. E 309 Times Downtown.

¶ Among the replies received were one hundred and forty-five from young men eager to begin work at $10.00 a week.

¶ Many of the applicants are of good families, character, and habits, fresh from their studies and looking forward to the first step toward building their futures.

¶ The Times reaches the families, schools, and universities where well-trained, ambitious youths are prepared for their chance in the world. Just now, when schools and universities are preparing to send out their graduates, is the time when the discriminating employer should select his men for the future.

SAYS $400 BUILDING COSTS CITY $2,500

INVOLVES LEADER DOOLING

Material Stored In a Dilapidated House, If Destroyed, Would Disfranchise Thousands, It Is Said.

Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick submitted yesterday another supplementary report to Mayor Gaynor on his investigation of the old Board of Elections. He shows that the city is paying exhorbitant rent for a building at 1,231 Second Avenue for the storage of election paraphernalia. Also John T. Dooling, late President of the board, appears to have been active in the steps which led to the removal of the booths, boxes, &c., from the Globe Storage Company's warehouse to the building in question, which the Commissioner declares is dilapidated and unsafe.

The city is paying $2,500 a year for the building, and the Commissioner declares that less than three months before the contract was entered into the lessor was obtaining only $400 a year for it. The Commissioner further points out that the property stored in the building is worth $25,000, and that the rental charged by the Globe company was only $2,000 a year. He adds:

It appears that this property at 1,231 Second Avenue was originally owned by the estate of A. Beekman Cox. In 1901 Mr. Cox leased the property to one Strauss for $400 per annum for the first ten years and $500 per annum for the second ten years.

In November, 1901, Strauss sold his interest in the above lease to one John M. Wood for $4,000. On Jan. 13, 1909, Wood sold his interest in this same lease to Charles J. O'Sullivan, a junior assistant in the Corporation Counsel's office. According to O'Sullivan the total payment approximated $2,500. A month later O'Sullivan sublet the building to John J. O'Connor for ten years at a rental of $2,000 per year, and in April, 1909, O'Connor leased the building to the Board of Elections for five years at $2,500 per year.

These facts take on a peculiar significance in the light of the testimony of John M. Wood, who sold his interest in the lease to O'Sullivan. Mr. Wood testified before us that John T. Dooling, an attorney, and at that time President of the Board of Elections, represented him in the transfer. According to Wood, Dooling induced him to sign a release in blank, and subsequently secured O'Sullivan as a purchaser. O'Sullivan testified that he was acting in the transaction as attorney for O'Connor, although he insisted that he was himself financially interested in the lease.

O'Connor, who leased the property to the Board of Elections, is an employe of an undertaker on First Avenue. He stated that he had leased the property for stable purposes from Mr. O'Sullivan because he had heard that there was to be a market located under the Queensboro Bridge. He further stated that Mr. O'Sullivan was not interested with him in his business venture. He was subsequently recalled, and materially altered his testimony to the effect that Mr. O'Sullivan and he had been jointly interested in the proposition, and had together purchased the lease from Mr. Wood.

Fosdick says that when Dooling was called to the stand he refused to answer all questions relative to the matter except to declare that the property had been removed from the Globe warehouse because the officers of the company refused to renew its contract. The Commissioner says this was denied by the President of the company.

"Mr. Dooling's failure to reply to our questions has been referred to the Corporation Counsel, and we are informed that an application will be made to the Supreme Court for an order to show cause why the witness should not be punished for contempt.

"Whatever may have been Mr. Dooling's relation to the transaction, sufficient evidence is at hand to indicate a deliberately conceived plan to saddle the city with an excessive rental for an undesirable and unsafe building. The material now stored at 1,231 Second Avenue is sufficient to equip 400 polling places. Its destruction by fire would seriously cripple the election machinery of the city. In fact, if destroyed at a time when replacement was impossible 25 per cent. of the voting population would be practically disfranchised."

Fosdick concludes by recommending that the Board of Elections take immediate steps to remove the material from the building, and that the Corporation Counsel be instructed to ascertain whether or not it is possible to break the lease.

Dooley is one of the prominent Tammany men who deserted the organization to aid Mayor McClellan in his fight against it in 1906.

SAYS HE BEAT THE SHERIFF.

Newark Detective Reports That Kelly Reviled Him, and He Resented It.

Detective Sergeant Horter of Newark reported to his chief yesterday that in the early hours of the morning he had knocked down Sheriff James Kelly of Hudson County. A man posing as Kelly applied for assistance at Newark Police Headquarters, and Horter was assigned to accompany him in an automobile in search of a prisoner.

They had not driven far, Horter says, when Kelly called him a nasty name, and repeated it with variations, although Horter told him what might happen if he did. Horter reports that he punched him in the jaw and knocked him down twice. By the time the pair had returned to headquarters Sergt. Tracey managed to separate them.

Kelly's assistant in Jersey City was loath to believe that his chief had been "done up" in Newark, and gave it as his belief that the person referred to was some one impersonating Hudson County's Sheriff. Kelly himself could not be found.

WANTED FOR MURDER, SUES.

Fugitive Who Won't Leave Turkey Seeks Civil Justice Here.

Papers were served yesterday on Dominic and Daniel Faour, bankers, at 63 Washington Street, in a novel suit for damages. The service was made in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Jersey City, where the brothers were witnesses in a murder trial.

The suit, for $10,000, was brought by Nema Rizk, a fugitive from justice, now residing in Turkey. The Faour brothers foreclosed a mortgage on Rizk, who was operating a silk mill at 516 Monastery Street, West Hoboken, and put Joseph Couri in possession. On the morning of Jan. 28, 1907, a dozen or more men charged on the silk mill to take it away from Couri, shots were fired, and Couri was shot and killed.

The police rounded up seven men, including Peter Orraye, and they were charged with murder. Nema Rizk, who was one of the raiding party, made his escape to Turkey; so did Orraye. The six men who were held went to trial and were acquitted. Orraye came back to West Hoboken when he learned that an indictment against him had been nolle prossed. He was reindicted and rearrested, and his trial, now in progress, will probably be concluded on Monday.

Prosecutor Garven of Hudson County tried to get Rizk back here, but learned that, in the absence of a treaty between this country and Turkey, he couldn't get his man. However, Rizk was put in prison in Turkey. When the present Sultan was proclaimed, he issued a general amnesty, liberating all prisoners confined within two years' time, and Rizk got his freedom. Although he is still wanted here he seeks damages from the Faour brothers for taking possession of his silk mill. The question the Circuit Court of New Jersey will have first to decide in this suit is whether a plantiff whose deportation from Turkey was sought for alleged murder can sue.

OPERATES ON PARK LIONESS.

Keeper Snyder Cuts an Ingrowing Nail from "Mrs. Rose's" Foot.

A pedecuring feat fraught with danger and accomplished only after much struggling was performed in the Central Park Zoo last night, when "Mrs. Rose," a lioness, was separated from an ingrowing toenail from which she had been suffering for more than a week. The operation was a roaring success.

Head Keeper Snyder, who hasn't hitherto trespassed into the dainty field of the chiropodist, qualified as an expert last night with a pocket knife and a pair of pliers. His assistants, Robert Horton and George Sichert, stood by with a long rope at the end of which was a running noose. "Mrs. Rose," who is the mother of the Zoo lioness Helen and a grandmother of four cubs, lay in the back of her cage nursing her paw.

Snyder took the rope, climbed to the top of the cage, and dropped the noose over the suffering old lioness's head. Then with the help of Sichert and Horton he dragged her to the front of the cage until her tortured paw protruded through the bars. Sichert and Horton strained at the rope, tugging "Mrs. Rose's" by no means toothless jaws safely away from the field of operations. Snyder tied down her feet.

A few deft touches of the knife and the pliers took out the ingrowing nail. "Mrs. Rose" did not take the treatment in over-kindly spirit, and, despite the choking hold of the rope at her neck, woke the echoes in the Park. She woke also her daughter Helen and her grandcubs. They in turn woke more echoes and a few residents on Fifth Avenue just outside the Park.

But by that time the offending nail was out, and Snyder—who like a fond parent feels more than his pets the pain he sometimes must inflict—shook "Mrs. Rose's" cured paw just by way of congratulation and old friendship.

HOLLANDER TWICE PAID.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The House Committee on Expenditures in the State Department had a hearing to-day, at which the fact was brought out that Dr. Jacob H. Hollander, Professor of Political Economy at Johns Hopkins University, appears to have been twice paid for his services in connection with the special mission to investigate and report on the public debt of Santo Domingo.

Dr. Hollander was appointed by President Roosevelt in 1905 as Special Commissioner to ascertain and report as to the debts of the island.

This service of Dr. Hollander ran along for several years. Occasionally he made brief visits to the island, and from time to time submitted reports, and finally a general plan for the effective settlement of the debts which had for many years been a continual source of annoyance to the United States Government.

Dr. Hollander made a claim for payment for his services, and Mr. Root approved the payment to him of the sum of $40,000 in full, as it was supposed, for his labors down to Aug. 1, 1908. It was disclosed to-day that the State Department had been notified by the Santo Domingo Government that subsequently to the date named Dr. Hollander had presented claims for further payment and that Santo Domingo had paid him $100,000.

As this Government has not considered Dr. Hollander in its employ since the date named, the department notified the Dominican Republic that this Government did not consider Dr. Hollander in the service to which Mr. Roosevelt had called him after Aug. 1, 1908.

The incident caused no little comment. There seems to be no violation of any statute, and it does not seem likely that either Government may claim any undue payment.

NOT ON HAND FOR SENTENCE.

Convicted Lawyer's Absence from New Brunswick Doesn't Worry Court.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 19.—Harry B. Cook, a lawyer who was convicted of obtaining money under false pretenses after two trials and who was to have been sentenced to-day, was out of town when sentence time arrived. Where he has gone or what his intentions are have not been definitely ascertained.

"Mr. Cook went away early this morning," his wife told a reporter. "His daughter went with him, and he went to see a party whom he though could give his assistance in his difficulty. He does not intend to remain away. I have his word for it, and I have not the least doubt on the subject. His mother is prostrated, and he is not the man to leave her in that condition. He will be here when he is wanted. I believe he purposes to see Judge Daly and Prosecutor Booraem when he returns."

Court officials were inclined to believe that Mr. Cook's absence was only temporary. Prosecutor Booraem did not move for sentence because of representations that the defendant was too ill to appear. The defendant is not under bonds. Cook is a prominent Democratic politician and has been practicing at the Middlesex bar for twenty-nine years. His work was mostly criminal cases.

NEW LIBRARY READY TO OPEN ON TUESDAY

ADVICE THAT WASN'T USED

Such as Reproducing the Tombs Over the Old Reservoir to Preserve Egyptian Architecture.

Dr. John S. Billings's dream of a complete public library system for this city has at last come true. At a press view yesterday afternoon of the new public library at Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street, which has now been scrubbed and swept to spotless cleanliness in preparation for the formal opening at 2 o'clock next Tuesday, Dr. Billings told how he had accepted the directorship of the library system to accomplish four definite purposes and how now he had seen them all grow under his hands to their completion. The last end to be accomplished was the great new library.

Assembling the score or more reporters into a lecture room next to his private office, before conducting them through the "marble materialization of a booklover's dream," Dr. Billings disclosed his ambitions for a public library system.

"I wanted first of all," said he, "to see the erection of a big, handsome library building, centrally located, which should be the business and administrative centre of the system. I wanted also to see a wise distribution of branch libraries all over the city. My third hope and aim was to have the system acquire a sufficient number and variety of books. When I became director there were only about 480,000 books in the central libraries. I wanted to see that number increased at least to a million. The fourth and last aim was to organize a complete and efficient library staff so that the public could be served with books promptly and efficiently. The last three have been accomplished, the first, that with which we are most concerned to-day, is about to be realized.

"When we began to talk about erecting a new library we got a great deal of advice, some of which we asked for, and some of which came anyway. One bit of the latter class I recall now. This person wrote that the city had but two specimens of Egyptian architecture. One was the reservoir which was located on this site, the other the Tombs Prison. It would be a great pity for the city to lose both, this adviser thought, and suggested that the two be combined for library purposes by a reproduction of the Tombs over the reservoir.

"The advice wasn't acted upon, and the city has lost its examples of Egyptian architecture, but I determined that we shouldn't have a big circular reading room, but a rectangular building and a rectangular reading room. Too much space is lost in a big dome, such as usually covers a circular reading room, and the British Museum headaches from such an arrangement are too well-known to those who have used that building for the employment of such a building as a model here. I didn't want the books brought in from the side over a long railway. I drew on a small piece of card board a diagram of a building which I believed would best suit the purposes of the city. It was a rectangular building, with the main reading room on the top floor over the book stacks.

"The book stacks should have space for at least 1,000,000 volumes, and the stacks should be accessible for the reception of books from three sides, while light should be admitted from the fourth. The books themselves should be pumped up to the reading room by a sufficient number of electric lifts. With the people accustomed here as they are to the use of elevators I had not doubt they would be perfectly willing to go to the third floor to use the reading room.

"I wanted also to have a number of special libraries, such as for social science and political economy, in charge of experts in those departments with convenient reading rooms. I wanted also to have a small number of special studies for those worthy of them, where a real student might have all the books on a particular subject he was investigating and a stenographer and pursue his work uninterrupted. These things have all been provided."

As Dr. Billings led the way through the building it became apparent that every room and every department was fully ready for the opening. Every desk was in place, every table, and every book. Sweepers and scrubbers were putting on the finishing polishes, and spick and span condition is assured for Tuesday, when some 15,500 persons have been invited to inspect the building.

Five hundred of this number, composed largely of National, State, and city officials, have been invited to witness the dedication exercises in the main vestibule overlooking Fifth Avenue at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The programme for these exercises is now complete. It will consist of an opening prayer by Bishop Greer, delivery of the keys of the building by Thomas Hastings of Carrere & Hastings, the architects; addresses by Park Commissioner Stover, Mayor Gaynor, John Bigelow, George L. Rives, Gov. Dix, and President Taft, with a benediction by Archbishop Farley.

In a conspicuous place at the Forty-second Street entrance is a bronze tablet giving a complete historical outline of the building, including a memorial to one King and five Mayors. Here it is:

This building is erected upon a part of the common lands which were granted by royal charter to the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commonalty of the City of New York in 1686, the second year of the reign of James II., King of England. The City of New York in 1897, William L. Strong, Mayor, undertook to construct at public expense a building upon this site, to be used and occupied by the New York Public Library, Astor, Lenox, and Tilden Foundations, so long as it should maintain a free library and reading room for the people.

Work was begun by the city in 1899, Robert Anderson Van Wyck being Mayor. The cornerstone was laid in 1902, Seth Low being Mayor. This building was completed in 1908, George Brinton McClellan being Mayor. It was opened to the public in 1911, William Jay Gaynor being Mayor.

The cost is not mentioned, but the official guide book puts it at $9,000,000.

Jersey Central Provides for Family of Man Killed in Its Service.

It was announced yesterday in Newark that the Central Railroad of New Jersey had agreed to pay $7,500 to the heirs of Edward Saunders of Point Pleasant, N. J., in settlement of a claim for the latter's death on Easter Sunday. Saunders, who was 60 years old, was a baggageman, and was killed in an effort to save a man and three aged women from being run down by a northbound express train at the Elizabeth Avenue Station, Elizabethport. He succeeded in saving the man, but he and the women were killed.

On behalf of the heirs of Saunders ex-Judge Wilbur A. Heisley put in a claim for $7,500. Jackson E. Reynolds, counsel for the railroad, notified Mr. Heisley that the company would pay the claim, and that the officers felt that such acts of loyal service to the company deserved the highest recognition.

Ward Estate Worth $4,364,737.

ESTAB OVER HALF A CENTURY

YEAR FOR CHAUFFEUR WHO MISUSED AUTO

Kept It Out All Night Joy Riding and Returned It to the Garage. Much Damaged.

REPROVED BY THE COURT

Putting an Owner to the Expense of Running the Machine Without Permission Held to be Petty Larceny.

Characterizing him as a joy riding, thieving chauffeur, Judge Foster in General Sessions, yesterday sentenced John Cush of 344 Amsterdam Avenue to one year in the penitentiary. Cush was indicted for grand larceny, but the jury found him guilty of petty larceny. He was the first person to be convicted under the new automobile law, which makes it a felony for a chauffeur to take out his employer's automobile without permission.

Up to March 22 last Cush was employed as a chauffeur by Simon J. Klee of 2 West Eighty-ninth Street. On the evening of that day he took Mrs. Klee home from the opera and was instructed to take the machine back to the garage at once. Instead the chauffeur took several friends out for a ride, and was arrested early the next morning for intoxication and reckless driving. Mr. Klee appeared against him in the court and preferred a charge of grand larceny against the chauffeur, saying that $468 damage had been done to the automobile.

The jury took the view that the use of the car and the wear on the tires, together with the consumption of the gasoline and oil, constituted petty larceny. In passing sentence Judge Foster said:

"The law provides that the taking of any one's automobile and operating it for the purpose of the taker and for the use of the taker, without the owner's permission, is plain, every-day larceny, and, therefore, the joy riding chauffeur is a plain, every-day thief. There is good sense in this law. The use of a motor car wears out expensive tires, it consumes gasoline, it consumes lubricating oil, it costs at least 5 cents a mile to run such a car as you ran from 10 o'clock at night to 3 in the morning.

"Instead of taking the car to the garage as ordered, you filled it with other drinking chauffeurs, and went carousing around the city in a reckless manner, endangering the lives of citizens. You were so drunk yourself that you could hardly operate the car, and could hardly crank it when arrested. That is the testimony."

After making some further remarks about the law Judge Foster sentenced the prisoner as severely as the law allowed.

Commerce Commission Upholds 3-Cent Rate for Inter-State Travel.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission handed down a number of orders to-day relating to passenger and freight rates. One permits, until May 1, 1912, railways operating in Central Passenger Association territory, including the States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Michigan, to exact higher passenger fares for inter-State than for intra-State business where State Legislatures or State commissions have established a two-cent-a-mile rate.

The carriers in such instances are forced by State Railroad Commissions or by State Legislatures to apply on all intra-State passenger business a maximum fare of 2 cents a mile. This would result, through the application of the long-and-short-haul provision of the law, in a maximum rate of 2 cents a mile throughout the territory.

In the hearing before the commission the railroads declared their intention to test before the courts the validity of the two-cent-a-mile restriction in fares on intra-State business. At present, there is no distinction between inter-State and intra-State passenger business.

Visiting Conductors Entertain.

The El Capitan Division, No. 116, of the Order of Railway Conductors, to the number of fifty-seven, with their wives, gave a farewell dinner on board their special train last night in honor of the members of the New York Committee of the Order of Railway Conductors, who have been entertaining them in this city. All of the members of the El Capitan Division are conductors on the Southern Pacific in California. They attended the recent annual convention of their order at Jacksonville, Fla.
